Assignor Has No Power over Property After Assignment. — After a debtor has assigned for benefit of creditors, he has no rights whatever in the assigned estate. Silsby v. Strong, 38 Oregon 36.

Assignee Takes Title as Trustee. — In re Passmore, 194 Pa. St. 632.

Creditor's Right to Sue Not Suspended. — "The statute governing voluntary assignments of debtors for the benefit of creditors does not suspend the creditor's right to maintain an action at any time for the recovery of a personal judgment against the assignor for the amount due." New Albany Mfg. Co. v. Sulzer, 29 Ind. App. 89.

99. 1. See Rand v. Francis, 168 Ill. 444. Compare Barnhart's Estate, 13 York Leg. Rec. (Pa.) 129.

But a Landlord's Subsisting Lien for Rent is enforceable against the assignee. Maverick v. Skinner, (Tex. Civ. App. 1899) 50 S. W. Rep. 640. See generally the title LANDLORD AND TENANT, 330. 6.

Iumbia Finance, etc., Co. v. Morgan, (Ky. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 389.

Exempt Property. — In Florida, by statute, a vendor has a claim against property otherwise exempt, and without attacking an assignment for creditors may proceed against the property on which the debt is due. Cator v. Blount, 41 Fla. 138.

Necessity of Recording. — See Morgan Mach. Co. v. Rauch, 84 Mo. App. 514.

100. 3. Liens for Improvements. — One who has furnished to the assignee materials that go to improve the estate will have a preference over the general creditors. Mann v. Wakefield, 11 Pa. Super. Ct. 18.

A Mechanic's Lien Filed After an Assignment for the benefit of creditors, but within the ninety days prescribed by statute for the filing of such liens, is effective as against such assignment. John P. Kane Co. v. Kinney, 174 N. Y. 69, reversing 68 N. Y. App. Div. 163, and affirming (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 35 Misc. (N. Y.) 4; Armstrong v. Borden's Condensed Milk Co., 174 N. Y. 510, reversing 65 N. Y. App. Div. 503.

4. Judgment and Execution Liens existing prior to the assignment are not affected thereby. Glanz v. Smith, 177 Ill. 156; Fair Hope North Savage Fire Brick Co.'s Estate, 183 Pa. St. 96; Merchants Bank v. Ballou, 98 Va. 112, 81 Am. St. Rep. 715; Elliott v. Hamilton, 4 Ont. L. Rep. 585. See also Second Ward Sav. Bank v. Schranck, 97 Wis. 250, holding unconstitutional a statute that provided for the dissolution of a levy by an assignment made within ten days after such levy. So an assignment does not oust a prior attachment. Re Thompson, 17 Ont. Pr. 109.

But a judgment recovered after the assignment has no priority over the assignment. Kaughran v. H. B. Claffin Co., 22 N. Y. App. Div. 149; Irwin v. Lloyd, 65 Ohio St. 55; Shimp's Estate, 197 Pa. St. 128.

Judgment Creditors — Assignee's Sale. — A court will not order a sale by an assignee on terms less favorable to a judgment creditor than he could get by a sheriff's sale that he had taken steps to procure. Bosworth's Assignment, 7 Pa. Dist. 470.

Judgment Lien Does Not Attach on Rents Collected by Assignee. — Mann v. Poole, 48 S. Car. 154.

101. 4. Assignee Takes Subject to Mortgage Liens. — Sweet, etc., Co. v. Union Nat. Bank, 149 Ind. 305, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 101; Matter of Windhorst, 107 Iowa 58; Lancaster County Bank v. Gillilan, 49 Neb. 165; Adair v. Blackburn, 60 Ohio St. 575; Grube v. Lilienthal, 51 S. Car. 442; Stainback v. Junk Bros. Lumber, etc., Co., 98 Tenn. 306. See also Garner v. Fry, 104 Iowa 515; Ringen Stove Co. v. Bowers, 109 Iowa 175.

Where a mortgage pledges the rents, profits, etc., to the mortgagee, the lien of his mortgage, as against the assignee, extends to such rents and profits to the extent necessary for his security. Hutchinson v. Straub, 64 Ohio St. 413, 83 Am. St. Rep. 764.

Agreement to Sell Free of Lien. — An assignee and a mortgagee may agree that the assigned estate be sold free of the mortgage lien. In re McFadden, 191 Pa. St. 624.

A Chattel Mortgage Given to Secure Fees of an Attorney for services rendered in connection with the assignment for creditors has been held to take no priority. In re Merling, 5 Ohio Dec. 390.

Effect of Failure to Record. — A mortgage not recorded until after the assignment constitutes no lien against the general creditors of the mortgagor assignor. In re H. G. Andrae Co., 117 Fed. Rep. 561. See also El Reno First Nat. Bank v. Saylor, 4 Okla. 408.

Where, pursuant to agreement, a mortgage was not recorded for four years, and the purpose was to mislead as to the mortgagor's credit, the creditors under an assignment were held to have preference. Kickbusch v. Corwith, 108 Wis. 634.

But an unrecorded chattel mortgage made prior to an assignment is paramount as against an assignee who knew of its existence. Canfield v. Lathrop, 4 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 51, 1 Cleve. L. Rec. 67.

In Nebraska it has been held that an unrecorded mortgage is a valid lien against an assigned estate except as against other creditors having recorded mortgages. Blair State Bank v. Stewart, 57 Neb. 58.

102. 1. Equitable Lien. — See Textor v. Orr, 86 Md. 392.

2. Attachment Before Assignment Recorded. — Where the assignee took possession before the levy by creditors such possession was held to be good against them although the assignment was not recorded until the next day. Feltenstein v. Stein, 157 Ill. 19.

104. 12. As to the Jurisdiction of Particular Courts, under the statutes of the various states, see Sterns Paper Co. v. Williams, 178 Ill. 626; Podolski v. Stone, 186 Ill. 540; Osborne v. Williams, 34 Ill. App. 421; Taylor v. Seiter, 100 Ill. App. 643; Smith v. Sulzer Mach. Co., (Ky. 1899) 51 S. W. Rep. 449; Howland's Appeal, 67 N. H. 575; *Gilroy v. 106. 1. The Vesting of an Assigned Estate, under a state statute, in an assignee does not prevent a federal court in a proper case from entering judgment against the assignor. Jensen-King-Byrd Co. v. Williams, 35 Wash. 161.

Jurisdiction on Removal. — A bill having been filed in a state court to administer properties of a trust estate over which such court had jurisdiction, parts of which were in each of two federal districts, upon removal to the federal court it has the same jurisdiction over the land in the other division of the district. Memphis Sav. Bank v. Houchens, (C. C. A.) 115 Fed. Rep. 96.

2. Subject to Taxation. — In re Lewis Invest. Co., (Iowa 1902) 89 N. W. Rep. 218; Youtsey v. Com., 110 Ky. 555; Matter of Ginsburg, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 27 Misc. (N. Y.) 745; French v. Bobe, 64 Ohio St. 323; Carey v. Foster, 7 Wyo. 216.

Delay in Presenting Claim. — When the tax bill was not presented within two years of the assignment, and was presented subsequent to a motion to confirm a referee's report on an assignee's accounting, the taxes will not be paid until payment of costs, commissions, and expenses. Matter of Bowlby, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 34 Misc. (N. Y.) 311.

109. 5. Duties of Assignee Prescribed by Statute. — In Kansas an assignee is a statutory officer, having no powers except such as are expressly derived from the statutes. Kohn v. Hine, 7 Kan. App. 776.

The assignee represents creditors under the Minnesota statute in that he can attack all fraudulent transfers. Thomas Mfg. Co. v. Drew, 69 Minn. 69.

110. 3. Failure to Give Bond. — In Michigan, if a bond is not filed within ten days, together with the deed of assignment or a duplicate thereof, and a list of the creditors, the assignee, as such, cannot bring an action. McCuaig v. City Sav. Bank, 111 Mich. 356.

Assignee Has No Right to Possession until Bond Is Filed. — Martin Browne Co. v. Morris, 1 Indian Ter. 495.

111. 3. No Right to Possession until Inventory Filed. — Martin Browne Co. v. Morris, 1 Indian Ter. 495.

4. Possession by Assignee. — An assignee who has denied that goods in his possession belonged to him may still claim them as a part of the estate. Lanahan v. Drew, 72 Ill. App. 203.

If an assignor remains in possession it is an incident from which fraud may be inferred, but proof of good faith overcomes such inference. Robinson v. Worley, (Ky. 1897) 42 S. W. Rep. 95.

An assignment for the benefit of creditors must be accompanied by an immediate delivery, followed by an actual and continued change of possession. Wright v. Lee, 10 S. Dak. 263. See also Lindsay v. Union Surety, etc., Co., 199 Pa. 206.

113. 2. Assignee's Liability Personal. — A trustee of an assigned estate is personally liable on contracts entered into as trustee. Wells-Stone Mercantile Co. v. Grover, 7 N. Dak. 460. So an assignee who, before his appointment, guaranteed payment for goods ordered before the assignment cannot thereby charge the estate. Roozen v. Clonin, 13 N. Y. App. Div. 190.

3. Duty as to Converting and Distributing Trust Property. — Foster Woolen Co. v. Wollman, 87 Mo. App. 658.

Assignee Has Same Power to Convert Assets as Receiver. — Charles Beck Paper Co. v. Bates Paper Box Co., 7 Pa. Dist. 477, 21 Pa. Co. Ct. 401.

Distribution as Ordered by Court. — In New Hampshire Trust Co. v. Taggart, 68 N. H. 557, it was said to be the assignee's duty to preserve the property, convert the assets into cash, and make such distribution as the court may order.

4. Discretion of Assignee. — An assignee has the right to complete a house, putting it into such a condition as to sell at a profit. Messersmith's Estate, 1 Dauphin Co. Rep. (Pa.) 223.

A court will not set aside a deed of assignment because the assignee seems to have delayed unreasonably in the sale of the property when he shows that there was no market and that he thought best not to sell until conditions were better. Hull v. Evans, 59 S. W. Rep. 851, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 1118.

Statutory Provisions. — See Peele v. Ohio, etc., Oil Co., 158 Ind. 374; Gibbs v. Montcalm Circuit Judge, 123 Mich. 615.

Employment of the Assignor as Clerk in the sale of the goods does not invalidate the assignment. Hurst v. Leckie, 97 Va. 550, 75 Am. St. Rep. 798.

4. Consent of Creditors. — When an assignee sells the entire estate under an agreement that the vendor shall assume all the debts, and the creditors consent to the sale on those terms, they cannot object to the transfer of cash in hand, as it is a part of the estate. Louisville Ins. Co. v. Tate, 74 S. W. Rep. 722, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 61.

7. Sale of Realty — Order of Court. — Where it was doubtful whether the property was sufficient to pay the debts, an order of sale was held to be properly granted, in the sound discretion of the court, and necessary to make the title safe and the sale more advantageous. In re White, 178 Pa. St. 280.

that a provision in the deed of assignment that the assignee should sell choses in action "as required by law" was void, since it was the assignee's duty to collect, not to sell, them.

115. 4. Notice of Sale to Creditors. — Bristol Sav. Bank v. Judd, 116 Iowa 26.

Where there was not proper notice of sale, and the assignee sold at auction property worth three thousand dollars for a nominal sum, he was surcharged with the value of the property. Bailey's Assignment, 27 Pittsb. Leg. J. N. S. (Pa.) 110.

7. Assignee May Not Purchase at Sale. — See Allison's Estate, 183 Pa. St. 555; Nabours v. McCord, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 75 S. W. Rep. 827.

In Durfee v. Harper, 22 Mont. 354, it was held that an assignee might bid for a third person when all the parties knew the facts.

A sale at which the trustee for creditors purchases is not void as to creditors who claim not under, but in opposition to, the assignment. Wade v. Odle, 21 Tex. Civ. App. 656.

An Inspector of an Insolvent Estate cannot purchase, on his own account, any part of the estate. Gastonguay v. Savoie, 29 Can. Sup. Ct. 613.

116. 2. Assignee's Duty as to Taxes. — Baron v. Whiteside, 89 Md. 448, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 116; Starkey v. Wainright, 9 Ohio Dec. 436.

3. Duty as to Accounts. — A failure of the assignee to keep accurate accounts, and to keep the funds of the trust separate from his own, will raise a presumption against him, and furnish a good reason for charging against him all that can be reasonably charged. Milburn Mfg. Co. v. Wayland, (Tenn. Ch. 1896) 43 S. W. Rep. 129. See also Matter of Thoesen, 62 N. Y. App. Div. 87; Thompson v. Rich, (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 28 Misc. (N. Y.) 265; *Zivley v. Lampasas First Nat. 117. 1. Assignee Making Profit from His Position. — An assignee who buys at his own sale and then sells to one to whom the assignor had contracted to convey must account for the price received from the vendee rather than the amount of the auction bid. Mitchell v. Tyler, (Ky. 1899) 49 S. W. Rep. 422.

Bribe to Inspector of Insolvent Estate. — An agreement for a payment to an inspector of an insolvent estate to influence his consent to an agreement which is not for the general benefit of the creditors is a bribe which is, in itself, sufficient to render corrupt, fraudulent, and void the transaction to induce which it was given. Brigham v. La Banque Jacques-Cartier, 30 Can. Sup. Ct. 429.

2. Sale of Assignee's Own Property to Assignor Proper. — Simpson v. Greenwell, (Ky. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 433.

3. Assignee's Right to Reimbursement. — Armour v. Doig, (Fla. 1903) 34 So. Rep. 249, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 117; J. I. Case Plow Works v. Edwards, 176 Ill. 34; *Hauze v. 125. 4. Assignee's Liability for Rent. — See note 2.

120. 2. Where Assignor Effected a Composition. — Where, upon a composition, the assignee refused to reassign unless he be allowed to retain his statutory fee and be released, it was held that a release given could not be avoided for duress, since the New York statute does not prevent an agreement by the assignor to pay more than the statutory fee, provided only that the creditor's interests have been disposed of. McCann v. O'Brien, 40 N. Y. App. Div. 193.

Where the Assignee Sold a Creditor's Collateral he was held to be entitled to commissions only on the surplus that went to swell the funds of the estate. Matter of Talmage, 39 N. Y. App. Div. 466.

3. Where the Assignor Became Bankrupt within four months after the assignment it was held that as the assignment was a violation of the bankruptcy law and the assignee was the agent of the assignor he could recover no allowance over the actual and necessary expense in the management of the estate. In re Mays, 114 Fed. Rep. 600.

121. 1. As to the Right of the Assignee under the various statutes to final settlement of his account and discharge from his trust, see Knoedler v. Teegarden, 72 S. W. Rep. 268, 24 Ky. L. Assignee Liable for Conversion. — Jones v. McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co., (C. C. A.) 82 Fed. Rep. 295.

Assignor and Assignee in Collusion. — Where the assignee knows of a collusive judgment confessed by the assignor and enters into the fraud he will be surcharged with the loss thereby sustained by the estate. In re Bailey, 188 Pa. St. 590.

Assignee's Liability to Assignor for Exempt Property. — Where an assignor is entitled to exemptions a refusal by the assignee to pay over the amount will render him personally liable for the money. Overley v. Given, (Ky. 1899) 52 S. W. Rep. 1059.

When Assignee Not Liable. — An assignee is not liable for loss resulting from the authorized act of a duly appointed receiver. D. Keefer Milling Co. v. Covington First Nat. Bank, (Ky.

1896) 37 S. W. Rep. 265. Nor is he liable for loss caused by an error of judgment where he acted in good faith and with fair discretion. J. I. Case Plow Works v. Edwards, 71 Ill. App. 655. So an assignee is not liable on a contract of his assignor when he had no notice of such a contract. Wallace v. Wold, 4 Ohio Cir. Dec. 475.

122. 6. Lacy v. Gunn, 144 Cal. 511; J. I. Case Plow Works v. Edwards, 176 Ill. 34.

Inventory by Assignor. — An assignee will not be surcharged with the difference between the inventory value and the sum realized when the assignor filed the inventory. Matter of Ginsburg, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 27 Misc. (N. Y.) 745.

Liability Not for Appraised Value. — An assignee should not be charged with the appraised value of goods, but the auditor must ascertain the actual value, and that is the right basis for a restatement of the account. Powell's Estate, 7 Pa. Dist. 27.

124. 2. General Rule as to Intent. — An assignee should try to invest the trust funds, and failing to do so he will be charged interest. Lane's Appeal, 24 Pa. St. 487.

Delay in Paying Dividends. — An assignee who without any apparent reason delays in the distribution of dividends is chargeable with interest thereon. Morris v. Ellis, (Tenn. Ch. 1901) 62 S. W. Rep. 250.

125. 2. Assignee Not Bound to Accept Leasehold. — Judd v. Bennett, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 28 Misc. (N. Y.) 558; Wilder v. McDonald, 63 Ohio St. 383, quoting 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 125.

Illinois Rule. — In Illinois the assignee may elect whether he shall retain the rights under a lease to his assignor, and if he retain the lease his liability therefor is personal. Reynolds v. Fuller, 64 Ill. App. 134. The assignee has a reasonable time in which to decide whether he will retain a lease owned by his assignor, but is chargeable with rent pro rata for the time he occupies the premises. Rand v. Francis, 168 Ill. 444.

The Mississippi Statute making a lessor who distrains on an assignee of the lessee for rent liable for contempt does not prevent him from claiming funds accruing from a sale of such goods, in the hands of the assignee. Rice v. Harris, 76 Miss. 422.

Liability on Covenants. — An assignee who takes a lease as an asset of an estate is not liable on the covenants thereon maturing before his acceptance. Walton v. Stafford, 14 N. Y. App. Div. 310.

Liability Not Avoided by Abandonment. — Having elected to accept a lease the assignee cannot get rid of his liability by mere abandon-126. 1. Illustrations. — Offering a lease for sale is evidence of an election to accept it. Rawn v. Hotel Madison Co., 25 Ohio Cir. Ct. 737.

An assignee is liable for rent of property that his assignor had leased, if he occupies it, but only for the time that he does occupy it. Cameron v. Nash, 41 N. Y. App. Div. 532.

2. Assignee's Personal Liability. — Wilder v. McDonald, 63 Ohio St. 383, quoting 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 126.

Assignee Liable on Lease in Representative Capacity. — When a lease is embraced in the properties of an assignee for benefit of creditors the assignee's liability thereon is in his representative capacity. Man v. Katz, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 40 Misc. (N. Y.) 645. See also Tierney v. Peerless Shoe Co., (N. Y. City Ct. Gen. T.) 33 Misc. (N. Y.) 803.

3. Assignee Continuing the Business. — Where an assignee allowed the assignor to conduct a business in his name, and he did so for several years at a profit, and the heirs of the assignor, on his decease, allowed the plan to continue and took the benefits accruing, the assignee was held not to be liable for losses suffered in an off year, except as to a minor's share. Quimby v. Uhl, 130 Mich. 198, 9 Detroit Leg. N. 1.

Assignee Liable on Contracts Made as Assignee. — Smith v. Williams, 178 Ill. 420.

Profits of Business. — Where an assignee conducts the assignor's business the profits belong to the estate, and the assignee must account for them. In re Mansfield, 113 Iowa 104; Bennett's Estate, 21 Pa. Co. Ct. 609.

157; H. B. Claffin Co. v. Harrison, 44 Fla. 218; Louisville Banking Co. v. Etheridge Mfg. Co., (Ky. 1897) 43 S. W. Rep. 169; Stevens v. Bell, 6 Mass. 339; Weston v. Nevers, 72 N. H. 65. Compare Anderson v. Doak, 10 Ired. L. (32 N. Car.) 295; Hockaday v. Drye, 7 Okla. 288; Happy v. Prickett, 24 Wash. 290, a case of foreign assignment and attachment by domestic creditors.

Preference Not Warranting Attachment. — On the withdrawal of one partner from an insolvent firm the remaining partners assumed all debts, and one week thereafter assigned for the benefit of creditors with preference of a debt secured by mortgage on the withdrawing member's individual property. It was held that such preference did not furnish ground for an attachment. Vahlberg v. Birnbaum, 64 Ark. 207.

Where No Fraud Inheres in the Assignment itself, the fact that the debt sued for was fraudulently contracted furnishes no ground for the seizure by attachment of property covered by a deed of general assignment made by the debtor. Marlin v. Tichgraeber, 63 Kan. 521.

An Attaching Creditor May Show that the Assignment Was Invalid because not authorized by a legal meeting of the directors of the assigning corporation. Calumet Paper Co. v. Haskell Show Printing Co., 144 Mo. 336, 66 Am. St. Rep. 425.

Creditors Who Have Not Accepted may attack though assenting creditors may not, in a case of a trust deed to secure certain creditors. Kingman v. Cornell-Tebbetts Mach., etc., Co., 150 Mo. 282.

131. 1. Foreign Attaching Creditors. — In Roberts v. Norcross, 69 N. H. 533, it was held that a general assignment executed in some other state defeats the rights of subsequent attachments even where the trustee appointed in the deed has no notice of the assignment.

bring an action to recover property fraudulently transferred by a debtor, the creditors may bring such an action, and the assignee, being made a party defendant and failing to take advantage of his right to prosecute the action, is precluded from so doing. Wisdom v. Russell, (Ky. 1899) 53 S. W. Rep. 284.

A creditor must represent one-fourth of the claims against an assigned estate before he is entitled to bring an action in the Circuit Court for its settlement. Mattingly v. Elder, (Ky. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 215, holding the statutory provision to be constitutional.

133. 2. Assenting Creditors. — Memphis Sav. Bank v. Houchens, (C. C. A.) 115 Fed. Rep. 96; Smith v. Herrell, 11 App. Cas. (D. C.) 425.

And vice versa, creditors who attack an assignment for fraud cannot claim benefits under it. Brown's Estate, 193 Pa. St. 281.

But assenting creditors who reserve their claims against the officers of the assigning corporation may proceed against the officers in equity, after obtaining judgment against the corporation. Hudson v. J. B. Parker Mach. Co., 173 Mass. 242.

3. Where Creditor Receives Benefits. — Keith v. Arthur, 98 Wis. 189; Rielle v. Reid, 26 Ont. App. 54.

But where an assignment reserves as exempt property not exempt because the debt was contracted for the purchase money of that very property, the creditor can proceed against such property. Cator v. Blount, 41 Fla. 138.

A creditor who elects to accept the benefit of a provision contained in a deed of assignment cannot attack provisions contained in it in favor of other creditors on the ground of fraud. He must either accept or reject it in toto. Weiser v. Muir, 103 Ky. 499.

Where a guardian wrongfully deposited moneys belonging to his ward, in a bank which failed, his acceptance of dividends from the assignee does not estop the ward from claiming the full amount. Matter of Knapp, 101 Iowa 488.

When the drawee of a draft presented his claim within the statutory period of three months, the payee will be subrogated to his rights. Joliet Nat. Bank v. O'Donnell, 165 Ill. 32.

A discontinuance before the period of three months has elapsed does not bar a creditor from his claim when he has not proved it. Linington v. Dickinson, 67 Ill. App. 266; Kelley v. Leith, 70 Ill. App. 35.

Kansas. — See Barton v. Sticher, 5 Kan. App. 577.

New Hampshire. — Claims against an insolvent should date from the appointment of the assignee. Bank Com'rs v. Security Trust Co., 70 N. H. 543.

New York. — In Matter of Bawlby, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 34 Misc. (N. Y.) 311, a claim filed by the assignee after distribution, but before final decree, was allowed.

In Texas the statutes provide that creditors, to be entitled to share under the assignment, must assent thereto within four months. Patty v. City Bank, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 475. A creditor who garnishes property of the assignor and then assents within the period, but reserving his rights under the garnishment, is not entitled to participate. Moody v. Templeman, 23 Tex. Civ. App. 374.

The Wisconsin Statutes providing for the filing of claims against an assignor's estate do not relate to liabilities incurred by the assignee after the assignment. Ringenoldus v. Abresch, 119 Wis. 410.

136. 2. Filing Claims in Bankruptcy. — A creditor who files a claim in bankruptcy proceedings is not thereby debarred from proving his claim against an assignee for the benefit of creditors, but may hold the assignee and his sureties liable on their bond. Ringenoldus v. Abresch, 119 Wis. 410.

Obtaining Judgment on a claim does not bar the creditor from proving the claim under an assignment. Lacy v. Gunn, 144 Cal. 511.

The Pendency of an Action by creditors on their claims is no bar to an action by them for the settlement of an assigned estate. Mattingly v. Elder, (Ky. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 215.

A Creditor Who Opposes an Assignment cannot prorate with creditors who complied with the act. Huddleson v. Polk, (Neb. 1903) 97 N. W. Rep. 624.

Surety. — In Alabama it is held that where the maker of a note assigns for the benefit of creditors a surety is a creditor. Smith v. McCadden, 138 Ala. 284.

A Mortgagee's Claim against the assigned estate should be filed with the assignee. In re Lewis Invest. Co., (Iowa 1902) 89 N. W. Rep. 218.

Creditor's Right of Set-off. — A creditor's right to have a debt due from him to the assignor set off against his claim upon the assigned estate extends only to claims existing at the date of the assignment, and not to those subsequently accruing. Matter of Hatch, 22 N. Y. App. Div. 16.

Attorney's Fees. — Creditors are not entitled to attorney's fees incurred in attaching the assignment. Parkhurst, etc., Co. v. Etna Coal Co., (Tenn. Ch. 1899) 54 S. W. Rep. 58.

Debts to Become Due as well as debts due may be proved by a creditor, in Illinois, against the estate of an assignor for benefit of creditors. H. B. Claflin Co. v. Kelley, 169 Ill. 20.

Debts Incurred Subsequent to the Assignment cannot be proved against the estate. Buckler v. Trigg, 68 S. W. Rep. 637, 24 Ky. L. Rep. 410.

4. Judgment Subsequent to Assignment. — In an action ex delicto brought before the assignment, judgment obtained after the assignment is provable as a claim against the estate. Lally v. Farr, 9 Ohio Dec. 119, 6 Ohio N. P. 73.

139. 1. Payment by Surety After Assignment — Markell v. Ray, 75 Minn. 138, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 139.

143. 1. Expense of Execution of Trust. — The expense of executing the assignment is a charge upon the assigned property, to be paid before the claims of creditors, while under certain conditions the statutes provide for the return of the assigned property only upon proof being filed of the payment of all proved claims and payment by the assignor of the expenses of executing the trust. Ringenoldus v. Abresch, 119 Wis. 410.

4. State Claims. — In New York claims for personal taxes of the assignor have priority over all other claims. Matter of Ripsom, etc., Fur Co., (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 32 Misc. (N. Y.) 56.

An assignee who has refused to accept a leasehold of his assignor (see supra, this title, 125. 2) cannot be compelled, under the Maryland statutes making lessees liable for taxes and making taxes prior liens, to pay the taxes on such leasehold. Parlett v. Dugan, 85 Md. 407.

144. 3. Judgment Creditor Has No Lien for Rent Accruing After Assignment. — Mann v. Poole, 48 S. Car. 154.

146. 5. The Pennsylvania Statute provides that a confirmed sale by an assignee discharges all liens against the realty sold, but a valid covenant for support running with the land is not discharged thereby. Bonebrake v. Summers, 8 Pa. Super. Ct. 55, 43 W. N. C. (Pa.) 568.

148. 5. Notice Bars Right to Perfect Title. — Under a sale by order of court, a purchaser is bound by notice that there is a claimant to the land and that such claimant is in possession. Sayers v. Phillips, 5 Pa. Super. Ct. 343.

A Purchaser Has a Right to a Clear Title, and when he buys property that is subject to a vendor's lien, of which he has been kept in ignorance, he may deduct the amount of such lien from the purchase price. Linn v. Collins, 47 W. Va. 250, 81 Am. St. Rep. 788.

154. 5. Illinois Statute. — Kelley v. Leith, 176 Ill. 311; Manufacturers' Paper Co. v. Royal Trust Co., 98 Ill. App. 41.

The Illinois statute provides for a discontinuance upon consent of a majority in number and amount of the creditors. Armour v. Gold, 185 Ill. 34. But within the three months allowed to creditors for filing claims such discontinuance cannot be allowed so as to bar the claim of a creditor filed thereafter and within the statutory period. Higinbotham v. Chicago Title, etc., Co., 182 Ill. 68; Linnington v. Dickinson, 67 Ill. App. 266.

Upon a discontinuance the court should not order the assignee to transfer the estate to a person who has bought up a large percentage of the creditor's claims. Shaw v. Howe, 66 Ill. App. 550.

6. Settlement of Accounts — Statutes. — The Kentucky statutes providing for an assignee's settlement of his accounts require a settlement with the court and not with the judge of the county, and a settlement made with the judge alone amounts merely to a filing of claims allowed and not allowed. McNamara v. Schwanger, 106 Ky. 1.

Mortgagee. — McKibbin v. Williams, 24 Ont. App. 122; Nichols v. Tingstad, 10 N. Dak. 172.

Swamp Lands. — The word assigns, as used in a swamp land statute, refers to one to whom the indebtedness was assigned and not to the purchaser of the land. Carpenter v. San Francisco Sav. Union, 128 Cal. 516.

Public Lands. — The word assigns, in the Act of Congress providing that where entries of public lands are canceled, the entryman, his heirs or assigns, shall be repaid the purchase money, etc., means one who derives from the original entryman by the voluntary act of the latter. U. S. v. Commonwealth Title Ins., etc., Co., 193 U. S. 651.

Policy of Insurance. — Ladd v. Union Mut. L. Ins. Co., 116 Fed. Rep. 878.

Notice — Posting. — Compare Allen v. Allen, 114 Wis. 615, distinguishing Hilgers v. Quinney, 51 Wis. 62, and holding that posting at a public place is substantially equivalent to posting "in" a public place.

A Mortgage on certain property at Attalla, does not necessarily mean in, but in or near, Attalla. The preposition at denotes primarily "nearness, presence, or direction towards." Webst. Dict. O'Conner v. Nadel, 117 Ala. 595.

At the Same Time and Place — Fellow-servant Rule. — In construing an act providing that to constitute two or more employees fellow servants they must be "working together at the same time and place," the court said: "While at indicates nearness in time and place, it does not demand an exact coincidence as to either, but only that it shall be sufficiently so to afford the employees a reasonable opportunity of observing the conduct of each other with a view of guarding themselves against injury therefrom. We are of opinion that the engineer and switchman were working together at the same time and place at the time of the accident." Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Warner, 89 Tex. 475. And see the title FELLOW SERVANTS.

At or Near. — An averment that a person was killed "at or near" the private crossing should be construed that she was killed at a place on the track other than the crossing, because pleadings are to be construed most strongly against the pleader. Davis v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., (Ky. 1903) 75 S. W. Rep. 275.

At in the Sense of After. — Tacoma Nat. Bank v. Sprague, 33 Wash. 285.

171. 1. At or Before. — Upon an agreement to reimburse a purchaser of stock for any loss incurred at or before the expiration of five years before a certain date, it was held that the words "at or before" meant the day or the date mentioned, and that an action brought prior thereto on this agreement was premature. Wilson v. Bicknell, 170 Mass. 259.

Filling Blanks — Bills and Notes. — Cox v. Alexander, 30 Oregon 438.

174. 1. By a policy on freight "at and from any port or ports of loading on the west coast of South America to any port or ports of discharge in the United Kingdom" the freight was to be covered "from the time of the engagement of the goods." Goods were engaged for the vessel which was to earn the freight, and were ready for shipment in her at the time of her loss, which occurred before she arrived at her first loading port on the west coast of South America. It was held that the "engagement" clause must be construed with reference to the voyage described in the policy, and, therefore, as the vessel had not arrived at her first loading port on the west coast of South America, the risk had not attached. The Copernicus, (1896) P. 237.

175. 1. Attachment. — Courson v. Parker, 39 W. Va. 521.

177. 1. Reasonable Time. — Where a machine was sold under a warranty that if not satisfactory it should be returned to the agent at once, it was held that such warranty required its return within a reasonable time, under the circumstances of the case. Warder, etc., Co. v. Horne, 110 Iowa 285. See also Hirsch v. Annin, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 28 Misc. (N. Y.) 228; McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co. v. Warfield, 33 N. Y. App. Div. 513.

Where an order expressly stipulated that goods were to be shipped at once, and the goods were not shipped until more than two weeks afterwards, and after the occasion for which they were desired had passed, there is such a breach of the contract as to prevent a recovery. Oklahoma Vinegar Co. v. Hamilton, 132 Ala. 593.

179. 2*a*. In construing a contract for the sale of a fishing plant together with a covenant not to engage in a like business on the Atlantic seaboard for a period of twenty years, the court said: "The term 'Atlantic seaboard,' in its ordinary interpretation, would seem to be broad enough to include such indentations in the coast as Delaware, New York, or Massachusetts bay, and, at least, such a location on Chesapeake bay as the one occupied by defendants." Fisheries Co. v. Lennen, (C. C. A.) 130 Fed. Rep. 533.

Vermont. — State v. Sullivan, 68 Vt. 540.

Wisconsin. — Loose v. State, 120 Wis. 115.

The Refusal of the Accused to Be Medically Examined is not evidence corroborative of the child's testimony, within the meaning of section 4 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act of 1885. Rex v. Gray, 68 J. P. 327.

260. 1. Attempts on Insane Female. — Where the female is insane or too weak to resist, force or violence need not be shown. State v. Austin, 109 Iowa 118.

2. An Attempt to Administer Chloroform. — Ford v. State, 41 Tex. Crim. 270, 96 Am. St. Rep. 787.

261. 1. Force a Necessary Element in Assault with Intent to Rape. — Jackson v. State, 114 Ga. 861; Gaskin v. State, 105 Ga. 631; Tiller v. State, 101 Ga. 782; State v. Peak, 130 N. Car. 711; Taylor v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 153. And see the title RAPE.

Consent of Female. — State v. McCune, 16 Utah 170; Wilcox v. State, 102 Wis. 650.

Consent by a grown woman to familiarities with her person, and persuasions and requests for sexual intercourse, does not constitute consent to an assault to have forcible carnal connection with her. Johnson v. People, 197 Ill. 48.

Under Age of Consent — Contra. — People v. Johnson, 131 Cal. 511; People v. Vann, 129 Cal. 118; People v. Lourintz, 114 Cal. 628; Addison v. People, 193 Ill. 405; State v. Sargent, 32 Oregon 110.

A conviction may be had for the statutory offense, where the female consented, just as for attempt to rape at common law. State v. Hunter, 18 Wash. 670.

2. Attempt to Procure Abortion. — Evidence that the defendant administered ergot to a pregnant woman and that ergot "is calculated to produce an abortion," is sufficient to show the criminal intent, though there is also evidence that it is only under certain circumstances that ergot will produce an abortion. Hunter v. State, 38 Tex. Crim. 61.

Administering Drug. — A charge of administering a drug with an intent to produce an abortion is sufficiently shown by proof that the defendant mailed to a pregnant woman a drug which if taken in sufficient quantities would produce an abortion, and that she took some of the drug, but not enough to produce the intended result. State v. Moothart, 109 Iowa 130.

Belief of Woman that Drug Is Noxious. — If a woman, believing she is taking a noxious thing, does, with intent to procure abortion, take a thing that is in fact harmless, she is guilty of an attempt to procure abortion. Reg. v. Brown, 63 J. P. 790.

262. 5. Attempt to Poison. — Com. v. Kennedy, 170 Mass. 18.

263. 2. Felony Not Attempted, Committed. — State v. Cross, 72 Conn. 722; State v. Brown, 4 Penn. (Del.) 120; State v. Williams, 122 Iowa 115; People v. Sullivan, 173 N. Y. 122, 93 Am. St. Rep. 582; State v. Cole, 132 N. Car. 1069; Irvine v. State, 104 Tenn. 132.

8. Procuring Gun to Shoot a Person. — Where the accused drew a pistol from his hip pocket, and, in consequence of its being caught in the lining of his coat, did not make any actual attempt to inflict an injury, it was held insufficient to convict of attempt. Burton v. State, 109 Ga. 134.

8*a*. Putting Poison into a Well, with the intent that others should drink and be poisoned, was merely a preparation, when the presence of the poison was discovered before any one drank in fact. Peebles v. State, 101 Ga. 585.

267. 6. Shooting at One Beyond Range. — Lott v. State, 83 Miss. 609.

268. 2. Pointing an Empty Gun. — Where one points a gun at another with felonious intent, the law presumes that it was loaded. McNamara v. People, 24 Colo. 61.

4. Administering Harmless Medicines with Intent to Procure Abortion. — Administering a drug not ordinarily used to procure an abortion, but with that intent, constitutes an attempt to procure an abortion. Hunter v. State, 38 Tex. Crim. 61.

6. Where Poison Was Put into a Cup with intent to kill, it is immaterial whether the dose was sufficient to produce death or not. Com. v. Kennedy, 170 Mass. 18.

269. 3. If the Elements of an Attempt Have Once Existed, it makes no difference what causes an abandonment of design, the offense of attempt is committed. State v. Mehaffey, 132 N. Car. 1062. See also State v. Williams, 121 N. Car. 628; State v. McGilvery, 20 Wash. 240, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 269.

270. 1. Lott v. State, 83 Miss. 609.

One may be guilty of an attempt to commit murder though the intended victim was not in fact where the accused supposed him to be, and where he fired with intent to kill. State v. Mitchell, 170 Mo. 633, 94 Am. St. Rep. 763.

272. 5. Insurance — Medical Attendance — A Person Who Calls at a Physician's Office. — See Billings v. Metropolitan L. Ins. Co., 70 Vt. 477.

Attention. — A promise to give a proposal for the purchase of merchandise prompt attention is not a promise of acceptance; it is no more than a courteous promise to give it consideration. Attention, according to Webster, signifies "the act or state of attending or heeding;" notice; exclusive or special consideration. Manier v. Appling, 112 Ala. 663.

Libel is within a statute authorizing removal or suspension for "misdemeanor involving moral turpitude." Ex p. Mason, 29 Oregon 18, 54 Am. St. Rep. 772.

Neglect to Prosecute offenders against the prohibition law, when proofs of violations are furnished, is a misdemeanor, under § 7620, Rev. Codes, North Dakota, which involves moral turpitude and authorizes the disbarment or suspension of a state's attorney. In re Voss, 11 N. Dak. 540.

Payment of Fine imposed by the court for commission of crime is no defense to disbarment proceedings. People v. Weeber, 26 Colo. 229.

Statutory Provisions that conviction for misdemeanor must be misdemeanor involving moral turpitude. U. S. v. Clark, 76 Fed. Rep. 560.

Under the California Statute, Code Civ. Pro., § 287, authorizing removal or suspension for conviction of misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, an attorney may be disbarred for conviction of attempt to commit extortion. Matter of Coffey, 123 Cal. 522.

Missouri Statute — Rev. Stat. 1899, § 4929. — If an attorney is charged to have been convicted of an indictable offense, the court is authorized to remove or suspend for a limited time. If the charges do not allege conviction of a criminal offense he may only be suspended until the facts are ascertained in the statutory mode. State v. Gebhardt, 87 Mo. App. 542.

Montana Statute. — In re Wellcome, 23 Mont. 140.

Former New York Statute. — Under § 67 of the Code of Civil Procedure a convicted attorney might show if he could that the crime of which he had been found guilty was an offense involving no moral turpitude. Matter of Darmstadt, 35 N. Y. App. Div. 285.

Ohio Statute — Rev. Stat., § 563. — Conviction of a crime involving moral turpitude, or unprofessional conduct involving moral turpitude,

South Dakota Statute. — In re Kirby, 10 S. Dak. 322.

304. 2. Whether Conviction Necessary Before Disbarment. — Matter of Cahill, 66 N. J. L. 527. See Morton v. Watson, 60 Neb. 672.

"Where a crime indictable under the statute is charged against an attorney of this court, in disbarment proceedings, the court will not proceed therein until proceedings have been taken in the District Court, or until sufficient time has elapsed to afford the proper authorities opportunity to prosecute the accused in that court." In re Tipton, 4 Idaho 513.

"The power of the court to disbar an attorney may be exercised when the act complained of amounts to a crime perpetrated in the line of his profession, or amounts to a crime not perpetrated in the line of his profession, but of which he has been duly convicted." H.'s Case, 5 Pa. Dist. 539.

Client Must First Proceed in Ordinary Tribunal. — In re Delmas, 139 Cal. xix, 72 Pac. Rep. 402.

Attempted Criminal Prosecution Held Sufficient. — In re Wellcome, 23 Mont. 213.

Disbarment Though Criminal Prosecution Barred by Limitations. — Stockwell's Case, 7 Pa. Dist. 311.

In New York when the charges proven involve professional misconduct, although it is true that some of the acts complained of are felonies, and indictments may follow, there is no reason why disbarment proceedings should be stayed. Rochester Bar Assoc. v. Dorthy, 152 N. Y. 596.

Under the Montana Statute, Code Civ. Pro., § 402, subd. 5, providing that an attorney, who is guilty of deceit, malpractice, crime, or misdemeanor, may be removed or suspended, unless cogent reasons be furnished by the accusation, or by a showing in support of it, why jurisdiction should be entertained in advance of a criminal prosecution and conviction, it will not be entertained. In re Wellcome, 23 Mont. 140.

Statement of Rule. — "The rule upon this subject is that when the employment of an attorney is so connected with his professional character as to afford a presumption that it formed the ground of his employment, the court will interfere in a summary way to compel him to execute the trust reposed in him; but where an attorney is employed in a matter wholly unconnected with his professional character the court will not exercise this jurisdiction over him, but will leave the applicant to his remedy by an ordinary action to right the wrong to which he has been subjected." Matter of Hammann, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 37 Misc. (N. Y.) 417.

Contra. — "It is held in certain cases that where by contract the fee of the attorney is contingent upon the amount recovered, the client may at any time, without cause, discharge him and revoke his agency, subject to the right of the attorney to recover his compensation, as if his contract of employment was fully performed. It is said in these cases that such a contract is to be construed as fixing the mode of compensation only." Villhauer v. Toledo, 5 Ohio Dec. 8.

Contingent Fee. — Where an agreement with an attorney provided that he was to receive fifty per cent. of a sum "allowed, recovered, or confirmed on account of said loss and damage," and is silent as to incumbrances on the property, which had been taken by condemnation, the amount of recovery should not be reduced by a mortgage and taxes upon the property. Deering v. Schreyer, 58 N. Y. App. Div. 322.

Certain Fee if Certain Amount Realized. — Where clients agree to pay their attorneys a certain fee in case they realize "not less than" a certain sum from the claim, and the clients compromise for a sum less than the amount named, the attorneys cannot recover unless there is fraud. *Bittiner v. "Contracts for contingent fees paid attorneys were not tolerated at all at common law, but in [California] and perhaps most of the states such contracts are allowed, if not favored. This is on the ground that otherwise a party, without the means to employ an attorney and pay his fee certain, and having a meritorious cause of action or defense, would find himself powerless to protect his rights." *Newman v. Where an Attorney's Fee Is Contingent upon the Recovery of Land, if he regains it, the manner in which it is done and the character of the legal proceedings are immaterial. McIntosh v. Bach, 110 Ky. 701.

Elements of Champerty. — "An agreement that one not previously interested, and who agrees to prosecute a suit, upon recovery shall have a share of the thing recovered is not for that reason alone champertous. The bargain to be illegal must have the further element that the attorney's services shall not constitute a debt due him from the client, and that his prospective share is to be the only compensation which the attorney shall receive." Haddock v. Brooks, 178 Mass. 425.

One-half of Recovery. — Under an agreement to pay attorneys one-half of what they recover, the client is liable for that portion of what he obtains, and not for one-half of the amount of the judgment. Leslie v. York, 112 Ky. 712.

Percentage of Alimony. — A contract in a divorce suit giving the attorney a percentage of the alimony obtained is void as against public policy, being calculated to prevent reconciliation. McCurdy v. Dillon, (Mich. 1904) 98 N. W. Rep. 746.

Rescission — Estoppel. — Where an attorney agrees to collect a note on a contingent fee if the note is not contested, he may promptly rescind if its validity is contested, but it is too late after trial and without notice. Lavenson v. Wise, 131 Cal. 369.

Property Taken in Satisfaction — Measure of Recovery. — Where property is taken by a client in satisfaction of a claim prosecuted under an agreement for a contingent fee, the amount of the attorney's fee should be estimated by a fair valuation of the property as distinguished from the price at which it was actually taken. Barcus v. Gates, 130 Fed. Rep. 364.

Indian Depredation Act March 3, 1891. — The Indian Depredation Act fixes the amount to be paid attorneys for prosecuting claims thereunder, and an agreement for an additional contingent fee is void. Lynch v. Pollard, 26 Tex. Civ. App. 103.

The Law Favors and Encourages Settlements of Litigation, and settlements fairly made between the parties, even though the attorneys be not consulted or informed thereof, where not fraudulently entered into for the purpose of depriving the attorneys of their compensation, should be sustained. Nielson v. Albert Lea, 91 Minn. 388, 392.

Honest Compromise. — A compromise made in an honest and straightforward way for the sake of peace, and not with a view of depriving the solicitor of his costs, is binding and valid. In re Margetson, (1897) 2 Ch. 314.

Fraudulent Compromise Ineffective to Deprive Attorney of Lien. — Hubble v. Dunlap, 101 Ky. 419.

Attorney for Defendant. — "The idea that an attorney can acquire a lien of either a legal or equitable character upon the mere right of his client to defend against the claim or cause of action of the plaintiff, precluding the parties from settling the litigation independently of him, regardless of their motives therefor, is without support in principle or authority." Garvin v. Crowley, 116 Wis. 496.

Under the Georgia Act the lien does not arise until there has been service of process or actual notice of the filing of the petition, and where a settlement is had when the defendant is ignorant that the petition has been filed, the plaintiff cannot recover fees due by him under a contract with his attorney. Florida Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Ragan, 104 Ga. 353.

By Statute in Kentucky, § 107. — Wathen v. Russell, (Ky. 1898) 47 S. W. Rep. 437.

Dismissal of Action. — In Kentucky, where by statute an attorney is given a lien on "money due" the client, the latter cannot defeat the lien of the attorney for services rendered under his contract, by dismissing the action, and employing another attorney. Gibson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 122 Iowa 565.

In Louisiana it was held that where attorneys had rendered a valuable service to their client, the latter had no right to enter into a compromise of the proceeding without consulting them. Smith v. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co., 112 La. 985.

Recovery Dependent on Client's Right. — Atlanta R., etc., Co. v. Owens, 119 Ga. 833.

Intervening Petition. — When a judgment to which an attorney's lien has attached has been compromised in fraud of the attorney's rights, the proper method of procedure is for the attorney to file an intervening petition, and have the amount and extent of his lien judicially determined, before any other steps are taken for its enforcement. Jones v. Duff Grain Co., (Neb. 1903) 95 N. W. Rep. 1.

Intervening Petition — Attorney Assignee of Part of cause of action. — Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Bacon, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 572.

Assignment of Part of Claim to Attorney. — Powell v. Galveston, etc., R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 975.

Tennessee Statute. — Under § 1, c. 243, Acts 1899, which gives attorneys of record a lien upon the plaintiff's right of action from the filing of the suit, they cannot prosecute the suit to termination, when the plaintiff dismisses it without their consent. Tompkins v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 110 Tenn. 157, 100 Am. St. Rep. 795.

Statute Not Applicable to Municipal Court of Buffalo Prior to Amendment of 1895. — Drago v. Smith, 92 Hun (N. Y.) 536.

Code Civ. Pro., § 66 — Interest in Estate Not Within Statute. — Adee v. Adee, 55 N. Y. App. Div. 63.

Lien of Defendant's Attorney Dependent in Claiming Affirmative Relief. — Saranac, etc., R. Co. v. Arnold, 72 N. Y. App. Div. 620, affirming (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 37 Misc. (N. Y.) 514.

Equitable Action Against Mortgaged Property. — Skinner v. Busse, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 38 Misc. (N. Y.) 265, 11 N. Y. Annot. Cas. 156.

Proceeds from Sale of Judgment by Assignee. — Matter of Gates, 51 N. Y. App. Div. 350.

Vacation of Satisfaction of Decree by Surrogate Disregarding Attorney's Lien. — Matter of Regan, 167 N. Y. 338, reversing 58 N. Y. App. Div. 1.

Statute Does Not Prevent Honest Settlement — Proceeds Followed. — Cohn v. Polstein, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 41 Misc. (N. Y.) 431; Fenwick v. Mitchell, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 34 Misc. (N. Y.) 617.

"If the cause of action is settled by the plaintiff, the attorney is bound by the settlement, and his lien necessarily continues on to the amount agreed upon in settlement, and the defendant cannot defeat the lien by paying the money to the party." Morehouse v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 43 Misc. (N. Y.) 414.

Collusive Agreement to Discontinue — Protection of Attorney by Court. — National Exhibition Co. v. Crane, 54 N. Y. App. Div. 175, 8 N. Y. Annot. Cas. 231.

469. Continuing Action in Name of Client. — See note 1.

"A collusive settlement, made to defraud an attorney, will be set aside in favor of the attorney where that is necessary to enable him to foreclose his lien; an honest settlement will not be interfered with." Gurley v. Gruenstein, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 44 Misc. (N. Y.) 268.

Lien Fraudulently Impaired. — "It is well settled that under section 66 of the Code the lien attaching to the cause of action and to the judgment in the attorney's favor cannot be impaired or destroyed by collusion or fraud, and in cases where this is made to appear, the court has undoubted power, and will exercise it to set aside a judgment, if such has been procured in the action, to the end that an attorney may proceed and enforce the lien." Bollar v. Schoenwirt, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 30 Misc. (N. Y.) 224.

The Lien of the Defendant's Attorney is dependent upon his answer containing a counterclaim, and it is upon that counterclaim that he is given a lien. Fromme v. Union Surety, etc., Co., (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 39 Misc. (N. Y.) 105.

Statute Not Applicable to Opposite Party. — The summary method for the court on petition to fix the amount and enforce the lien provided by § 66, Code Civ. Pro., is between the attorney and his client, and has no reference to the opposite party to the action. Zimmer v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 32 Misc. (N. Y.) 262.

Lien Is Security. — Where a client is solvent the lien only operates as a security, and the client may collect the claim without interference, there being a dispute as to the value of the services. Corbit v. Watson, 88 N. Y. App. Div. 467.

469. 1. Continuance of Suit in Name of Client. — Herman v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 121 Fed. Rep. 184; Publishers' Printing Co. v. Gillin Printing Co., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 16 Misc. (N. Y.) 558; O'Brien v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 27 N. Y. App. Div. 1, 27 Civ. Pro. (N. Y.) 152; Pilkington v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 49 N. Y. App. Div. 22, 30 Civ. Pro. (N. Y.) 276.

"The parties had the right to settle their cases; and it follows from the right of the parties to settle an action that neither nor both of the attorneys can keep it going and try it in spite of the parties. Not even the plaintiff can do that to enforce his lien on the cause of action; his lien is subordinate to the right of the parties to settle, and it is necessarily gone when the action is settled." Pomeranz v. Marcus, (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 40 Misc. (N. Y.) 442, appeal dismissed 86 N. Y. App. Div. 321.

Contra. — Burpee v. Townsend, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 29 Misc. (N. Y.) 681; Schriever v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 30 Misc. (N. Y.) 146.

New York Statute Construed. — The effect of the statute, § 66, Code Civ. Pro., is to continue the lien to the fund paid in settlement, and where such settlement was bona fide, no action could be continued by the attorney to judgment. Dolliver v. American Swan Boat Co., (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 32 Misc. (N. Y.) 264; Burpee v. Townsend, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 29 Misc. (N. Y.) 681; Schriever v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 30 Misc. (N. Y.) 145, denying rehearing 30 Civ. Pro. (N. Y.) 67.

Rights of Attorney Must Be Prejudiced. — The lien will be enforced whenever it is necessary to protect the attorney's legal claims, but a settlement is not affected by the statute unless it operates to the prejudice of the attorney's claim. Thus where there is no claim of collusion, and the client is able to pay, the enforcement of the lien is not necessary. Young v. Howell, 64 N. Y. App. Div. 246.

Lien for Protection of Attorney. — "The lien which the law gives the attorney is simply for his protection, and when the courts allow an action to be prosecuted for the purpose of the attorney securing his costs, it is because the client is irresponsible, and there is no other manner in which the attorney can be protected in the lien which he had." McKay v. Morris, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 35 Misc. (N. Y.) 571.

Code Civ. Pro., § 66, Unaffected by Amendment of 1899. — Rochfort v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 50 N. Y. App. Div. 261, 30 Civ. Pro. (N. Y.) 285.

Statute Should Have Liberal Construction. — Fischer-Hansen v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 173 N. Y. 492, reversing 63 N. Y. App. Div. 356.

Fraudulent Settlement. — Fenwick v. Mitchell, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 34 Misc. (N. Y.) 617.

Settlement by Client — Enforcement of Lien — Satisfaction Set Aside. — Corbit v. Watson, 88 N. Y. App. Div. 467.

"The lien of the attorney, whether on the cause of action or on the judgment, is subject to the absolute right of the client to settle, and the attorney cannot go on with the action after it is settled, unless the settlement be collusive and fraudulent." Morehouse v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 43 Misc. (N. Y.) 414.

Inherent Power of Court to Protect Attorneys Against Fraudulent Settlement. — Saranac, etc., R. Co. v. Arnold, 72 N. Y. App. Div. 620, affirming (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 37 Misc. (N. Y.) 514.

"Section 66 of the Code of Civil Procedure gives the attorney for the plaintiff a lien upon his client's cause of action, etc., but does not prevent the parties to the action from settling the same or the client from releasing a judgment in his favor; and * * * if a release has the effect to defraud the attorney, the court may and should set it aside in order to protect the lien." Rook v. Dickinson, (County Ct.) 38 Misc. (N. Y.) 690, 11 N. Y. Annot. Cas. 454.

Compromise Cannot Be Enforced by Summary Order. — Pilkington v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 49 N. Y. App. Div. 22, 30 Civ. Pro. (N. Y.) 276; Schriever v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 49 N. Y. App. Div. 620.

Amendment to § 66, Code Civ. Pro., by c. 61, Laws 1899 — Petition by Client or Attorney. — Matter of Rowland, 55 N. Y. App. Div. 66, 8 N. Y. Annot. Cas. 397, affirmed 166 N. Y. 641; Matter of King, 168 N. Y. 53; In re Thomasson, 63 N. Y. App. Div. 408.

9. Auctioneer Warrants the Existence of Articles. — Where an auctioneer sells goods "as are" he does not warrant the condition of the goods, but there is an implied guaranty on his part of the existence of the thing in form and substance as advertised. Ruben v. Lewis, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 20 Misc. (N. Y.) 583.

492. 3. Trifling Advances. — Where the sum offered is incommensurate with the value, the offer may be rejected. Taylor v. Harnett, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 362.

493. 1. See Bowman v. McClenahan, 20 N. Y. App. Div. 346.

2. Insufficient Evidence. — That a purchaser of a set of china plates subsequently left one at the auctioneer's house is not sufficient to warrant indictment of the auctioneer for selling to himself. People v. Lindenborn, (Supm. Ct. Crim. T.) 23 Misc. (N. Y.) 426.

Bid for Third Person. — An auctioneer may bid for a third person, but not for his principal. Flannery v. Jones, 180 Pa. St. 338, 57 Am. St. Rep. 648.

6. Title Does Not Pass on Payment of Deposit. — Hand v. Matthews, 208 Pa. St. 149.

Check in Payment of Deposit. — Where the terms of sale provided that the highest bidder should be the purchaser, and that he should immediately pay a deposit of ten per cent. of the price bid, the vendor is not obliged to accept the purchaser's check for the deposit. Johnston v. Boyes, (1899) 2 Ch. 73.

502. 3. Disposition of Deposit. — McKiernan v. Valieau, 23 R. I. 501.

5. Fraud or Misrepresentation. — McKeag v. Piednor, 74 Mo. App. 593.

503. 5. Sirk v. Emery, 184 Mass. 22.

"Where personal property is put up for sale at public auction, and knocked off to the highest bidder, the purchaser, upon complying with the terms of the sale, is entitled to have such property delivered to him, under the implied contract on the part of the vendor to make such delivery. It is a breach of such implied contract for the vendor to refuse to make such delivery. For such breach the purchaser may sue and recover whatever damages he may have sustained thereupon." Gruell v. Clark, 4 Penn. (Del.) 321. See also Johnston v. Boyes, (1899) 2 Ch. 73.

6. The Vendor Must Deliver. — The vendor's failure to deliver is a breach of contract on which the purchaser may rescind or support an action. Gruell v. Clark, 4 Penn. (Del.) 321.

Purchaser Not Complying with Terms of Sale — Resale. — State v. Hoboken Second Nat. Bank, 84 Md. 325.

Discount. — An allowance made by discount on the purchase price to induce the purchaser to buy is not earned where the purchase is made through a broker. Nixon v. Zuricalday, 12 N. Y. App. Div. 287.

6. Puffer. — McMillan v. Harris, 110 Ga. 72, 78 Am. St. Rep. 93, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 504, 505; Flannery v. Jones, 180 Pa. St. 338, 57 Am. St. Rep. 648.

Though the Price Is Not Increased by the puffer, it is held that his employment vitiates the sale. Rafferty v. Norris, 12 Pa. Super. Ct. 450.

505. 3. McMillan v. Harris, 110 Ga. 72, 78 Am. St. Rep. 93, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 504, 505; Bowman v. McClenahan, 20 N. Y. App. Div. 346, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 504; Flannery v. Jones, 180 Pa. St. 338, 57 Am. St. Rep. 648.

Right of Vendor to Prevent Sacrifice. — "There is no doubt that it is competent for the owner of property who puts it up at auction to use some means to protect his interests and to see that his property is not sacrificed. It is conceded that he may do this either by fixing a price below which the property shall not be sold, and announcing that at the sale, or by publicly reserving to himself the right to make one or more bids if his interests shall require it." Bowman v. McClenahan, 20 N. Y. App. Div. 346.

Puffing Not Sustainable as a Custom. — Evidence is not admissible to show that puffing or fictitious bidding at auction sales is and has been customary, because a fraud cannot be 509. 3. Auctioneer as Agent of Vendee. — White v. Dahlquist Mfg. Co., 179 Mass. 427. An auctioneer selling land is not the agent for the purchaser where the statute of frauds requires the authority of an agent to be in writing in order to bind his principal on the contract for the sale of land. Dunham v. Hartman, 153 Mo. 625, 77 Am. St. Rep. 741.

And where the purchaser refuses to sign the contract, the auctioneer has no authority to sign it as the purchaser's agent. Van Praagh v. Everidge, (1903) 1 Ch. 434, reversing (1902) 2 Ch. 266.

Agent of Vendor as Auctioneer's Clerk cannot bind the vendee by a memorandum under the statute of frauds. Howell v. Shewell, 96 Ga. 454, 51 Am. St. Rep. 148.

A Trustee who sells under the trust deed, though he acts as auctioneer, is not the agent for the purchaser. Dunham v. Hartman, 153 Mo. 625, 77 Am. St. Rep. 741.

524. a. Becoming Aware.— Upon a policy of fidelity guaranty insurance providing that "the employer shall at once notify the company on his becoming aware of the said employee being engaged in speculation, etc.," the court, per Fuller, C. J., construing the phrase "becoming aware," said: "It seems to us that the obvious meaning of 'becoming aware,' as used in this bond, is 'to be informed of,' or 'to be apprised of,' or 'to be put on one's guard in respect to,' and that no other meaning is equally admissible under the terms of the instrument. These are the definitions of the lexicographers, distinctly deducible from the derivation of the word aware, and that is the sense in which they are here employed. It is used in the same sense in the cashier's certificate on the renewals of the teller's bond. To be aware is not the same as to have knowledge. The bond itself distinguishes between the two phrases and uses them as not synonymous with each other. And, in view of the plain object of the clause, we cannot regard the words equivalent to 'becoming satisfied,' though perhaps they may be to 'having reason to believe.'" Guarantee Co. of North America v. Mechanics' Sav. Bank, etc., Co., 183 U. S. 402.

1. The "Back" in Human Beings is the hinder part of the body extending from the neck to the end of the spine. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Rogers, 21 Tex. Civ. App. 605.

525. 3. Libel and Slander—Bad Woman.— Paladino v. Gustin, 17 Ont. Pr. 553.

Books purchased by a woman for her husband and with his money. Hurwitz v. Hamburg-American Packet Co., (N. Y. City Ct. Gen. T.) 27 Misc. (N. Y.) 814.

Household goods cannot be included as part of the baggage of a married woman, although she is moving her abode from one city to another. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Baldwin, (Tenn. 1904) 81 S. W. Rep. 599.

538. 2. Question for the Jury. — Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Zwirtz, 13 Okla. 411; Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Baldwin, (Tenn. 1904) 81 S. W. Rep. 599; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Meek, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 75 S. W. Rep. 317, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 538; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Fales, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 77 S. W. Rep. 234.

539. 1. Articles Carried for Purposes of Trade. — Saunders v. Southern R. Co., (C. C. A.) 128 Fed. Rep. 15, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 539; Weber Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 113 Iowa 188; Amory v. Wabash R. Co., 130 Mich. 404; McKibbin v. Great Northern R. Co., 78 Minn. 232; Runyan v. Central R. Co., 61 N. J. L. 537, 68 Am. St. Rep. 711; Simpson v. New York, etc., R. Co., (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 16 Misc. (N. Y.) 613; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Bowler, etc., Co., 63 Ohio St. 274; Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Zwirtz, 13 Okla. 411. See also Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Dages, 57 Ohio St. 38, 63 Am. St. Rep. 702; Bullard v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 583.

540. 2. Acceptance with Notice of Character of Articles — Waiver. — Saunders v. Southern R. Co., (C. C. A.) 128 Fed. Rep. 15; Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. McGahey, 63 Ark. 344, 58 Am. St. Rep. 111; Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Hochstim, 67 Ill. App. 514; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Matthews, 114 Ky. 973, 102 Am. St. Rep. 316; Amory v. Wabash R. Co., 130 Mich. 404; Sherlock v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 85 Mo. App. 46.

3. Waiver by Carrier. — Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Dages, 57 Ohio St. 38, 63 Am. St. Rep. 702.

541. 1. Carrier Must Have Actual Knowledge of Character of Alleged Baggage. — See Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Matthews, 114 Ky. 973, 102 Am. St. Rep. 316.

But actual knowledge on the part of an agent of the carrier, as to the true character of goods checked as baggage, will not make the carrier liable where it has a regulation, known to the shipper, which prohibits its agents from accepting that particular class of goods as baggage. Weber Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 113 Iowa 188.

Where the ticket and baggage agent of the carrier, from personal transactions had with the passenger, learns of the contents of the passenger's baggage before checking it, this will not be notice to the carrier. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Joseph, 125 Ala. 313.

It seems that if the carrier's agent who receives a valise as baggage knows that the passenger is a traveling merchant and that the baggage belongs to him, the carrier will be liable as such, although the valise contains merchandise solely, and there is nothing about its external appearance which would tend to disclose its contents. Snaman v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 42 S. W. Rep. 1023.

Connecting Carrier. — Knowledge on the part of the initial carrier is not sufficient to bind a connecting carrier in the absence of proof that the agents of the initial carrier had authority to check merchandise as baggage so as to bind the connecting carrier. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Bowler, etc., Co., 63 Ohio St. 274.

2. Notice from Outward Appearance of Package

541. Necessity of Inquiry by Carrier. — See note 3.

542. Authority of Agents. — See note 2.

543. Warehouseman. — See note 1.

Deception by Passenger. — See note 4.

III. DUTY TO CARRY — COMPENSATION — 1. In General. — See note 6.

544. May Limit Amount of Baggage. — See note 2.

When Carrier in Fault. — See note 4.

546. 4. Lien on Baggage. — See note 1.

IV. LIABILITY OF CARRIER FOR LOSS OF BAGGAGE — 1. Character of Liability. — See note 3.

— Amory v. Wabash R. Co., 130 Mich. 404; Trimble v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 162 N. Y. 84. See also Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. McGahey, 63 Ark. 344, 58 Am. St. Rep. 111.

541. 3. Carrier Need Not Make Inquiry as to Nature of Property. — Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Dages, 57 Ohio St. 38, 63 Am. St. Rep. 702; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Bowler, etc., Co., 63 Ohio St. 274.

542. 2. Acts of Agents — Proof of Authority. — Sherlock v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 85 Mo. App. 46; Trimble v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 162 N. Y. 84.

543. 1. For Merchandise Stored. — Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Bowler, etc., Co., 9 Ohio Cir. Dec. 465.

Where there is a regulation of the carrier, known to the passenger, which prohibits the carrier's agents from accepting a particular class of goods, the carrier assumes no liability whatsoever for such goods delivered to one of its agents and checked as baggage. Weber Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 113 Iowa 188.

And see Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Meek, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 75 S. W. Rep. 317, holding that the carrier is not liable as warehouseman for any article for which he would not be liable as carrier if lost while it retained the character of baggage.

4. Concealment by Passenger of Full Value of Articles. — Saunders v. Southern R. Co., (C. C. A.) 128 Fed. Rep. 15; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Matthews, 114 Ky. 973, 102 Am. St. Rep. 316. See also Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Dages, 57 Ohio St. 38, 63 Am. St. Rep. 702; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Bowler, etc., Co., 63 Ohio St. 274.

5. Payment of Overweight in Merchandise. — Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Matthews, 114 Ky. 973, 102 Am. St. Rep. 316.

But in such case the carrier is liable for negligence, and the failure to deliver is presumptive evidence of negligence. Trimble v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 39 N. Y. App. Div. 403.

6. Carriage of Baggage Incident to Carriage of Passenger — United States. — Saunders v. Southern R. Co., (C. C. A.) 128 Fed. Rep. 15, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 543.

Kentucky. — Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Matthews, 114 Ky. 973, 102 Am. St. Rep. 316.

Minnesota. — McKibbin v. Great Northern R. Co., 78 Minn. 232.

Tennessee. — Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Baldwin, (Tenn. 1904) 81 S. W. Rep. 599.

Vermont. — Ranchau v. Rutland R. Co., 71 Vt. 142, 76 Am. St. Rep. 761, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 543.

544. 2. Extra Compensation for Excess. — Jacobs v. Central R. Co., 19 Pa. Super. Ct. 13.

The ordinary provision contained on tickets limiting the amount of baggage which the passenger is entitled to have carried does not restrict or affect the common-law right of the passenger to carry personal baggage with him, but simply limits the accommodation the passenger may have with respect to baggage committed to the custody of the carrier. Runyan v. Central R. Co., 61 N. J. L. 537, 68 Am. St. Rep. 711.

4. Baggage Must Go on Train with Passenger.

— A carrier is bound, where baggage is presented to it to be checked accompanied by a ticket, to send the baggage on the same train with the passenger, unless the passenger gives some direction, or does something, or omits to do something, which authorizes the carrier to send the baggage on some other train. Wald v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 162 Ill. 545, 53 Am. St. Rep. 332.

But see St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Ray, 13 Tex. Civ. App. 628, holding that the carrier is not bound to ship the baggage on the same train with the passenger, but merely to transport it within a reasonable time after it has been received and checked.

546. 1. When No Lien on Baggage. — Where a party becomes a passenger pursuant to a ticket obtained in due and regular course, on a prepaid certificate procured for him, and the party who purchased such certificate for him obtains a refund of the money without notice or knowledge on his part, the carrier has no lien on his baggage. Moszkowitz v. International Nav. Co., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 84 N. Y. Supp. 297.

3. Liable as Insurer for Baggage — United States. — Saunders v. Southern R. Co., (C. C. A.) 128 Fed. Rep. 15.

Kansas. — Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Paten, 3 Kan. App. 338.

Missouri. — Blackmore v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 162 Mo. 455; Aiken v. Wabash R. Co., 80 Mo. App. 8.

Nebraska. — Ringwalt v. Wabash R. Co., 45 Neb. 760.

New York. — Williams v. Central R. Co., 93 N. Y. App. Div. 582; Adams v. New Jersey

547. Losses by Act of God or Public Enemy. — See notes 2, 3.

548. 2. Where Passenger Retains Custody of Property — a. GENERALLY. — See note 1.

549. Carrier Liable Only for Negligence in Absence of Exclusive Control. — See note 2. Articles Left on Train by Passenger. — See note 3.

551. b. IN CASE OF STEAMSHIP COMPANIES. — See note 3.

553. 3. Passenger on Different Train from Baggage — No Compensation — Gratuitous Bailment. — See note 2.

554. V. LIMITATION OF LIABILITY — 1. As to Amount. — See note 2.

555. Reasonableness of Regulation. — See note 2.

2. As to Character of Liability. — See note 3.

556. Free Passes. — See note 1.

557. 3. Limitation Must Be by Special Contract. — See note 1.

Steamboat Co., 151 N. Y. 163, 56 Am. St. Rep. 616.

North Carolina. — Thomas v. Southern R. Co., 131 N. Car. 590.

Pennsylvania. — Jacobs v. Central R. Co., 19 Pa. Super. Ct. 13; Bullard v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 583.

Tennessee. — Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Lillie, (Tenn. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 1055.

Wisconsin. — Goldberg v. Ahnapee, etc., R. Co., 105 Wis. 1, 76 Am. St. Rep. 899.

547. 2. Loss by Inevitable Accident. — A common carrier is not exempt from liability for injury because of an act of God, where he has been guilty of a previous negligence or misconduct which brings the property in contact with the destructive force of the actus Dei. Edson v. Pennsylvania Co., 70 Ill. App. 654; Wald v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 162 Ill. 545, 53 Am. St. Rep. 332, affirming 60 Ill. App. 460.

3. The Majestic, 166 U. S. 375.

The carrier must show that the act of God was the sole cause of the loss. Sonneborn v. Southern R. Co., 65 S. Car. 502.

Though the injury results from an act of God it is incumbent on the carrier to show that it could not have been prevented by any foresight, pains, or care reasonably to be expected. Harzburg v. Southern R. Co., 65 S. Car. 539.

548. 1. Rule Where Passenger Retains Possession and Control of Property. — The Humboldt, 97 Fed. Rep. 656, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 547-552; Defrier v. The Nicaragua, 81 Fed. Rep. 745; Dawley v. Wagner Palace Car Co., 169 Mass. 315; Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Lillie, (Tenn. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 1055.

The carrier is under no liability whatsoever for articles in the sole custody and possession of the passenger which do not come within the category of baggage. Levins v. New York, etc., R. Co., 183 Mass. 175, 97 Am. St. Rep. 434.

549. 2. Passenger Retaining Custody of Baggage — Liable Only for Negligence. — The Humboldt, 97 Fed. Rep. 656, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 549; Dawley v. Wagner Palace Car Co., 169 Mass. 315.

For a passenger's baggage lost in a sleeping car after the passenger had retired, the carrier is liable where the article lost was not easily susceptible of exclusive custody by the passenger under such circumstances. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Lillie, (Tenn. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 1055. And see the title SLEEPING-CAR COMPANIES.

3. Articles Left in the Train. — Where articles are left in a sleeping car by a passenger it is the duty of the company to use at least ordinary care in discovering, taking care of, and restoring the property. Kates v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 95 Ga. 810.

551. 3. Rule as to Liability in Case of Carriers by Water. — Adams v. New Jersey Steamboat Co., 151 N. Y. 163, 56 Am. St. Rep. 616. But see The Humboldt, 97 Fed. Rep. 656.

Wanton Injury by Ship's Servants. — A steamship company is liable to a passenger for baggage left by him on deck and thrown overboard by employees of the company. De Felice v. Compagnie Francaise De Navigation, etc., 83 N. Y. App. Div. 73.

553. 2. Where No Compensation Is Paid — Gratuitous Bailment. — Wood v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 98 Me. 98, 99 Am. St. Rep. 339; Marshall v. Pontiac, etc., R. Co., 126 Mich. 45.

554. 2. Right to Limit Liability as to Amount of Baggage. — The Kensington, 88 Fed. Rep. 331; Aiken v. Wabash R. Co., 80 Mo. App. 8; Tewes v. North German Lloyd Steamship Co., (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 42 Misc. (N. Y.) 148; Jacobs v. Central R. Co., 19 Pa. Super. Ct. 13; Jacobs v. Central R. Co., 208 Pa. St. 535; Ranchau v. Rutland R. Co., 71 Vt. 142, 76 Am. St. Rep. 761, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 554.

555. 2. Unreasonable Regulations. — A limitation of liability for baggage of a first-cabin passenger on a transatlantic steamer, to the value of fifty dollars, is unreasonable. The New England, 110 Fed. Rep. 415.

3. May Limit Its Liability as Insurer. — Jacobs v. Central R. Co., 19 Pa. Super. Ct. 13.

No Exemption from Liability for Negligence. — Merrill v. Pacific Transfer Co., 131 Cal. 582; Thomas v. Southern R. Co., 131 N. Car. 590.

556. 1. Conditions Held Valid in Free Pass. — In Georgia a carrier may by stipulation exempt itself from any liability to one traveling on a free pass. Holly v. Southern R. Co., 119 Ga. 767. And see The Stella, (1900) P. 162, 82 L. T. N. S. 390.

In Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. McGahey, 63 Ark. 344, 58 Am. St. Rep. 111, it was held that the plaintiff had a reasonable time in which he might, with the use of diligence, have removed his baggage before it was destroyed by fire, where he arrived at the station with the baggage at eleven o'clock at night, and the fire occurred two hours later, and no excuse was given for his failure to remove the baggage, except the lateness of the hour and the fact that no vehicles were that night at the station, which was a mile from the nearest town. Such facts merely show that it was inconvenient to remove the baggage.

It is a question for the court as to what is a reasonable time when the facts are undisputed. Felton v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 86 Mo. App. 332.

615. 7. Rights and Liabilities of Bail — a. LIABILITIES OF BAIL — (2) In What Cases. — See note 6.

595. 3. Relief Against Obligation to Enter Special Bail.—Where it appeared that the principal was in custody and that the defendant had lost nothing by the failure to put in special bail, the bail was discharged without a formal surrender of the principal. Loewenthal v. Wagner, 69 N. J. L. 129.

598. 7. Right to Hold to Bail.—Under the Georgia Act of 1879 (3 Code Ga. 1895, § 3420a) which provides that the plaintiff in an action to recover personal property must make affidavit "that the property is in the possession, custody, or control of the defendant," it has been held that where a defendant, imprisoned under an action of trover where bail was required, petitioned the judge of the court in which the suit was pending for his discharge, and it satisfactorily appeared that he was unable to produce the property or to give security for the eventual condemnation money, there was no error in discharging the defendant on his own recognizance, and awarding the cost of the proceeding against the plaintiff. Garrett v. Underwood, 102 Ga. 558. See also Shinholser v. Jordan, 115 Ga. 462.

Special Bail Required Before Appearing or Pleading.—The Connecticut statute (Gen. Stat. Conn., § 957) prescribing that no defendant in a civil action while at large on bail given to the officer shall "be admitted to appear and plead or defend any such action" until he has given special bail, has been held to apply to an appearance for the purpose of pleading in abatement. Bergkofski v. Ruzofski, 74 Conn. 204.

600. 1. Affidavit by One Plaintiff in Behalf of All.—Under a statute providing that the affidavit shall be made by the "plaintiff or some person in his behalf," it has been held that an affidavit made by one of the plaintiffs is good if it purports to be made on behalf of the plaintiffs in the action. Gorgorian v. Prood, 167 Mass. 31.

606. 1. Reduction of Excessive Bail.—Sibley v. Smith, 67 N. Y. App. Div. 514.

608. 1. Justification.—Ludwick v. Perkins, (Mich. 1904) 101 N. W. Rep. 66.

609. 6. Omission of Name of Principal in One Clause.—Where the name of the defendant as principal appeared in the different recitals, but was omitted in the statement of the condition, it was held that, since the instrument itself furnished the means of supplying the missing word with absolute certainty, the bond was valid. Reeg v. Adams, 113 Wis. 175.

610. 7. Construction of Condition.—The court cannot, by construction, give to the condition a broader scope than is clearly expressed in the bond. Bristol v. Graff, 79 N. Y. App. Div. 426, affirmed without opinion 179 N. Y. 551.

611. 4. Misrecital of Nature of Action.—By a clerical mistake a bond recited that the principal was in custody by virtue of a capias ad respondendum when it should have read capias ad satisfaciendum, but the mistake was promptly corrected, by the consent of all the parties interested, who treated the bond as a valid bond. It was held that the original error did not invalidate the bond. In re Friedrich, 113 Mich. 468.

612. 5. Condition Merely to Abide Order of Court.—Where a bond given in a replevin suit to secure the discharge of the defendant from arrest was conditioned that he should abide the order of the court in the action, it was held that the bail were not liable for the value of the property in controversy and the costs of the suit. Eddings v. Boner, 1 Indian Ter. 173.

626. 9. Sufficiency of Appearance. — When the condition of a common-law bond for the appearance of a judgment debtor in supplementary proceedings was to the effect that the defendant would appear before the county judge at a specified day and hour to answer as a witness, etc., and he did appear at that time, and appeared by attorney on an adjourned day, but absconded before the day set for a further hearing, it was held that there had been no breach of the condition, the defendant not having assented to either adjournment. *Straw v. 633. 4. Principal's Discharge in Bankruptcy Releases Bail. — Bryant v. Kinyon, 127 Mich. 152.

634. 1. Commencement of Insolvency Proceedings. — Although a principal in a poor debtor's recognizance has commenced insolvency proceedings before the day appointed for the examination, he is not thereby excused from appearing, and if he defaults the surety on the recognizance is liable notwithstanding the fact that the principal obtains a discharge in the insolvency proceedings. Demelman v. Hunt, 168 Mass. 102.

Proof of Claim in Insolvency by Plaintiff. — The fact that the plaintiff had proved a claim in insolvency upon a judgment against a judgment debtor is not a bar to a suit against a surety on a recognizance to appear for examination as a poor debtor, entered into by the same debtor when execution issued against him. Harris v. Hayes, 171 Mass. 275.

635. 1. Entry of Writ After Return Day. — It has been held that a surety on a poor debtor's recognizance is not relieved from liability on the bond for the reason that the original writ was not entered on the return day, but was filed two days thereafter by permission of the court. Gorgorian v. Prood, 167 Mass. 31.

639. 3. Right of Bail to Surrender — Common Law. — See People v. Hathaway, 206 Ill. 42, affirming 102 Ill. App. 628.

642. 4. Surrender After Return Day of Fieri Facias. — Under the Michigan statute it has been held that the principal may be surrendered at any time, either before or after the return of the fieri facias. Umphrey v. Emery, 121 Mich. 184.

644. 1. Mode of Surrender. — In New York the mode of surrender is prescribed by statute, and the statutory mode must be pursued. Stransky v. Harris, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 22 Misc. (N. Y.) 691, reversing (N. Y. City Ct. Gen. T.) 22 Misc. (N. Y.) 15.

Producing Capias of Bail Piece. — Under the Michigan statute providing that there shall be produced to the officer authorized to accept the surrender of the principal by his bail two copies of the bail piece, it has been held that it is sufficient to produce copies which are sworn to by one of the signers of the bail piece to be true copies of the original; the copies need not be certified. Morgan v. Jones, 117 Mich. 59.

that if they failed in obtaining their discharge as insolvent debtors they would surrender themselves to the jail of the county, it was held that they did not comply with the condition when, instead of surrendering themselves to the county jail, they appeared at the bar of the court and through their counsel made application for an order to commit them, which order the court refused to make. Stout v. Quinn, 9 Pa. Super. Ct. 179.

645. 1. Habeas Corpus Not Always Essential. — The courts may, under some circumstances, dispense with a formal surrender through habeas corpus. Loewenthal v. Wagner, 69 N. J. L. 129.

646. 5. Ownership of Money Deposited. — Money deposited in lieu of bail in accordance with Code Civ. Pro. N. Y., § 586, with a direction for its return to a specified third person, is deemed to be the property of such third person unless it is shown that it was the property of the defendant which should be applied to the payment of his debts, and that the direction was given for the purpose of hindering, delaying, or defrauding his creditors. Finelite v. Sonberg, 75 N. Y. App. Div. 455. But money deposited under the above-cited section by a third person cannot be returned to him before the determination of the proceedings in which the bail was given. Alexander v. Creamer, 46 N. Y. App. Div. 211.

Bail in Less than the Statutory Amount has been held to defeat the jurisdiction of the court on appeal. Xydias v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 76 S. W. Rep. 761.

681. 1. Not Excessive— Examples.— A bond not exceeding in amount the fine with which the offense charged is punishable has been held not to be excessive. Ex p. Smith, 79 Miss. 373.

Bail in the sum of six hundred dollars for a defendant charged with assault with intent to commit rape is not excessive. Ex p. Scott, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 62 S. W. Rep. 568.

A bond of two hundred and fifty dollars on a charge of burglary is not excessive, but on the contrary quite small. Ex p. Bishop, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 61 S. W. Rep. 308.

Where the punishment prescribed is a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, a bond of one hundred and fifty dollars would ordinarily not be excessive. Ex p. Ferrell, (Tex. Crim. 1896) 37 S. W. Rep. 328.

Example of Excessive Bail.— Where the complaint charged the defendant with the larceny of eighteen cattle worth thirty dollars each, bail in the sum of five thousand dollars was held to be excessive. Ex p. Douglas, 25 Nev. 425.

The Amount of Bail May Be Increased when, in the judgment of the court, it is necessary. State v. Eyermann, 172 Mo. 294. But the Texas statute does not authorize a District Court to increase the amount of bail after indictment. Jenkins v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 77 S. W. Rep. 224.

Taken "In Open Court." — A statutory requirement that the recognizance state that it was taken "in open court" is sufficiently complied with by a recital that it was taken "before the court in session." Haley v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 74 S. W. Rep. 38.

Recognizance Not Declared Void "On Close Technical Grounds." — State v. Quattlebaum, 67 S. Car. 203.

2. State v. Fuller, 128 Ala. 45; Herbert v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 524; Adams v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 534; Anderson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 76 S. W. Rep. 470; Cater v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 77 S. W. Rep. 12; Cooper v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 346; Robertson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 517; Com. v. Fulks, 94 Va. 585; Cannon v. Com., 96 Va. 573. See also Haley v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 74 S. W. Rep. 38.

3. Conditions in Instrument. — Howlett v. Turner, 93 Mo. App. 20.

Words of Similar Import Sufficient. — Reed v. Police Ct., 172 Mass. 427.

4. Stanly v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 53 S. W. Rep. 345; Robertson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 517. But see Kansas City v. Hescher, 4 Kan. App. 782.

692. 1. State v. Lambert, 44 W. Va. 308.

2. Name of Accused Essential. — State v. Fuller, 128 Ala. 45; Cox v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 838.

Slight Error in Name Does Not Invalidate. — State v. Ballentine, 106 Mo. App. 190; State v. Porter, (S. Dak. 1904) 99 N. W. Rep. 80.

693. 1. Appearance. — Martin v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 197.

Under the Virginia Statute (Code Va., § 4093), the recognizance must require the appearance of the accused at a stated time to answer the offense with which such person is charged. Cannon v. Com., 96 Va. 573.

2. Appearance from Term to Term. — A recognizance requiring the accused to appear "from time to time," instead of "from term to term" as provided by statute, is fatally defective. Samamiego v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 996; Fulton v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 227.

3. Reasonable Certainty Sufficient. — Jedlicka v. State, 4 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 463, 2 Cleve. L. Rep. 196; Camp v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 142.

694. 1. Must Require Appearance at "Next" Term. — Tolleson v. State, 139 Ala. 159; Baxstrum v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 70 S. W. Rep. 748; Marshall v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 273.

2. Court or Place of Appearance. — Ex f. Hays, 43 Tex. Crim. 268. See also Com. v. Meesser, 19 Pa. Super. Ct. 1.

Sufficient Description. — See State v. Murphy, 23 Nev. 390; Ex p. Hays, 43 Tex. Crim. 268.

695. 1. Moseley v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 18; Sloan v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 63; Mackey v. State, 38 Tex. Crim. 24.

696. 2. Statement of Offense. — State v. Moore, 2 Penn. (Del.) 299; Candler v. Kirksey, 113 Ga. 309; State v. Murphy, 23 Nev. 390; Ramsey v. State, 36 Tex. Crim. 392; Mara v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 183; Wade v. State, 41 Tex. Crim. 580; Loveless v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 50 S. W. Rep. 361. See also Com. v. Fulks, 94 Va. 585. Contra, Kinney v. State, 7 Ohio Cir. Dec. 97.

Parol Evidence as to Offense Not Admissible. — State v. Moore, 2 Penn. (Del.) 299.

In Kansas by Statute the validity of the recognizance does not depend on its stating the exact offense charged, if it appears that the accused is lawfully in custody charged with a public offense. Kansas City v. Hescher, 4 Kan. App. 782.

3. Accuracy Necessary in Indictment Not Required. — State v. Reiman, 3 Penn. (Del.) 73; Vaughan v. Candler, 113 Ga. 9, quoting 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 696; *Main v. Offense Sufficiently Described by Reference to Complaint. — Kansas City v. Garnier, 57 Kan. 412.

An Omission to Recite the Offense, when no substantial right is affected, has been held not to invalidate the recognizance. People v. Russell, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 35 Misc. (N. Y.) 765.

Whether the Offense Is a Misdemeanor or a Felony need not be stated. White v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 74 S. W. Rep. 770.

"Abortion" Synonymous with "To Procure a Miscarriage," — State v. Davis, 27 Utah 368.

697. 1. Specific Name of Offense Sufficient. — Jones v. State, 38 Tex. Crim. 364; Loveless v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 50 S. W. Rep. 361.

Abbreviations. — The letters "V. L. O. L." in a recognizance, as an abbreviation of the offense of violating local option laws, have been held not to release the sureties. Allen v. Com., (Ky. 1903) 73 S. W. Rep. 1027.

698. 1. Statutory Ingredients. — Ramsey v. State, 36 Tex. Crim. 392; Hardin v. State, 36 Tex. Crim. 460; Johnson v. State, 38 Tex. Crim. 26; Coggin v. State, 38 Tex. Crim. 40; *Youngman v. Crim. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 517.

Naming the Offense as an "Aggravated Assault," which is a misdemeanor, has been held sufficient. Kees v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 543.

Information or Complaint.—In Texas, by statute, the bond on an appeal from a justice must state that the appellant was convicted "on an information or complaint." Day v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 373.

A Variance between the recognizance and the fine and sentence actually imposed vitiates the recognizance. Hargrove v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 76 S. W. Rep. 926.

Identification of Judgment and Sentence Sufficient.—Minden v. McCrary, 108 La. 518.

Conviction "In This Case" to Be Stated.—Meeks v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 74 S. W. Rep. 910.

Bond Must Be in Accordance with Judgment.—Sparr v. State, 42 Tex. Crim. 416.

An Alteration Showing the Punishment Assessed, made after the transcript was sent up by the lower court, does not validate the instrument. Ward v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 55 S. W. Rep. 496.

Misstatement of Punishment Fatal.—Driggs v. State, 43 Tex. Crim. 406.

Case Sufficiently Identified Without File Number.—Where the bond shows the parties, the title of the court, the date of the judgment, and the amount of the fine, the case is sufficiently identified without the file number. Thielen v. State, 43 Tex. Crim. 310.

Statement of Offense for Which Convicted.—Stewart v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 513; Hall v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 838.

706. 5. Condition to Abide Judgment of Appellate Court.—Bigelow v. State, 36 Tex. Crim. 402; Nunn v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 435; Guill v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 42 S. W. Rep. 303; *Teague v. Condition Not to Depart Without Leave.—The Texas statute prescribing that the recognizance shall require that the accused shall "not depart without leave of this court," must be complied with. Robertson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 517; Cooper v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 346.

"Not Depart Without Leave of the Court" is a sufficient compliance with the statutory "not depart without leave of this court." Kees v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 543.

Omission of Concluding Words.—A recognizance which binds the accused not to "depart without leave of this court in order to abide the judgment of the Court of Criminal Appeals of this state," but omits the concluding words "in this case," as prescribed by the Code Crim. Pro. Tex., art. 887, is insufficient. Herbert v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 524; Fortenberry v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 535; Adams v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 534; Cryer v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1896) 37 S. Conditions Not Violated. — Where the obligation is that the accused will surrender himself in execution of the judgment upon its being affirmed, modified, or dismissed, or upon the judgment being reversed and the cause remanded for a new trial, the condition is not broken by the failure of the accused to appear where the judgment was reversed on the ground that the lower court was without jurisdiction. State v. Candland, 25 Utah 172.

706. 6. Joint Recognizance. — A recognizance which is joint and not several is defective and insufficient under the Texas statute. Standifer v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 66 S. W. Rep. 550; McHam v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 65 S. W. Rep. 911.

In Stanly v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 53 S. W. Rep. 345, it was held that a joint recognizance by eight sureties given by eight defendants who were tried and convicted jointly, which makes the breach of one principal the breach of all, is onerous and will not support an appeal.

Separate Bonds by Defendants Jointly Convicted Required. — Lee v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 57 S. W. Rep. 97; Stanly v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 53 S. W. Rep. 345.

Conditions of Bond Complied With. — When the undertaking was that the prisoner would appear "during the said examination," a subsequent adjournment of the case by the magistrate without notice to the prisoner or surety was held to release the surety. People v. McKenna, 62 N. Y. App. Div. 327.

Appearance upon Notice to Produce. — The condition of the recognizance being that the accused shall appear "whenever required to do so," notice to the sureties in open court at the time set for trial to produce their principal is sufficient to fix their liability. U. S. v. Dunbar, (C. C. A.) 83 Fed. Rep. 151.

Obligation Fixed in Part by Statute. — While the liability of the surety is to be strictly construed under the terms of the recognizance, existing statutes relevant thereto are to be considered as expressly incorporated therein. U. S. v. Murphy, 82 Fed. Rep. 898.

4. Liability Limited to Court Designated. — Fortenberry v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 79 S. W. Rep. 538. See infra, this title, 714. 3.

Two Branches of Same Court. — Where, in the city of St. Louis, there were two divisions of the criminal court, and the recognizance did not specify the one before which the accused should appear, it was held that he was bound to appear before either division in which the prosecution was pending. State v. Curtis, 67 Mo. App. 431.

Vendor Retaining Possession After Sale Is Bailee of Vendee. — Strong v. Morgan, 8 Idaho 269.

To Make Out a Case of Bailment There Must Be a Contract. — Where the defendant became possessed of certain goods by the fraudulent representation to the plaintiff of a third party that he was the defendant, thereby inducing the plaintiff to deliver to the defendant, and subsequently the third party presented at the defendant's place a forged order for the goods purporting to be from the plaintiff, whereupon the defendant delivered, it was held that the defendant was not a bailee. Krumsky v. Lorser, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 37 Misc. (N. Y.) 504.

Contract of Bailment Independent One. — The bailee is independent of the bailor in the use of the thing bailed, and the bailor is not responsible to third parties for damage resulting from a wrongful or negligent use by the bailee. New York, etc., R. Co. v. New Jersey Electric R. Co., 60 N. J. L. 338. But see Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Sims, 77 Miss. 325.

Possession — Independent and Exclusive. — In order to constitute a bailment there must be an independent and temporarily exclusive possession in the bailee. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Baker, 118 Ga. 809.

Delivery of a Mare to a Blacksmith to have her shod is a bailment. Pusey v. Webb, 2 Penn. (Del.) 490.

The Deposit of a Draft on a third party in the absence of a special understanding is a bailment. Perth Amboy Gas Light Co. v. Middlesex County Bank, 60 N. J. Eq. 84.

One Who Executes a Bill of Sale of certain crops and agrees to hold them for the creditor and subject to his order is a bailee of such crops. Baston v. Rabun, 115 Ga. 378.

Breach of Contract as to Place of Keeping. — Butler v. Greene, 49 Neb. 280.

It seems that where the bailee changes the place of keeping in order the better to carry out the bailor's instruction and to facilitate the purpose of the bailment, the bailee is not responsible for injury that happens without his negligence. Saunders v. Hartsook, 85 Ill. App. 55.

Negligence of the Bailee cannot be imputed to the bailor. New York, etc., R. Co. v. New Jersey Electric R. Co., 60 N. J. L. 338. But see Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Sims, 77 Miss. 325.

The Acts of Servants do not render the bailee liable when such servants are not acting within the scope of their employment. Sanderson v. Collins, (1904) 1 K. B. 628, 90 L. T. N. S. 243. Compare Coupé Co. v. Maddick, (1891) 2 Q. B. 413; Sanderson v. Collins, 89 L. T. N. S. 42.

York v. Barstow, 175 Mass. 167.

5. Amount in Controversy.—Prairie Grove Cheese Mfg. Co. v. Luder, 115 Wis. 20, overruling the earlier Wisconsin cases and holding that the words "balance due" in such a statute are used in their ordinary sense and mean the remainder after deducting proper credits.

767. 1. See Lynch v. Spicer, 53 W. Va. 426; Davis v. Hutchings, 8 Ohio Cir. Dec. 52, 15 Ohio Cir. Ct. 174.

2. A Balance Sheet is nothing more or less than a summation and balance of accounts. It states and shows in a concise manner what is stated and shown by the books of account. It briefly exhibits their contents. It does not purport to be a true statement of the actual condition of affairs in a mercantile house, but a summary of what the books disclose the condition to be. Maxfield v. Seabury, 75 Minn. 93.

768. 4. See State v. Anderson, 100 Wis. 530.

In Murdoch v. Strange, 99 Md. 108, the court said: "A ballot is a form of expression for a candidate to be voted for. If the paper falls short of expressing such a wish, it is defective; certainly, if it expresses nothing, it lacks all of the essential elements of a ballot."

The Term "Ballot Paper" as used in a statute punishing the personation of a voter is synonymous with ballot in an indictment under such a statute. State v. Timothy, 147 Mo. 535.

770. 2. Band of Indians.—In Conners v. U. S., 180 U. S. 275, the court said: "To constitute a band we do not think it necessary that the Indians composing it be a separate political entity, recognized as such, inhabiting a particular territory, and with whom treaties had been or might be made. These peculiarities would rather give them the character of tribes. The word band implies an inferior and less permanent organization, though it must be of sufficient strength to be capable of initiating hostile proceedings."

5. Bankable Paper.—See Edw. P. Allis Co. v. Madison Electric Light, etc., Co., 9 S. Dak. 464.

784. 5. Boundaries.—See Proctor v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 96 Me. 458; Ventura Land, etc., Co. v. Meiners, 136 Cal. 284, following Howard v. Ingersoll, 13 How. (U. S.) 381.

785. 2. Insolvency and Bankruptcy.—See Bernhardt v. Curtis, 109 La. 171.

BANKS AND BANKING.

BY B. L. CAPELL.

789. II. DEFINITION AND GENERAL PRINCIPLES — 1. Definition. — See note 1.

792. 3. How Far Banks Are Subject to State Control — As to the Issuance of Banknotes. — See note 3.

794. State Control over Banking Corporations. — See note 1.

795. III. POWERS AND FUNCTIONS — 1. Powers in General — a. GENERAL STATUTORY LIMITATIONS ON BANKING POWERS — Banking Corporations. — See note 1.

796. b. VARIOUS POWERS CONSIDERED — (2) To Borrow Money and Secure the Same — Implied Power to Borrow. — See note 3.

798. (3) To Purchase and Hold Property and Deal Therein — Acquiring and Conveying Personal Property. — See note 5.

799. With Regard to Real Property. — See note 1.

800. (4) To Lend Credit or Become Guarantor. — See note 2.

801. See notes 1, 2, 3.

(5) To Act as Agent or Broker in Purchases and Loans — The Practice among Banks of Negotiating Loans for Customers. — See note 5.

789. 1. Kiggins v. Munday, 19 Wash. 236, quoting 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 789.

Obtaining, Negotiating, and Guaranteeing Mortgage Loans is not a banking business. Kiggins v. Munday, 19 Wash. 233.

792. 3. Constitutional Provision Requiring Assent of Voters to Confer "Banking Powers." — See State v. Union Stock Yards State Bank, 103 Iowa 549.

794. 1. Constitutional Provisions Affecting Banking Corporations. — In Minnesota all laws for the organization of banks of issue must be passed by a two-thirds vote of the legislature. Palmer v. Zumbrota Bank, 72 Minn. 266.

Right of Legislature to Modify Charter. — In New York it is held that the charter of a bank incorporated under a general law may be modified or repealed by the legislature. Barnes v. Arnold, (Supm. Ct. Eq. T.) 23 Misc. (N. Y.) 197, affirmed 45 N. Y. App. Div. 314, 169 N. Y. 611.

795. 1. A Grant of a Portion of the Ordinary Banking Powers. — A power given to an insurance company to receive moneys in trust, etc., and to lend surplus funds by its charter does not authorize it to do a general banking business. Memphis City Bank v. Tennessee, 161 U. S. 186.

796. 3. Authority to Borrow Money. — Heironimus v. Sweeney, 83 Md. 146, 55 Am. St. Rep. 333.

Power to Make Loans is implied in general banking powers. Johnston Fife Hat Co. v. National Bank, 4 Okla. 17.

798. 5. Acquisition and Disposal of Chattels — Purchase of Its Own Stock. — To prevent loss its own stock may be purchased by the bank, and such stock does not constitute a reduction of the capital stock. Draper v. Blackwell, 138 Ala. 182.

Purchasing and Selling Stocks. — Schofield v. Goodrich Bros. Banking Co., 39 C. C. A. 76, 98 Fed. Rep. 271; Latimer v. Citizens State Bank, 102 Iowa 162.

A private bank may accept its own stock as security for an indebtedness, and such a transaction is not regarded as a purchase of its own stock. Dalzell v. Commercial Bank, 82 Mo. App. 264. But see contra, in Colorado, Kasler v. Kyle, 28 Colo. 374.

799. 1. Holding Real Estate and Dealing Therein. — For a bank to accept real estate transferred to it by a stockholder to cover a deficit in the capital is not an ultra vires act. Brown v. Bradford, 103 Iowa 378.

In Tennessee banks may receive real estate as security for loans. Alexander v. Brummett, (Tenn. Ch. 1896) 42 S. W. Rep. 63.

800. 2. Accommodation Indorsement by Bank. — Bacon v. Farmers' Bank, 79 Mo. App. 406; Sturdevant v. Farmers', etc., Bank, 62 Neb. 472, (Neb. 1903) 95 N. W. Rep. 819.

801. 1. Guaranty by Bank. — Banks have no authority to guarantee commercial paper. Bacon v. Farmers' Bank, 79 Mo. App. 406.

2. Bank May Become Guarantor to Protect Its Rights. — Central R., etc., Co. v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., 114 Fed. Rep. 263, 52 C. C. A. 149.

3. Central R., etc., Co. v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., 52 C. C. A. 149.

5. Lending Money for Others is within a bank's power unless prohibited by its charter, and where officers show the depositor the books of the bank and show him the investments, it will be presumed that it is the bank's action and not the individual act of the officer. Bobb v. Savings Bank, (Ky. 1884) 64 S. W. Rep. 494.

802. (7) Prohibition on General Trading and Speculation. — See note 1.
 2. Collections — a. THE BANK'S AGENCY TO COLLECT — (1) Collecting Commercial Paper an Incident of Banking. — See note 2.

(2) Consideration of Contract to Collect. — See note 3.

803. (3) Authority of the Bank to Receive Payment — (a) Generally. — See note 1.

(b) Paper Payable at a Particular Bank — aa. BANK AS PAYEE'S AGENT. — See note 3.

bb. BANK AS MAKER'S OR ACCEPTOR'S AGENT. — See note 4.

804. (c) Must Accept Only Money in Payment. — See note 2.

805. b. BANK'S DUTIES AND LIABILITIES IN MAKING COLLECTIONS — (1) General Statement — Skill and Diligence Required. — See note 4.

802. 1. Buying, Selling, and Exchanging Stock is no part of a legitimate banking business. Preston v. Marquette County Sav. Bank, 122 Mich. 696.

A bank cannot purchase stock in other corporations. Schofield v. Goodrich Bros. Banking Co., 39 C. C. A. 76, 98 Fed. Rep. 271; May v. Genesee County Sav. Bank, 120 Mich. 330.

But a bank may become the owner of stock in another bank if it received such stock as security for a loan and became the owner from such a transaction. Latimer v. Citizens State Bank, 102 Iowa 162; Batley v. Eureka Bank, 62 Kan. 384.

2. The Power to Collect Need Not Be Expressly Granted. — Knapp v. Saunders, 15 S. Dak. 464. See also Birmingham First Nat. Bank v. Newport First Nat. Bank, 116 Ala. 520, holding that the court will take judicial notice that banks receive paper for collection and collaterals accompanying them during the usual course of business.

3. Consideration. — Birmingham First Nat. Bank v. Newport First Nat. Bank, 116 Ala. 532, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 802; Kershaw v. Ladd, 34 Oregon 375.

803. 1. Lowenstein v. Bresler, 109 Ala. 326.

3. Bank Named as Place of Payment Not Payee's Agent. — Montreal Bank v. Ingerson, 105 Iowa 361, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 803, and holding that in order for a bank to become the payee's agent of paper payable at that bank, such paper must be deposited in the bank for collection.

Right of One Bank to Send to Another for Collection. — It is held in South Dakota that a bank to which paper payable at that bank has been sent for collection has no implied authority to send it to a bank in another city as its subagent to collect the paper so as to make a payment to the subagent a payment to the original holder. Sherman v. Port Huron Engine, etc., Co., 8 S. Dak. 343.

4. State Bank v. McCabe, (Mich. 1904) 98 N. W. Rep. 20, holding that funds on deposit at the time when a note matures may be applied to the payment of that note, but funds deposited thereafter cannot be so applied.

Advance of Money by Bank. — A bank which in effect purchases a note made payable at that bank, by advancing payment thereof, has no right of action against the holder of the note because it was paid under a mistake as to the state of the maker's account. Riverside Bank

v. Shenandoah First Nat. Bank, (C. C. A.) 74 Fed. Rep. 276.

So where a bank to which paper was sent for collection issued and mailed a draft to the drawer, it was held that upon discovering the insolvency of the drawee it could not intercept the draft in transitu. Canterbury v. Sparta Bank, 91 Wis. 53, 51 Am. St. Rep. 870.

804. 2. May Accept Only Money in Payment. — O'Leary v. Abeles, 68 Ark. 262, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 804; Montreal Bank v. Ingerson, 105 Iowa 349; National Bank of Commerce v. American Exch. Bank, 151 Mo. 320. See also Citizens' Bank v. Houston, 98 Ky. 139.

A Bank May Accept Certified Checks in payment of drafts if such has been the custom. Jefferson County Sav. Bank v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 98 Tenn. 337.

Partial Payment. — It is not within the scope of authority for the agent for collection to accept a partial payment. Lowenstein v. Bresler, 109 Ala. 326.

805. 4. Reasonable Skill and Ordinary Diligence. — Bay Biscayne Bank v. Monongahela Nat. Bank, 126 Fed. Rep. 437, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 805; Watson v. Fagner, 105 Ill. App. 52, affirmed 208 Ill. 136; Merchants State Bank v. State Bank, 94 Wis. 444.

No custom, unknown to depositor, will excuse the bank from the exercise of reasonable skill and ordinary diligence. Bank of Commerce v. Miller, 105 Ill. App. 224, dismissed 202 Ill. 410.

A bank, having used reasonable skill and diligence in collecting a paper held by it for collection, is not forbidden to obtain a preference for a debt to itself from the same debtor. U. S. National Bank v. Westervelt, 55 Neb. 424, distinguishing Dern v. Kellogg, 54 Neb. 560.

Duty to Follow Instructions. — Where instructions are given to a bank in which a draft is deposited to "collect and credit," the bank should place the deposit to the credit of the depositor, and if it credits the indorser therefor it is liable. Long v. Bank of Commerce, (Ky. 1897) 38 S. W. Rep. 886.

Diligence in Making Inquiries for Draft Not Heard From. — Louisville Second Nat. Bank v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 111 Ky. 936, 98 Am. St. Rep. 439, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 805.

Must Act in Good Faith. — In making collections a bank must act in good faith. Dern v. Kellogg, 54 Neb. 560.

806. (2) Duty as to Presentment, Demand, Protest, and Notice. — See note 1.

807. To Whom Notice of Nonpayment Must Be Given. — See notes 1, 2.

808. (5) Liability for Conduct of Notary. — See note 3.

809. (6) Liability for Acts of Correspondent Bank — (b) Selection of Correspondent Bank. — See notes 2, 3.

810. (c) Default of Correspondent Bank — View that Forwarding Bank Is Responsible for Default of Correspondent. — See note 1.

812. See note 1.

View that Collecting Bank Is Liable Directly to Depositor. — See note 3.

814. c. MEASURE OF DAMAGES FOR NEGLIGENCE. — See notes 2, 3, 4.

Liability for Breach of Warranty. — A bank does not, by collecting a draft attached to a bill of lading, make itself liable for a breach of warranty of the quality of the merchandise represented by the bill of lading. Commerce Milling, etc., Co. v. Morris, 27 Tex. Civ. App. 553.

806. 1. Presentment, Demand, Etc. — Western Wheeled Scraper Co. v. Sadilek, 50 Neb. 105, 61 Am. St. Rep. 550; Hitchcock v. Suspension Bridge Bank, 57 N. Y. App. Div. 458; Morris v. Union Nat. Bank, 13 S. Dak. 329. See also Aransas Pass First Nat. Bank v. St. Charles Sav. Bank, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 37 S. W. Rep. 768. And see the title BILLS OF EXCHANGE AND PROMISSORY NOTES, 410. 2 et seq.

807. 1. The Bank Must Notify the Principal or holder of the note. Sprague v. Farmers' Nat. Bank, 63 Kan. 12.

Bank Required to Notify All Parties. — Citizens Nat. Bank v. Greensburg Third Nat. Bank, 19 Ind. App. 69.

2. Special Contract. — Howard v. Bank of Metropolis, 95 N. Y. App. Div. 342.

808. 3. Bank Liable Only for Care in Selection of Notary. — Manning First Nat. Bank v. German Bank, 107 Iowa 545, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 808.

809. 2. Due Care Requisite in Selecting Correspondent. — Herider v. Phoenix Loan Assoc., 82 Mo. App. 427; Louisville Second Nat. Bank v. Merchants Nat. Bank, 111 Ky. 930, 98 Am. St. Rep. 439.

3. Selection of Drawee Bank as Agent. — Minneapolis Sash, etc., Co. v. Metropolitan Bank, 76 Minn. 143, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 809; Western Wheeled Scraper Co. v. Sadilek, 50 Neb. 105, 61 Am. St. Rep. 550; Givan v. Alexandria Bank, (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 52 S. W. Rep. 923. See also Corsicana First Nat. Bank v. City Nat. Bank, 12 Tex. Civ. App. 318.

In the Absence of Instructions to select the drawee bank as agent, such an act is negligent. Chicago First Nat. Bank v. Citizens' Sav. Bank, 123 Mich. 336.

Where the Depositor Had Knowledge that the remitting bank would send the paper for collection directly to the drawee bank and then availed himself of such collection facilities the remitting bank is not liable. Wilson v. Carlinville Nat. Bank, 187 Ill. 222.

A Banking Custom may be shown to give to a bank the right to send an unindorsed check directly to the drawee bank. Kershaw v. Ladd, 34 Oregon 375.

810. 1. Forwarding Bank Liable for Correspondent Bank. — Girard First Nat. Bank v. Craig, 3 Kan. App. 166, distinguishing Lindsborg Bank v. Ober, 31 Kan. 599, cited to the contrary proposition in 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 812; Kirkham v. Bank of America, 165 N. Y. 132; National Revere Bank v. National Bank of Republic, 172 N. Y. 102; Morris v. Allegheny First Nat. Bank, 201 Pa. St. 160; Schumacher v. Trent, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 17. See also Bedell v. Harbine Bank, 62 Neb. 339. But see Kelley v. Phenix Nat. Bank, 17 N. Y. App. Div. 496, wherein the circumstances were held to constitute the collecting bank the agent of the holder.

812. 1. Limitation of Liability by Express Agreement. — Where the depositor of a draft for collection ordered the bank of deposit to send the draft to a certain bank for identification of indorsement the forwarding bank is not liable for loss of the draft. Davis v. Fresno First Nat. Bank, 118 Cal. 600.

As to the Effect of Commercial Usage. — A forwarding bank is bound by the usages and customs of banks at the place of collection, regardless of knowledge of such usages. Jefferson County Sav. Bank v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 98 Tenn. 337.

3. Correspondent Bank Liable Directly to Depositor — United States. — Holder v. Western German Bank, 132 Fed. Rep. 187 (by interpretation given to special contract of collection).

Alabama. — Eufaula Grocery Co. v. Missouri Nat. Bank, 118 Ala. 413, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 809-813.

Illinois. — Wilson v. Carlinville Nat. Bank, 187 Ill. 224, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 810, 812; Waterloo Milling Co. v. Kuenster, 158 Ill. 259, 40 Am. St. Rep. 156.

Indiana. — Irwin v. Reeves Pulley Co., 20 Ind. App. 111, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 810, but adopting the view stated on page 812.

Kentucky. — Louisville Second Nat. Bank v. Merchants Nat. Bank, 111 Ky. 930, 98 Am. St. Rep. 439.

Tennessee. — Givan v. Alexandria Bank, (Tenn. Ch. 1808) 52 S. W. Rep. 923.

814. 2. Measure of Damages. — People's Nat. Bank v. Brogden, (Tex. 1904) 83 S. W. Rep. 1098, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 814.

Agents. — The bank receiving paper for collection is liable for the defalcation of its agent.

S., (C. C. A.) 64 Fed. Rep. 703, distinguished in U. S. v. American Exch. Nat. Bank, 70 Fed. Rep. 232.

Money paid to the collecting bank under mistake of fact may be recovered from such bank. Metropolitan Nat. Bank v. Merchants Nat. Bank, 182 Ill. 367, 74 Am. St. Rep. 180.

Bank Cannot Recover on Note Assigned to It for Collection Only. — Ft. Worth First Nat. Bank v. Payne, (Ky. 1897) 42 S. W. Rep. 736.

Deposit of a Forged Check for Collection. — Where the plaintiff deposited for collection a check on which the payee's name was forged and it was remitted to a correspondent bank and paid, and afterwards the forgery discovered, it was held that the plaintiff was indebted to the receiving bank in the amount of the check. Green v. Purcell Nat. Bank, 1 Indian Ter. 270. See further the title BILLS OF EXCHANGE AND PROMISSORY NOTES, 502. 1, 2.

816. 1. Where Money Is Innocently Advanced to Bank on Credit of Draft Received for Collection. — It is held in Nebraska that where a bank credits the amount of the remitting bank by the amount of paper sent to it for collection it cannot interpose this credit as an equity in defense to an action brought against it by the original holder for the proceeds of collection. Branch v. U. S. National Bank, 50 Neb. 470.

2. Indorsement "For Collection." — Doppelt v. National Bank of Republic, 74 Ill. App. 429, affirmed 175 Ill. 432; Branch v. U. S. National Bank, 50 Neb. 470; National Citizens' Bank v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 119 N. Car. 307; Boykin v. Fayetteville Bank, 118 N. Car. 566.

Crediting Check Deposited in Bank Where Payable. — The auditing of a check deposited in the bank where it is payable amounts to a payment. Bryan v. McKees Rocks First Nat. Bank, 205 Pa. St. 7. See also Bartley v. State, 53 Neb. 310.

Title to Check Deposited — Effect of Bank Custom to Credit as Cash. — In Walton v. Riverside Bank, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 29 Misc. (N. Y.) 304, it was held that a bank had no right to charge back against a customer's account the amount of a check deposited with it and credited as cash, and afterwards lost before presentment.

In New Jersey it is held that where a check is indorsed generally by the payee and deposited in a bank other than that on which it is drawn, and by that bank credited at once to the depositor as cash, the transaction is in effect a sale of the paper to the bank, not a deposit for collection; and where such check is paid by mistake by the bank on which it is drawn, against the instructions of the maker, and the proceeds are remitted to the bank of deposit, the drawee bank has no right of recovery against the payee. National Bank v. Berrall, 70 N. J. L. 757, 103 Am. St. Rep. 821, quoting 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 817, but holding that the language of the text is limited by the force of the words "taken for collection."

And in Massachusetts it is held that crediting a depositor's account with a check deposited for collection and afterwards paying checks more than the amount of his deposit without such credit, knowing that the check had been lost in transmission to the collecting bank, amounts to an absolute sale of the check to the bank. Taft v. Quinsigamond Nat. Bank, 172 Mass. 363.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals has held that after a bank failed a check uncollected which had been received as cash could be charged back. Staplyton v. Cie Des Phosphates De France, (C. C. A.) 88 Fed. Rep. 53. Compare Brusegaard v. Ueland, 72 Minn. 283.

The relation of debtor and creditor is established by an attorney depositing the funds of his client in his own name. The bank need not investigate such deposits, and is not liable for paying the attorney's checks. Rhinehart v. New Madrid Banking Co., 99 Mo. App. 381.

A deposit by an agent in his own name of funds of his principal and paid to the agent upon his check cannot be recovered by the principal, the bank not knowing the true ownership. Martin v. Kansas Nat. Bank, 66 Kan. 655. See also Kimmel v. Bean, 68 Kan. 598.

Where an insolvent factor deposited money in a bank which knew of the insolvency it was held that the relation of debtor and creditor was established and the bank must honor his checks. Interstate Nat. Bank v. Claxton, 97 Tex. 569.

Deposit in Name of Another. — Where a deposit is made in the name of the depositor's daughter, but notice is given by the depositor at the same time that the money is to be withdrawn by checks signed by him, the bank is not liable in a suit by the daughter to recover the amount of the deposit. Greene v. Camas Prairie Bank, 7 Idaho 576.

"A depositor contracting with a bank for the care of his money can control his funds until he has disposed of them, no matter in what name the account is kept, so long as it is understood to be his account, and has not been put beyond his control by some act that he cannot revoke." Greene v. Camas Prairie Bank, 7 Idaho 580, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 832, 834.

But where an agent deposits money of his principal in a bank in his principal's name, the relation of debtor and creditor is established between the bank and the principal. Authority given to an agent to deposit his principal's money is not authority to withdraw it. Heath v. New Bedford Safe Deposit, etc., Co., 184 Mass. 481.

See also Overton Bank v. Thompson, (C. C. A.) 118 Fed. Rep. 798, holding that a cashier dealing with the bank in his individual interest cannot charge the bank with his uncommunicated knowledge of facts showing want of title; Brady v. Mt. Morris Bank, 65 N. Y. App. Div. 212, holding that notice possessed by a cashier of an infirmity in a certificate of stock did not bind the bank..

847. 1. The Cashier Cannot Make a Loan to Himself. — German Sav. Bank v. Des Moines Nat. Bank, 122 Iowa 737.

Under the Wisconsin statutes the cashier cannot make a loan to himself without the authority of directors and stockholders, but with their consent such a loan can be made. Barth v. Koetting, 99 Wis. 242.

Individual Transactions of Cashier for His Own Benefit. — A cashier of a bank who is also a director of a manufacturing company is not, in making false statements concerning the financial condition of the company in order to defraud the bank, an agent of the bank so as to effect the validity of its claim against the company. Hadden v. Dooley, 63 U. S. App. 173.

A cashier under his general authority has no right to issue drafts of the bank for himself or for his private business. Mendel v. Boyd, (Neb. 1904) 99 N. W. Rep. 493.

The fact that the cashier is personally interested is sufficient to put the creditor upon inquiry of the cashier's authority. Hier v. Miller, 68 Kan. 258.

In such a transaction the knowledge of the cashier cannot be imputed to the bank. Central Bank v. Thayer, 184 Mo. 61.

But it has been held that where a cashier issues a draft to his individual creditor and the draft is paid, the amount so paid cannot be recovered by the bank if it is shown that such was the custom of the bank. Campbell v. National Broadway Bank, (C. C. A.) 130 Fed. Rep. 690.

2. What Constitutes Insolvency. — A bank is insolvent when it is unable to meet the ordinary demands against it in the usual and ordinary course of business. Eads v. Orcutt, 79 Mo. App. 511; Minton v. Stahlman, 96 Tenn. 98, holding further that an act of insolvency takes place when the condition is demonstrated and the bank has actually failed to meet some of its obligations,

A Depositor May by His Acts Affirm the Deposit or obligation made upon the eve of suspension. Davis v. Butters Lumber Co., 132 N. Car. 233.

So a depositor by filing his account with a receiver in insolvency of a bank waives his right to rescind the deposit upon the ground of fraud in receiving the deposit after known insolvency. Pott v. Schmucker, 84 Md. 535, 57 Am. St. Rep. 415.

Trust Deposits received when a bank is insolvent may be recovered while in the hands of the receiver. Philadelphia v. Eckels, 98 Fed. Rep. 485.

Payments to a Depositor During a Run on the Bank, the cashier believing that sufficient funds were on hand to satisfy the depositors, cannot be recovered by the receiver. Stone v. Jenison, 111 Mich. 592.

849. 1. Title of Receivers. — A receiver holds the assets of an insolvent bank to secure the claims of creditors and depositors of that bank. State v. Hemingford Bank, 58 Neb. 818.

A receiver is not a bona fide purchaser of the bank assets. Colton v. Drovers' Perpetual Bldg., etc., Assoc., 90 Md. 85, 78 Am. St. Rep. 431.

The Receiver May Compromise a Doubtful Claim against a stockholder's double liability under the Nebraska statute. State v. German Sav. Bank, 65 Neb. 416.

Right of Set-off. — In an action by a receiver to collect money due to an insolvent bank, the defendant may set off a claim which he has against the bank. Colton v. Drivers' Perpetual Bldg., etc., Assoc., 90 Md. 85, 78 Am. St. Rep. 431; Mechanics' Bank v. Stone, 115 Mich. 648; Becker v. Seymour, 71 Minn. 394; Bernstein v. Coburn, 49 Neb. 734.

And such set-off may be permitted although the indebtedness due to the bank had not matured at the time when the bank failed. Jack v. Klepser, 196 Pa. St. 187, 79 Am. St. Rep. 699. See also Thompson v. Union Trust Co., 130 Mich. 508, 97 Am. St. Rep. 494.

But a debtor to a defunct bank cannot set off a claim against the bank which he secured after the insolvency of the bank. Dyer v. Sebrell, 135 Cal. 597.

And it has been held that a debtor of an insolvent bank cannot set off a check delivered to him against such bank before the assignment. Greenebaum v. American Trust, etc., Bank, 70 Ill. App. 407.

Damages for Loss of Rent, by reason of failure to carry out the lease of the premises, cannot, it has been held, be set off by the lessor of a banking house against a note which he owes to the bank. McGraw v. Union Trust Co., (Mich. 1904) 98 N. W. Rep. 390.

850. 6. An Act of Insolvency or failure to comply with the insolvency laws is ground for decreeing a forfeiture in Louisiana. State v. Bank of Commerce, 49 La. Ann. 1060.

861. 6. Under the Texas Statute evidence that an attorney did not seek or obtain employment by personal solicitation, and did not before employment directly or indirectly give or loan money to the client to induce his employment, is insufficient to show barratry. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Bacon, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 572.

862. 1. Wrongful Act Necessary. — Compania La Flecha v. Brauer, 168 U. S. 104.

For Definition and Elements of Offense under United States Statutes see Act Aug. 6, 1894, c. 227, 28 Stat. L. 233.

3. Act Must Be Wrongfully Intended. — There is no barratry where there is neither intentional fraud nor breach of trust, nor wilful violation of law, one of which at least is necessary to constitute barratry. Thus the wrongful jettison of sound cattle by the master through an unfounded apprehension of danger was held not to be barratry, so as to exempt the carrier under a contract providing against liability for loss occasioned "by barratry of the master" or crew. Compania La Flecha v. Brauer, 168 U. S. 104.

9. Act with Fraudulent Intent. — Compania La Flecha v. Brauer, 168 U. S. 104.

Evidence of a certificate of baptism in a foreign country, stating that the mother was an unmarried woman, was held sufficient to overcome the presumption of legitimacy existing in favor of all children, where such presumption was unsupported by other evidence. Sandberg v. State, 113 Wis. 578.

Onus Probandi. — Bunel v. O'Day, 125 Fed. Rep. 303; Sergeant v. North Cumberland Mfg. Co., 112 Ky. 888; Matter of Seabury, 1 N. Y. App. Div. 231.

Conflicting Presumptions. — Johnson v. Dudley, 4 Ohio Dec. 243.

Proved by Evidence Aliunde. — Erwin v. Bailey, 123 N. Car. 628.

879. 1. The declarations of the complainant in a bastardy proceeding are not admissible to prove that the defendant is the father of her bastard child. Dehler v. State, 22 Ind. App. 383; State v. Lowell, 123 Iowa 427; State v. Spencer, 73 Minn. 101.

2. Declarations of a deceased parent recognizing an illegitimate child are admissible as against interest in an action by the child to be allowed to inherit under the Iowa statute authorizing an illegitimate child to inherit from the father if recognized publicly and notoriously; but declarations denying paternity are not admissible. Britt v. Hall, 116 Iowa 564.

3. People v. Schildwachter, 5 N. Y. App. Div. 346.

880. 1. Credibility of Mother. — Gatzmeyer v. Peterson, (Neb. 1903) 94 N. W. Rep. 974.

The mother as well as the putative father has a direct interest in the result of the proceeding, and the credibility of each in this respect is a question for the jury, and therefore an instruction that "so far as the pecuniary interest in the result of this suit is concerned, the complainant and the defendant are not equal," is erroneous as invading the province of the jury. State v. Nestaval, 72 Minn. 415.

2. Burns v. Donoghue, 185 Mass. 71.

In Maine constancy in the accusations is also a condition precedent to the maintenance of a bastardy suit. Palmer v. McDonald, 92 Me. 125.

Evidence as to Accusation. — State v. Saidell, 70 N. H. 174, 85 Am. St. Rep. 627.

The mother is not confined to her statements made during travail, but may give in evidence her statements both before and after the birth of the child. Harty v. Malloy, 67 Conn. 339.

6. Period of Gestation. — Lusk v. State, 129 Ala. 1; Stahl v. State, 67 Kan. 864.

That the possible period may exceed three hundred days is a fact which courts are not bound to know and act on. Erickson v. Schmill, 62 Neb. 368.

The period of gestation is a question of fact, to be determined upon evidence in each particular case. Davison v. Cruse, 47 Neb. 829.

And it is error for the court to arbitrarily fix a period within which the child must have been born to show the guilt of a defendant in bastardy proceedings. Peterson v. People, 74 Ill. App. 178.

2. Admissibility of Examination. — Stahl v. State, 67 Kan. 864; Morgan v. Stone, (Neb. 1903) 93 N. W. Rep. 743.

On a prosecution for failure to support an illegitimate child the record of a previous proceeding in which the defendant was adjudged to be the father of the child is not admissible in evidence; the principle being that in a criminal proceeding the record of a civil action cannot be introduced to establish the facts on which it was rendered. Gee v. State, 60 Ohio St. 485.

3. Corroborative Evidence — Necessity For. — Harvey v. Anning, 87 L. T. N. S. 687. And see People v. McKay, 72 N. Y. App. Div. 527. See also as to rebuttal of evidence impeaching the prosecutrix, Lusk v. State, 129 Ala. 1.

The decision is not that the defendant is the father, but only that he is the "reputed father." Moore v. Baughman, 8 Ohio Dec. 396, 7 Ohio N. P. 149.

If the child was begotten within the state the fact that it was born outside the state is immaterial. State v. Patterson, (S. Dak. 1904) 100 N. W. Rep. 162.

The Object of Such Statutes is to secure the state against the expense of the child's maintenance. Davis v. Carpenter, 172 Mass. 167; Com. v. Allen, 2 Pa. Super. Ct. 175.

But in Illinois it is held that the purpose of the proceeding is for the benefit of the child, not to determine whether the defendant is its father. People v. Wheeler, 60 Ill. App. 351.

Subsequent Marriage of Parties. — It is no defense to an action to enforce a judgment against the putative father for support of a bastard child that the defendant has married the mother and so legitimized the child. Alderson v. Alderson, 113 Ky. 830.

Nature of Judgment. — A judgment ordering payment for support of a bastard is not a debt, but a penalty. Ex p. Bridgforth, 77 Miss. 418, 78 Am. St. Rep. 532.

A testator bequeathed a fund in trust to his son A for life, remainder to the "lawful issue" of A. At the time the will was made the testator knew that A was the father of a bastard child. Afterwards a statute (Laws N. Y. 1896, c. 272, § 18) was enacted, providing that an illegitimate child whose parents marry shall thereby become legitimized "for all purposes;" and A married the mother of his bastard child. On these facts it was held that the words "lawful issue," as used in the will, did not include such child. U. S. Trust Co. v. Maxwell, (Supm. St. Spec. T.) 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 276.

It was held that the expression "bed of the Thames," in the section, as applied to the tidal portion of the river, means the soil between the ordinary high-water mark on one side and the ordinary high-water mark on the other side; and the right of the owner of the soil to take gravel, etc., between high and low water mark is not preserved by section 238 of the Act. *Conservators v. By-law Narrowing Class Defined by Statute. — It has been held that where the statute prescribes who may become beneficiaries under a certificate issued by a beneficial society, the society cannot by by-law deny recognition as beneficiaries to any of the classes mentioned in the statute. Wallace v. Madden, 168 Ill. 356. But see Halle v. District Grand Lodge, etc., 24 Ohio Cir. Ct. 717.

No Restriction — Object of Society. — Where the by-laws of a beneficial society give to a member "the right to leave his death benefit to whomsoever he desires" a member may name his brother as beneficiary, though the member leave surviving him a wife and children, notwithstanding the fact that the purpose of the society, as stated in the by-laws, is "to assist the families of the deceased by paying them the death benefits." Menovsky v. Menovsky, 19 Pa. Super. Ct. 427. See also Union Fraternal League v. Walton, 109 Ga. 1, 77 Am. St. Rep. 350; Independent Order, etc., v. Allen, 76 Miss. 326, 71 Am. St. Rep. 532.

A Statute Passed Subsequent to the Issuance of the Certificate, restricting the class to which beneficiaries must belong, cannot affect the right to name beneficiaries given by such certificate. Voight v. Kersten, 164 Ill. 314; De-laney v. Delaney, 175 Ill. 187; Moore v. Chicago Guaranty Fund L. Soc., 178 Ill. 202; Schoales v. Order of Sparta, 206 Pa. St. 11; Thomeuf v. Knights of Birmingham, 12 Pa. Super. Ct. 195.

Nor can a subsequent amendment of a by-law of a benefit society restrict the class of beneficiaries. Ancient Order United Workmen v. Brown, 112 Ga. 545; Roberts v. Cohen, 60 N. Y. App. Div. 259, affirmed (N. Y. 1902) 65 N. E. Rep. 1122; Swain v. Grand Lodge, etc., 22 Pa. Co. Ct. 548, 8 Pa. Dist. 407.

But where the certificate provides that the member shall be bound by by-laws subsequently enacted a by-law adopted subsequently restricting the class of beneficiaries and the manner of designating them is binding. Baldwin v. Begley, 185 Ill. 180.

v. Grand Lodge, etc., 79 Minn. 59, it was held that where the by-laws of a benefit society made benefits payable only "to the person designated in the certificate, when designated by name, and a person related to the deceased, or a member of his family, or dependent upon him," a beneficiary named who was not within the above classes was entitled to the fund, since he was not expressly excluded, there being no fraud practiced and the society having acquiesced in the designation for a long time.

Special Contract. — When permitted by the by-laws a beneficial association may enter into a special contract of insurance whereby one other than the wife or children of the insured member is designated as beneficiary. Wolpert v. Grand Lodge, etc., 2 Pa. Super. Ct. 564, 39 W. N. C. (Pa.) 264.

Estoppel. — Where a beneficial society has acquiesced in the designation of a beneficiary and for fifteen years received dues from the member insured, it will be estopped to claim that the issuance of the certificate was ultra vires because the beneficiary was not in the eligible class. Tramblay v. Supreme Council, etc., 90 N. Y. App. Div. 39. See also Coulson v. Flynn, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 41 Misc. (N. Y.) 186.

Beneficiary as Trustee for One Outside of Class. — A beneficiary named with the understanding that she will pay the proceeds to one who could not be named as beneficiary is a trustee of the fund and must pay over the money in accordance with the trust. Peek v. Peek, 101 Ky. 423.

Member as His Own Beneficiary. — In Brierly v. Equitable Aid Union, 170 Mass. 218, it was held that a member of a beneficial association could become his own beneficiary.

Substitution of Improper Beneficiary — Payment to Original. — Where a benefit certificate is surrendered and another issued in lieu thereof, in which an improper beneficiary is named, the fund will be paid to the beneficiary properly named in the original certificate. Groth v. Central Verein, etc., 95 Wis. 140.

4. Waiver. — Tepper v. Supreme Council, etc., 61 N. J. Eq. 638; Ledeuhr v. Wisconsin

Trust Co., 112 Wis. 657. See also Union Fraternal League v. Walton, 112 Ga. 315, where the facts were held not to constitute a waiver.

Who May Question Eligibility. — The eligibility of a designated beneficiary, in whose designation the benefit society has acquiesced, cannot be contested by a third party even though, in the absence of such designation, he would have been entitled to the fund. Supreme Lodge, etc., v. Terrell, 99 Fed. Rep. 330. See also Taylor v. Hair, 112 Fed. Rep. 913; Maguire v. Maguire, 59 N. Y. App. Div. 143; Markey v. Supreme Council, etc., 70 N. Y. App. Div. 4.

6. Tepper v. Supreme Council, etc., 61 N. J. Eq. 638, where it is said to be "settled that these beneficial societies cannot create funds for the benefit of persons outside of the classes mentioned in the statute." But see Ledeuhr v. Wisconsin Trust Co., 112 Wis. 657.

7. Society Subsequently Domiciled. — Where, after the issuance of a certificate of insurance, a foreign benefit society became domiciled in another state and thereafter laws were passed in the latter state narrowing the class of beneficiaries, a beneficiary properly designated in accordance with the laws of the society's home state will take, though not qualified by the laws of the second state. Belknap v. Johnston, 114 Iowa 265.

Enumerated Classes Not Mutually Restrictive. — Where a by-law enumerates the classes of beneficiaries as uncle, niece, next of kin who would be distributee of the member's personal estate, if he died intestate, etc., an uncle may take as beneficiary though not nearest of kin or distributee. Maxwell v. Family Protective Union, 115 Ga. 475.

964. 1. In Hoffman v. Grand Lodge, etc., 73 Mo. App. 47, it was said that the term "family," as used in the constitution of a benefit society defining who may become beneficiaries, meant persons habitually residing under one roof and forming one domestic circle, or who are dependent upon each other for support. See also Knights of Columbus v. Rowe, 70 Conn. 545; O'Neal v. O'Neal, 109 Ky. 113; Ferbrache v. Grand Lodge, etc., 81 Mo. App. 268. And see generally the title FAMILY.

A Child by a Former Wife is included by the term "family." Hutson v. Jensen, 110 Wis. 26.

Infant to Be Adopted. — An infant given into the hands of the insured on his promise to adopt it, and that is cared for and educated by him though not formally adopted, is a member of the insured's family within the meaning of the statute authorizing fraternal benefit associations to provide for the relief of families of deceased members. Grand Lodge, etc., v. McKinstry, 67 Mo. App. 82.

Servants Not Included. — Servants employed by a member are not members of his family. Grand Lodge, etc., v. Gandy, 63 N. J. Eq. 692.

2. Adult Son Included. — See Brower v. Supreme Lodge, etc., 87 Mo. App. 614, holding that the father of a son who has left the former's family may not be a beneficiary of a certificate taken out by his son.

Stepchildren Living Apart from their stepfather are to be considered members of his family. Tepper v. Supreme Council, etc., 61 N. J. Eq. 638.

A Married Daughter of a member of a benefit society, though not living with him, is comprehended in the term "immediate family." Danielson v. Wilson, 73 Ill. App. 287.

No Authorizing By-law or Statute Necessary. — "In the absence of any provisions in the certificate, by-laws, articles of incorporation, or statute either providing expressly for a change of beneficiary or prohibiting such change, by reason of the character and purposes of such associations, it should be held that the power to change the beneficiary is vested in the member assured during his lifetime." Carpenter v. Knapp, 101 Iowa 712. But see Locomotive Engineers Mut. L., etc., Ins. Assoc. v. Winterstein, 58 N. J. Eq. 189, holding that a certificate issued by a beneficial insurance association invests the beneficiary with a vested interest in the certificate which cannot be defeated by the member insured where neither the constitution or the by-laws of the society nor the certificate confers on the members the power to change the beneficiary.

Charging the Fund with Payment of a Debt. — A member of a benefit association may charge the fund payable to the beneficiary previously designated with the payment of a debt owing by such member. Woodruff v. Tilman, 112 Mich. 188.

Consent of the Beneficiary. — The power to change the beneficiary is not limited by a provision indorsed on the certificate of a benefit association that "in case of assignment of the within certificate, the beneficiary must consent thereto, and said assignment must be approved by the secretary." Carpenter v. Knapp, 101 Iowa 712.

Acts Constituting Consent. — A letter from an insurance company, acknowledging the receipt of an assignment of a policy issued by it, in which letter the company states that it will place the assignment "on file for such attention as it may deserve when such policy becomes a claim," is a sufficient indication of the company's consent to the assignment. Tremblay v. Aetna L. Ins. Co., 97 Me. 547, 94 Am. St. Rep. 521.

Also a provision in a policy requiring the insurer's consent to an assignment is waived by the insurer paying the fund into court, and failure to comply with such provision cannot be set up by the assignor to invalidate the assignment. Fuller v. Kent, 13 N. Y. App. Div. 529. See also John Hancock Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. White, 20 R. I. 457.

Failure to Appeal — Waiver. — Where a member of a benevolent society fails to exercise his right of appeal to a higher tribunal within the association and acquiesces in a decision denying a sick benefit, the widow of such member cannot recover. Where, however, the society has rendered no decision as to the status of the member, his widow may maintain an action for the benefits to which she is entitled as the widow of "a member in good standing." Dale v. Weston Lodge, 24 Ont. App. 351.

Inadequate Relief — Property Rights. — Where property rights are involved and the procedure in the associate tribunals is unreasonably burdensome, a member may resort to the courts in the first instance. Brown v. Supreme Ct., etc., 66 N. Y. App. Div. 259, affirmed 176 N. Y. 132; Weiss v. Musical Mut. Protective Union, 189 Pa. St. 446, 69 Am. St. Rep. 820.

Limitation of Rule. — Where the right to appeal is not absolute, but depends on the favor of some individual, a member may resort to the courts at once without seeking to appeal within the order from the unfavorable decision of the lower tribunal. Holomany v. National Slavonic Soc., 39 N. Y. App. Div. 573.

1077. 1. Effects of Lawful Discipline. — Josich v. Austrian Benev. Soc., 119 Cal. 74.

Courts are reluctant to interfere with the disciplinary powers of beneficial associations. People v. Grand Lodge, etc., 166 Ill. 71.

In matters of discipline, not involving property rights, a party must exhaust his means of seeking redress inside the order, before appealing to the courts. Roxbury Lodge, No. 184, etc., v. Hocking, 60 N. J. L. 439.

Fund, 5 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 101; Wheeler v. Lackawanna Coal Co., 5 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 97.

The New York Rule is that a beneficiary can recover nothing if a member was in arrears at the time of his death, where the contract of membership exempts a beneficial association from liability for such a cause. Anthony v. Carl, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 28 Misc. (N. Y.) 200; Hess v. Johnson, 41 N. Y. App. Div. 465; Paster v. Nagelsmith, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 30 Misc. (N. Y.) 791; Cowan v. New York Caledonian Club, 46 N. Y. App. Div. 288; McNeil v. Southern Tier Masonic Relief Assoc., 40 N. Y. App. Div. 581; Phillips v. U. S. Grand Lodge, etc., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 39 Misc. (N. Y.) 296.

In Nebraska, where the by-laws of a benevolent society provide that a member shall stand suspended on his failure to pay his dues, such failure causes a suspension without affirmative action on the part of the society. Field v. National Council, etc., 64 Neb. 226.

In Wisconsin it has been held that a by-law providing that if a member shall engage in certain kinds of prohibited business he shall at once forfeit all rights to benefits is self-executing and is a defense to an action to recover benefits, although the association took no affirmative action in the matter. Langnecker v. Grand Lodge, etc., 111 Wis. 279.

1087. 1. Suspension of Member. — Where the suspension of a member of a beneficial association works a forfeiture, the forfeiture does not take place till the member is legally suspended. Lewis v. Western Funeral Ben. Assoc., 77 Mo. App. 586.

1090. 1. Acceptance of Arrearages. — Independent Order of Foresters v. Haggerty, 86 Ill. App. 31; Order of Chosen Friends v. Austerlitz, 75 Ill. App. 74; Campbell v. Supreme Lodge, etc., 168 Mass. 397; Lord v. National Protective Soc., 129 Mich. 335; American Council, No. 107, etc., v. National Council, etc., 63 N. J. L. 52; Gray v. Chapter Gen., etc., 70 N. Y. App. Div. 155; Wheeler v. Lackawanna Coal Co., 5 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 97. See also La Société, etc., v. Moisan, 7 Quebec Q. B. 128, reversing 12 Quebec Super. Ct. 189, and citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.), title BENEVOLENT OR BENEFICIAL ASSOCIATIONS, but holding that in the case at bar, in view of the express provisions of the society's constitution and laws, to which the member had assented, the member's own act or default expelled him ipso facto from membership, and nothing but affirmative action on the part of the directors in the form of a resolution could reinstate him as a member and restore his privileges.

In People v. Sciacca Assoc., 56 N. Y. App. Div. 341, where an association imposed a fine, but the member refused to pay, and the association thereafter accepted the payment of his regular dues, it was held that it was estopped from afterwards expelling the member for non-payment of his fine.

Knowledge of Breach of Condition. — Modern Woodmen of America v. Wieland, 109 Ill. App. 340; Supreme Lodge, etc., v. Quinn, 78 Miss. 525, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1091.

Special Regulations as to Reinstatement. — Acceptance of assessments after a forfeiture by reason of nonpayment will not effect a reinstatement if the constitution and by-laws of the association impose other conditions as prerequisites to such reinstatement. La Société, etc., v. Moisan, 7 Quebec Q. B. 128, reversing 12 Quebec Super. Ct. 189.

1097. 3. Notice Must Follow Prescribed Form. — Cronin v. Supreme Council, etc., 199 Ill. 228, 93 Am. St. Rep. 127, quoting 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1097.

Notice in Conflict with By-laws. — A notice is invalid which requires a member to pay an assessment before it is due and within a shorter time than that prescribed in the by-laws. Railway Pass., etc., Mut. Aid, etc., Assoc. v. Thompson, 91 Ill. App. 580. See also District Grand Lodge No. 4, etc., v. Menken, 67 Ill. App. 576.

Notice with Official Seal. — The requirement of a by-law which provides that assessment notices "shall bear the official stamp of the collector, or the seal of the council," is substantial, and the officer giving the notice has no right to dispense with it, and therefore a notice of assessment without either such stamp or seal, is invalid. Cronin v. Supreme Council, etc., 199 Ill. 228, 93 Am. St. Rep. 127, reversing 101 Ill. App. 479, and quoting 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1097.

1099. 3. Proof of Notice. — Distribution of the official paper of the society by a distributing agency does not prove that notice of an assessment was given to members. Actual delivery to the individual members must be shown. In re Ontario Ins. Act, 31 Ont. 154.

1100. 1. Liberty to Pay or Not. — In re Ontario Ins. Act, 31 Ont. 154.

4. Payment Must Be Within Time Specified. — Ellis v. Alta Friendly Soc., 16 Pa. Super. Ct. 607.

Computation of Time — Date of Notice — Mailing. — That the computation of time should be so made as to protect rights and prevent forfeiture, if possible, see Cronin v. Supreme Council, etc., 199 Ill. 228, 93 Am. St. Rep. 127, reversing 101 Ill. App. 479, and quoting 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1101.

1102. 1. So the Acceptance of an Order. — Where not prohibited by the constitution or by-laws, a contract to furnish supplies may be accepted in lieu of assessments. Bixby v. Grand Lodge, etc., 101 Iowa 505.

1108. 2. Payment to Be to Beneficiary Directly. — People v. Petrie, 191 Ill. 497, 85 Am. St. Rep. 268, quoting 3 AM. AND ENG.

ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1108; Radiant Temple No. 2, etc., v. Piper, 62 N. J. Eq. 565.

1109. 1. Proof of Death. — Worthen v. Massachusetts Ben. L. Assoc., (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 437, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1109.

Due Proof of Death Is Waived where the officer before whom proof is to be made refuses to perform his duties. Murphy v. Independent Order, etc., 77 Miss. 830.

2. Proof of Disability or Sickness. — Worthen v. Massachusetts Ben. L. Assoc., (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 437, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1109.

Notice of Sickness Must Be Given Within Prescribed Time. — A by-law of a society which provides that in order to entitle a member to sick benefits in case he does not employ the physician designated by the society, he must notify the secretary within twenty-four hours, so that the secretary can immediately notify the physician of the society, who will then visit the sick member within six hours, and if he finds that the member is sick, will leave with him a memorandum, and that no other certificate will be recognized by the society, is not unreasonable. Falcone v. Societa Sarti Italiani, etc., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 30 Misc. (N. Y.) 106.

Application for Benefits Must Be Made Within Time Prescribed. — There is nothing unreasonable in a regulation of a mutual benefit society which requires an application for benefits to be made within five weeks after the benefits have accrued, even though the society may construe such regulation to mean that in case of chronic illness, the application must be renewed every five weeks. As to such matters, the society has a right to control its procedure. Robinson v. Templars Lodge, No. 17, 117 Cal. 370, 59 Am. St. Rep. 193.

Certificate of Attending Physician. — Where a by-law provided that the certificate of the attending physician as to the nature of the insured's sickness must be approved by the physician of the association, it was held that this was a condition precedent which must be complied with before there could be a recovery of sick benefits. McVoy v. Keller, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 36 Misc. (N. Y.) 803.

"In common acceptance, bequest and 'legacy' are synonymous terms, but bequeath is the term generally by which a gift of personalty is made in a will, and a legacy is the money or personal property bequeathed. The words 'devise,' bequest, and 'legacy' are not infrequently used in wills in a sense different from their strict legal meaning. * * * None of these words have so fixed a legal meaning, however, that a gift will fail because testator does not use the words descriptive of the gift or the act of giving with technical accuracy. A devise is often mis-called a bequest, or bequest is often used to include both realty and personalty, or is used of a gift of money alone." Per Baskin, C. J., in Matter of Campbell, 27 Utah 361.

Lands — Bequeath Absolutely. — "By the words 'bequeath absolutely,' he [the testator] unquestionably intended to devise to his said son his whole estate in said lands. These words are ample for that purpose in a will." Gantt, J., in Yocum v. Siler, 160 Mo. 289. See also Roth v. Rauschenbusch, 173 Mo. 582.

"Will and Bequeath" as commonly understood means that the testator intended to give to the legatee the particular property described, whether it be real estate or personal property, and not that it was intended to give only a part or an interest in it, or a life estate, because technically the word bequeath may relate to personalty more properly than to realty. Mills v. Franklin, 128 Ind. 447.

7. Best — Rent. — See Chandler v. Bradley, (1897) 1 Ch. 315.

5. 1a. Bestowed — Mechanic's Lien. — In construing the California Mechanic's Lien Law, the court said: "If it had been intended by the legislature that a subcontractor should have a lien for nothing except his own personal labor, they should have made the statute read, 'shall have a lien upon the property upon which they have performed labor.' Instead of the word 'performed' the legislature used the word bestowed, which means 'used' or 'placed,' and never means 'performed.' This language shows that it was intended to give a subcontractor a lien for the labor that he caused his employees to perform on the building." Macomber v. Bigelow, 126 Cal. 14.

Wagering, Playing, Gaming, and Betting Interchangeable. — In Thrower v. State, 117 Ga. 753, the court said: "The words wagering, playing, gaming, and betting, though each having a meaning more or less different from the other, are often used one for the other."

11. 1. In Maddox v. State, 118 Ga. 72, the court said: "Webster's International Dictionary defines a beverage to be a 'liquid for drinking; drink;—usually applied to drink artificially prepared and of an agreeable flavor. * * * Specifically, a name applied to various kinds of drinks.' For a judge in charging the jury to use the word 'beverage' is in no sense an expression of opinion that the drink referred to is intoxicating. It is as proper to apply the word 'beverage' to a cup of coffee or a glass of lemonade as to a glass of beer or whiskey."

12. 2. In Ontario. — The expression "beyond the seas" in 4 & 5 Anne, c. 3, § 19, is not to be construed literally, but means, when applied to a defendant sued in this province, "out of the Province of Ontario." Boulton v. Langmuir, 24 Ont. App. 618.

Statutes exist in some jurisdictions providing that persons who marry a second time within a certain number of months from the date of a decree of divorce are guilty of bigamy. Niece v. Territory, 9 Okla. 535; Turpin v. Turpin, (Tenn. Ch. 1899) 58 S. W. Rep. 763, the latter case holding that such a statute has no extraterritorial effect, and a person divorced in Washington is not guilty of bigamy by marrying again in Tennessee within the time prohibited by the Washington statute.

II. RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES — Where Principal Disclosed. — See note 2.

Undisclosed Principal — Genuineness of Paper — Implied Warranty. — See note 3.

51. 1. The Word "Broker" sometimes means in ordinary speech a dealer in money, notes, bills of exchange, etc. Schaul v. Charlotte, 118 N. Car. 733.

Bill and note brokers negotiate the purchase and sale of bills of exchange and promissory notes. No person is considered a broker who buys for himself a note, bill, or debt due from any person or government. Gast v. Buckley, (Ky. 1901) 64 S. W. Rep. 632, wherein it was held that a person who purchased for himself claims against a city was not a broker within the meaning of a city ordinance requiring a license tax.

2. Principal Disclosed. — Bailey v. Galbreath, 100 Tenn. 599, quoting 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 51.

Contracts. — See note 2.

61. 2. Origin — Reason for Prohibition. — See Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Texas, 177 U. S. 66.

62. 4. What Necessary to Constitute Bill of Credit. — Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Texas, 177 U. S. 66; Wesley v. Eells, 90 Fed. Rep. 151, affirmed 177 U. S. 370; Robinson v. Lee, 122 Fed. Rep. 1012.

63. 1. Coupons — Scrip. — In Wesley v. Eells, 90 Fed. Rep. 151, affirmed 177 U. S. 370, the court in distinguishing the Virginia coupon cases said: "There are certain resemblances and several marked differences between the Virginia coupons, which were held not to be bills of credit, and the South Carolina bond scrip. The coupons and the scrip are alike in that they are obligations and indebtedness of the state. They are receivable by the state treasurer in payment of taxes and other dues to the state. Their dissimilarity lies in the fact that the coupons are to be paid on a day certain, while the scrip is not payable at any particular time, but is only to be redeemed or retired from year to year. The coupons are receivable in payment of taxes and other dues to the state only at and after maturity, while the scrip may be used for these purposes from the date of its issue. The coupons are paid and retired when received by the state, but the scrip may be re-issued from the state treasury as often as received, in satisfaction of all claims against the state, except for paying interest on the public debt."

2. State Warrants. — "A warrant drawn by the state authorities in payment of an appropriation made by the legislature, where the warrant is payable upon presentation, if there be funds in the treasury, and which has been issued to an individual in payment of the debt of the state to him, cannot * * * be properly called a bill of credit or a treasury warrant intended to circulate as money. Although the state directed its officers to receive the warrants as money, in payment of certain dues to the state, and to deliver them to those who would receive them as money in payment of dues from the state to such persons, yet * * * this direction was only another mode of expressing the idea that, as between the state and the individual, the delivery of the warrant should operate as a payment of the debt for which the delivery was made. When the warrants once came back to the treasurer of the state, they were not to be reissued. The decisions of this court have shown great reluctance, under this provision as to bills of credit, to interfere with or reduce the very important and necessary power of the states to pay their debts by delivering to their creditors their written promises to pay them on demand, and in the meantime to receive the paper as payment of debts due the state for taxes and other like matters." Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Texas, 177 U. S. 66.

Revenue Bond Scrip issued by the state of South Carolina under the Act of March 2, 1872, printed or engraved in form similar to that of the treasury note of the United States, and in various denominations, bearing no interest, and whenever received in the state-treasury re-issued at pleasure, is in law and in fact a bill of credit, and in conflict with section 10, article I., of the Constitution of the United States. Robinson v. Lee, 122 Fed. Rep. 1012; Wesley v. Eells, 90 Fed. Rep. 151, affirmed 177 U. S. 370.

Effect of Stipulation Where Extension Is Granted.—Where the original note had attached to it coupon notes for the payment of interest annually to accrue thereon, and contained a stipulation that, upon the failure to pay any of the interest notes within thirty days after due, the principal sum should, at the option of the holder, become due, and upon the maturity of such note an extension is granted to the maker, who delivers to the payee other notes for the annual interest to accrue, the stipulation contained in the original note applies to the new interest notes, and upon the failure to pay one of these within the specified time after its maturity, the holder of the original note may declare the same due at once. Heath v. Achey, 96 Ga. 438.

Rights of Assignee.—Where such a note contained a stipulation that the principal should become due instantan on thirty days' default in the payment of any interest instalment, and before any default in the payment of interest had occurred the payee assigned to another the principal only of the note, reserving the interest and the right to collect the same, such payee could, as between himself and the maker of the note, lawfully extend the time of paying any annual instalment of interest; and his so doing would not, as to the assignee, render the principal of the note immediately due, so as to authorize the latter to bring suit thereon in advance of the time fixed in the note itself for the payment of the principal in case there was no default in the payment of interest. *Scott v. Mathematical Certainty Not Requisite.—Where, in an action on a cattle note, it was agreed that the plaintiff became the owner and holder for value of the note and mortgage, and on the back of the note was an indorsement that the mortgage securing it bore the amount of revenue stamps required by law, duly canceled, which indorsement was signed by the payees, such stipulation and memorandum sufficiently indicated an intent to pass the mortgage as a part of the assignment of the note, without regard to the latter's negotiability. *State Nat. Where the Purpose of the Stipulation Is to Collect Usurious Interest it is not enforceable. Tyler v. Walker, 101 Tenn. 306.

Stipulation Valid When Bona Fide. — Stephenson v. Allison, 123 Ala. 439.

Stipulation a Contract for Indemnity. — The stipulation in a note for the payment of attorneys' fees is a contract for indemnity, and not one for the payment of agreed damages. In the absence of an agreement between the holder and the attorney employed by him to collect, the holder can only recover such amount for attorneys' fees as will constitute a reasonable payment for the value of the attorneys' services, and this is true even though the note provides for the recovery of a ten per cent. fee. Texas Land, etc., Co. v. Robertson, (Tex. Civ. App. 1905) 85 S. W. Rep. 1020.

Georgia. — Under the Civil Code (§ 3667), as it stood before the Act of 1900, an obligation to pay attorney's fees upon a note, in addition to the stipulated rate of interest, whether such obligation be contained in the note or in a deed given to secure the note, is unenforceable unless to a suit upon the note the defendant files a plea which is not sustained. Demere v. Germania Bank, 116 Ga. 317; Stoner v. Pickett, 115 Ga. 653.

A plea of plene administravit filed in a suit by "A., administrator," is a plea by the defendant as an individual, and is an insufficient answer to the suit. When such a plea is stricken on demurrer, the defendant is liable for attorney's fees where the note provides for the payment of attorney's fees and was executed prior to the passage of the act approved Dec. 12, 1900 (Acts 1900, p. 53; Van Epps's Code Supp., § 6185). Glisson v. Weil, 117 Ga. 842.

An indorser who files a plea seeking to be discharged and fails to sustain it is liable for the attorney's fees even though the principal files no plea. Hall v. Pratt, 103 Ga. 255.

Series Maturing on Failure to Pay One. — Where provision is made that the whole of a series of notes shall mature upon the failure to pay any one of the notes at maturity, and each note contains a stipulation for the payment of an attorney's fee, the holder may recover attorney's fees, upon the failure of the maker to pay one of the notes at maturity, although the holder makes no demand and the maker was ready to pay them on demand. Dieter v. Bowers, (Tex. Civ. App. 1905) 84 S. W. Rep. 847.

Manner of Ascertain Where No Amount Stipulated. — Keokuk Falls Imp. Co. v. King'sland, etc., Mfg. Co., 5 Okla. 32.

The stipulation being a contract for indemnity and not one for the payment of agreed damage, where no agreement has been made between the holders and the attorney employed by him to collect, the holder can recover on the note only such amount for attorneys' fees as his attorney can recover from him for his services, which is, in the absence of agreement, their reasonable value. Texas Land, etc., Co. v. Robertson, (Tex. Civ. App. 1905) 85 S. W. Rep. 1020.

Wallace*, 67 Ark. 575; Woods v. Carl, (Ark. 1905) 87 S. W. Rep. 621.
- The purpose of this statute is to save to the vendee of a patent right all the defenses he may have to an action on his note given therefor and to prevent the loss of these defenses by a transfer of the note to an innocent holder before maturity. The failure to comply with this statute does not affect the validity of the sale, but only renders the note absolutely void, and the vendor may recover whatever may be

Georgia. — Under Van Epps's Code Supp., § 6650 et seq., a note given for the purchase price of a patent right is not void in the hands of a bona fide purchaser for failure to express the consideration. Smith v. Wood, 111 Ga. 221; Parr v. Erickson, 115 Ga. 873.

It is only where the consideration is expressed in the note that the indorsee, before maturity and for value, takes it subject to all defenses. Parr v. Erickson, 115 Ga. 873.

Indiana Statute — Failure to State Consideration Renders Note Voidable. — Lofland v. Goben, 16 Ind. App. 67.

Under Burns's Annot. Stat. 1901, §§ 8130, 8131, the statute is extended to the sale of the right to manufacture, use, or sell a patented article whether the right, or either of them, be by sale, grant, or license, exclusive or nonexclusive, or shall form the whole or any part of the consideration, and requires the additional indorsement, "Given for the right to manufacture a patented article," or words which clearly state the consideration for which the note was given. Petersburg First Nat. Bank v. Beach, (Ind. App. 1904) 72 N. E. Rep. 287; Kniiss v. Holbrook, 16 Ind. App. 229.

A bona fide purchaser for value without notice that the note was given for a patent right may recover on it. Pape v. Hartwig, 23 Ind. App. 333.

The maker of a note given for a patent right, who fails to place on the note the requisite words, is guilty of negligence and cannot defend against it in the hands of a bona fide holder for value without notice and before maturity. Pape v. Hartwig, 23 Ind. App. 333.

A Sale of the Exclusive Right to Sell a Patented Article is not within the purview of the statute. People's State Bank v. Jones, 26 Ind. 583, 84 Am. St. Rep. 310.

Kansas Statute. — The taking of a promissory note, the consideration of which is the sale of a patent right, or what is claimed by the vendor to be a patent right, without inserting therein the words, "Given for a patent right," is, under the Kansas statute, a misdemeanor, punishable by fine or imprisonment; and no recovery can be had thereon by one who violates the statute, nor by a transferee of the note who has knowledge that the law was violated. Pinney v. Concordia First Nat. Bank, 68 Kan. 223. See also Pinney v. Concordia First Nat. Bank, (Kan. 1904) 78 Pac. Rep. 151.

Kentucky Statute — Peddler's Notes. — Under Ky. Stat., § 4223, requiring all notes given for articles or rights sold by a peddler to bear the words "peddler's note" on the face, a note not bearing such words is void in the hands of the payee or third persons. Nunn v. Citizens' Bank, 107 Ky. 262. See also Bohon v. Brown, 101 Ky. 354, 72 Am. St. Rep. 420; Burns v. Sparks, 82 S. W. Rep. 425, 26 Ky. L. Rep. 688.

The failure to place the words upon the note is no defense where the note has indorsed upon it the express assurance of the maker that there is no defense. And a bona fide purchaser without notice of the consideration may enforce the note against the maker. Billington v. McColpin, (Ky. 1900) 60 S. W. Rep. 923.

Missouri Statute Not Applicable to Notes Given Before Its Enactment. — Clark v. Porter, 90 Mo. App. 143.

Under New York Laws of 1877, c. 65, a note given for a patent right which does not contain the statutory words is not for that reason illegal, but in the hands of a bona fide purchaser for value before maturity, without notice of the consideration, is entitled to the protection accorded to commercial paper by the law merchant. Paddock v. Coates, (County Ct.) 19 Misc. (N. Y.) 305.

Ohio Statute. — Allen v. Johnson, 11 Ohio Cir. Dec. 42, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 136.

Pennsylvania Statute. — An omission of the statement of the consideration renders the note subject to the same defenses in the hands of a purchaser with notice as in the hands of the original holder. Troxell v. Malin, 9 Pa. Super. Ct. 483.

The note is merely voidable, however, and is enforceable in the hands of a bona fide purchaser without notice. Brown v. Pegram, (C. A.) 125 Fed. Rep. 577.

Note and Mortgage — Stipulation in Mortgage that Mortgagor Shall Pay Taxes, Etc. — In Nebraska it was formerly held that the negotiability of a note was not affected by a stipulation in the mortgage that the mortgagor should pay taxes, assessments, insurance, etc. Bradbury v. Kinney, 63 Neb. 754; Consterdine v. Moore, 65 Neb. 291, 101 Am. St. Rep. 620; Garnett v. Meyers, 65 Neb. 280; Kendall v. Selby, 66 Neb. 60, 103 Am. St. Rep. 697.

The recent decisions do not, however, follow this view, and it is now held that such stipulations render the note nonnegotiable. Allen v. Dunn, (Neb. 1904) 99 N. W. Rep. 680; Consterdine v. Moore, 65 Neb. 296, 101 Am. St. Rep. 620, vacating judgment 65 Neb. 292; Garnett v. Meyers, 65 Neb. 288, vacating judgment 65 Neb. 283. See also *Roblee v. Union Stockyards Nat. Retention of Title to Interest. — The payee of a note which provides for the payment of interest annually may in writing assign to another the principal and reserve to himself the interest with the right to collect the same, and this although the note provides that the principal shall become due on default in the payment of any interest instalment. In such a case a grant by the payee of an extension of time for the payment of the interest does not render the principal immediately due. Scott v. Liddell, 98 Ga. 24.

The Negotiable Instruments Law does not render invalid a note given in payment of money due in a gaming transaction where the note is held by a bona fide purchaser. Wirt v. Stubblefield, 17 App. Cas. (D. C.) 283.

Subsequent Promise of Payment. — A note payable to the winner in a gaming transaction is void, and no suit can be maintained thereon, even by an innocent holder for value, unless the maker has induced the purchase thereof by promising payment. In such case the maker is estopped, as against such innocent holder, from setting up the gaming consideration for such note. Hurlburt v. Straub, 54 W. Va. 303.

A Verbal Promise to Pay a Note Void for Illegality is without consideration and not enforceable. Swinney v. Edwards, 8 Wyo. 54, 80 Am. St. Rep. 916.

Usurious Note Void as to Interest. — Miles v. Kelley, 16 Tex. Civ. App. 147.

Violation of Liquor Laws. — Notes given for intoxicating liquors are enforceable in the hands of bona fide purchasers, under Me. Rev. Stat., c. 27, § 56. Oakes v. Merrifield, 93 Me. 297; Wing v. Ford, 89 Me. 140.

Note for Race Horse. — Biegler v. Merchants' L. & T. Co., 164 Ill. 197.

The Nebraska Statute providing that contracts made by foreign corporations which have failed to comply with the statutory prerequisites for doing business in the state shall be void as to such corporations and their "assigns," does not render void, in the hands of a holder in due course, a note given to a foreign corporation which has failed to comply with the statute, and by it transferred to such holder. National Bank of Commerce v. Pick, (N. Dak. 1904) 99 N. W. Rep. 63.

Notes of Foreign Corporation Which Has Not Complied with Local Statutes Void. — Massillon First Nat. Bank v. Coughron, (Tenn. Ch. 1899) 52 S. W. Rep. 1112.

Worthlessness of Consideration. — Clayton v. Cavender, 1 Marv. (Del.) 191; Leonard v. Draper, 187 Mass. 536.

A Note Given in Payment of an Open Account is not invalidated on the ground of failure of consideration by reason of the account being barred by the statute of limitations at the time suit is brought on the note. Carter v. Bolin, 11 Tex. Civ. App. 283.

Waiver of Failure of Consideration. — Edison Gen. Electric Co. v. Blount, 96 Ga. 272; Hogan v. Brown, 112 Ga. 662.

Renewal Note. — Where the connection between the first note, for which valid consideration was received, and the notes given in renewal thereof is clearly established, want of consideration is not a valid defense to an action by the payee against the maker on a renewal note in which the latter acknowledges to have received value. Ross v. Western L. & T. Co., 11 Quebec K. B. 292.

Patent Right Notes. — The proof that the maker of a note given in consideration of the patent right received nothing from the patent is not sufficient to render the note invalid on the ground of failure of consideration. Pad-dock v. Coates, (County Ct.) 19 Misc. (N. Y.) 305.

Where the Note Has Been Fraudulently Diverted, the mere fact that it was given as collateral security for an antecedent indebtedness is not sufficient, without more, to constitute the holder a bona fide holder for value. Sutherland v. Mead, 80 N. Y. App. Div. 103.

Pledgee Bona Fide Holder to Amount of Debt. — Yellowstone Nat. Bank v. Gagnon, 19 Mont. 402, 61 Am. St. Rep. 520.

292. 2. Pre-existing Debt Held Not a Valuable Consideration — Alabama. — Thompson v. Maddux, 117 Ala. 468.

In Prim v. Hammel, 134 Ala. 652, 92 Am. St. Rep. 52, there is a dictum apparently to the contrary effect, the court citing in support thereof Louisville Banking Co. v. Howard, 123 Ala. 380, 82 Am. St. Rep. 126. This latter case, however, is merely to the effect that the transferee is a bona fide holder where an extension of time is granted in consideration of the transfer, and it would seem that this statute still adheres to the minority doctrine.

Right to Rely on Apparent Authority. — A bank discounting negotiable paper, with knowledge that the person from whom it is taken holds it as agent only, is bound to ascertain the extent of the authority of the agent; but in the absence of knowledge of any limitation upon the authority apparently conferred by the principal, it may rely upon such apparent authority. Merchants', etc., Nat. Bank v. Ohio Valley Furniture Co., (W. Va. 1905) 50 S. E. Rep. 880.

Extent to Which Power May Be Presumed. — Absolute ownership of a thing, and agency respecting it, in the same person, are incompatible, the latter being merged in the former. Hence a negotiable note in the hands of an agent, indorsed in blank by the principal, cannot be regarded by a stranger, having notice of the agency, as both prima facie proof of title in the agent and a power of attorney, conferring upon the agent all the power and authority that are incident to ownership; but he may deal with the agent as such, and rely upon the note as conferring apparent authority to sell it and receive payment on behalf of the principal. Merchants', etc., Nat. Bank v. Ohio Valley Furniture Co., (W. Va. 1905) 50 S. E. Rep. 880.

Doctrine in Connecticut. — A written promise to pay interest semiannually in advance, contained in a negotiable note payable "on demand," makes it clear that the parties to the note understood and intended that it should run for some time, and for at least six months. Accordingly, the payee of such a note is under no obligation to demand payment four months from its date and thereafter use due diligence to collect of the maker, in order to hold the guarantor of the note liable thereon. Beardsley v. Hawes, 71 Conn. 39.

Under Connecticut Gen. Stat., § 1859, negotiable demand notes remaining unpaid four months from date are considered overdue and dishonored. Oley v. Miller, 74 Conn. 304.

Indorser Considered as Ordinary Indorser. — See note 4.

suit must be brought against the maker within the time fixed by the statute in order to charge the indorser, unless the indorser induces delay in bringing the suit. Marshall v. Bishop, 140 Ala. 206.

Georgia. — Pattillo v. Alexander, 96 Ga. 60; Sibley v. American Exch. Nat. Bank, 97 Ga. 126; Germania Bank v. Trapnell, 118 Ga. 578; Richland Bank v. Nicholson, 120 Ga. 622; Aldine Mfg. Co. v. Warner, 96 Ga. 370.

Notice to surety not required. Hunnicut v. Perot, 100 Ga. 312.

While the mere failure of the holder of a domestic bill of exchange to give the drawer notice that the bill has been dishonored will not discharge him, if statements are made by the holder to the drawer to the effect that the bill has been paid, which statements lull the drawer into security, and as a consequence thereof injury results to him by reason of the depreciation in value of property pledged to secure the payment of the bill, the drawer will be discharged to the extent of the injury thus sustained. Richland Bank v. Nicholson, 120 Ga. 622.

By Kentucky Stat., § 489, every person who signs his name upon the back of a promissory note is liable as an assignor unless a different purpose is expressed in the writing, and to hold him liable the maker must ordinarily be prosecuted to insolvency at the first term of the court after the maturity of the note; but if the assignor, either by words or acts, induces the assignee to refrain from prompt institution of the suit against the maker, he is estopped from relying upon such failure as a defense when sued on the assignment. American Nat. Bank v. Smallhouse, 113 Ky. 147.

By Mass. Stat. 1898, c. 533, § 115, notice to the indorser is not required where he is the person to whom the instrument is presented for payment. In re Swift, 106 Fed. Rep. 65.

Under N. Car. Code, 1883, § 50, making indorsers liable as sureties, notice is not necessary. Washington First Nat. Bank v. Eureka Lumber Co., 123 N. Car. 24.

Under Statute in Texas. — Blakey v. Allen, 22 Tex. Civ. App. 39; Smith v. Ojerholm, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 111; Smith v. T. M. Richardson Lumber Co., 92 Tex. 448; Vitkovitch v. Klein-ecke, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 75 S. W. Rep. 544. This statute does not apply where it is sought to hold the original promisor liable. Beissner v. Weekes, 21 Tex. Civ. App. 14.

Same — Express Waiver of Diligence in Bringing Suit. — Williams v. Rosenbaum, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 79 S. W. Rep. 594.

Notice Essential Though Note Matures by Reason of Maker's Insolvency. — Banque Nationale v. Martel, 17 Quebec Super. Ct. 97.

Joint Indorsers — Notice to Each Essential to Bind Him. — Bowie v. Hume, 13 App. Cas. (D. C.) 286.

Notice of Dishonor of Demand Note Essential. — Porter v. Thom, 30 N. Y. App. Div. 363.

An Indorser to Whom a Note Has Been Sent for Collection Is Not Excused by His Neglect to give himself notice. Auten v. Manistee Nat. Bank, 67 Ark. 243.

Inability to Make Presentment for Payment Does Not Excuse Failure to Give Notice of Protest. — Reed v. Spear, (Supm. Ct. App. Div.) 94 N. Y. Supp. 1007.

Burden of Proving Notice. — Robinson v. Aird, 43 Fla. 30; Historical Pub. Co. v. Hartranft, 3 Pa. Super. Ct. 59.

399. 2. Notice Given by Holder to All the Successive Indorsers. — Standard Sewing Mach. Co. v. Smith, 1 Marv. (Del.) 330. See also Hazlett v. Bragdon, 7 Pa. Super. Ct. 581.

4. Notice to Indorser to Be Charged Sufficient. — Standard Sewing Mach. Co. v. Smith, 1 Marv. (Del.) 330; Lyddane v. Owensboro Banking Co., (Ky. 1899) 51 S. W. Rep. 453; Rolla State Bank v. Pezoldt, 95 Mo. App. 404; Oakley v. Carr, 66 Neb. 751.

Under Ky. Stat., § 3725, notice to all of the indorsers is not essential. Lyddane v. Owensboro Banking Co., (Ky. 1899) 51 S. W. Rep. 453.

400. 1. Notice to Prior Indorser May Be Given by Immediate Indorsee. — Standard Sewing Mach. Co. v. Smith, 1 Marv. (Del.) 330; University Press v. Williams, 48 N. Y. App. Div. 188.

Preparation of New Notice Not Essential. — The notice served by the last indorser need not be actually prepared by him, but he may adopt and utilize for that purpose a notice sent him by the protesting officer, addressed to the next prior indorser. Oakley v. Carr, 66 Neb. 751.

401. 3. Indorser Considered as Maker. — New York L. Ins. Co. v. McKellar, 68 N. H. 326; McFetrich v. Woodrow, 67 N. H. 174; Colver v. Wheeler, 5 Ohio Cir. Dec. 278, 11 Ohio Cir. Ct. 604; National Exch. Bank v. Cumberland Lumber Co., 100 Tenn. 479; Kennon v. Bailey, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 28.

Indorsers Before Delivery Who Are Recognized as Indorsers are entitled to notice, even though they were, prima facie, joint makers. Carolina Sav. Bank v. Florence Tobacco Co., 45 S. Car. 373.

In West Virginia unless the payee agrees to treat such an indorser as an indorser notice of nonpayment is not necessary to hold him as a joint maker or gaurantor. Miller v. Clendenin, 42 W. Va. 416.

4. Indorser Considered as Ordinary Indorser. — Carter v. Odom, 121 Ala. 162; Carrington v. Odom, 124 Ala. 529; Alabama Nat. Bank v. Rivers, 116 Ala. 1, 67 Am. St. Rep. 95; Howard v. Van Gieson, 46 N. Y. App. Div. 77. See also Redden v. Lambert, 112 La. 740.

Waiver of Demand Waives Presentment. — Burton v. Goffin, 5 British Columbia 454.

460. 1. Waiver of Protest of Negotiable Notes.—Seymour v. Francisco, 4 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 12, Cleve. L. Rec. 9.

4. Waiver of Notice No Excuse for Want of Presentment.—Union Nat. Bank v. Grant, 48 La. Ann. 18; Blatchford v. Harris, 115 Ill. App. 164, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 460.

6. Waiver Implied from Acts and Language Before Maturity.—In re Swift, 106 Fed. Rep. 65; Quaintance v. Goodrow, 16 Mont. 376; Roch v. London, (N. Y. City Ct. Gen. T.) 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 384, reversed (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 25 Misc. (N. Y.) 533; Laumeier v. Hallock, 103 Mo. App. 116. See also Hays v. Citizens' Sav. Bank, 101 Ky. 201.

Language Not Amounting to Waiver.—The fact that the indorser, upon being informed by the payee of the balance due upon the note, stated that he would see the maker, and that, if the latter did not make his account good, he would "go and shut him up," does not amount to a waiver of demand and notice. Congress Brewing Co. v. Habenicht, 83 N. Y. App. Div. 141.

Giving a Duplicate Draft to replace a lost one does not constitute a waiver, where the plaintiff was guilty of negligence. Gilby Bank v. Farnsworth, 7 N. Dak. 6.

Waiver Implied from Statement of Indorser that he and the maker are insolvent. In re Swift, 106 Fed. Rep. 65.

Waiver Not Presumed.—Bird v. Kay, 40 N. Y. App. Div. 533.

461. 2. Promise to Pay Made Before Maturity as Waiver.—Quaintance v. Goodrow, 16 Mont. 376; Souther v. McKenna, 20 R. I. 645.

3. Protest Is Waived by the indorser stating to the holder, before and after maturity, that he was to look to him, the indorser, and no one else, for payment. Quaintance v. Goodrow, 16 Mont. 376.

462. 2. See also Bird v. Kay, 40 N. Y. App. Div. 533.

3. An Extension Secured by an Indorser Acting as Agent for Another who has assumed liability for the note, the fact of the agency being known to the holder, does not constitute a waiver by the indorser of demand and notice. Laumeier v. Hallock, 103 Mo. App. 116.

5. Mere Offer to Renew Paper as Waiver.—Friendship First Nat. Bank v. Weston, 25 N. Y. App. Div. 414. Compare Tallahassee First Nat. Bank v. McCord, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 39 S. W. Rep. 1003.

6. Waiver is not shown by proof that the payee understood that the holder to whom he transferred the note after maturity was buying it to give the maker more time. Landon v. Bryant, 69 Vt. 203.

463. 1. Request for Forbearance as Waiver.—Oley v. Miller, 74 Conn. 304; Quaintance v. Goodrow, 16 Mont. 376; Bush v. Gilmore, 45 N. Y. App. Div. 89.

Whether Request Amounts to Waiver a Question for Jury.—Jones v. Roberts, 191 Pa. St. 152.

In Pattillo v. Alexander, 96 Ga. 60, it was said: "The mere guaranty of a paper does not involve the idea of negotiation, nor negotiation necessarily the idea of guaranty, unless the contract of assignment be of such a character as to operate as a guaranty of the solvency of the maker; and the mere fact that the contract of the indorser may contain a stipulation for a guaranty which extends his obligation beyond that of a mere indorser does not affect his legal relation to the paper. * * * A guaranty indorsed on a note by the payee thereof may operate as well as an indorsement as a guaranty, and may make the party signing liable as an indorser. * * * As between the original parties, in considering the effect of contracts of guaranty, the court will look to all the surrounding circumstances, and will not be necessarily controlled by the use of the word 'guarantee,' according to its technical acceptance."

The Guaranty Must Be According to the Terms of the Note in order to amount to an indorsement which will pass title. Frost v. Fisher, 13 Colo. App. 322.

Rule in Indiana. — An indorsement in the form of a guaranty is a direct and absolute undertaking to pay the note, and the indorser's liability thereon is absolute and unconditional. Metzger v. Hubbard, 153 Ind. 189.

Liability Joint and Several.—Schultz v. Howard, 63 Minn. 196, 56 Am. St. Rep. 470.

Under the Negotiable Instruments Law, the liability of an irregular indorser is that of an indorser, and he is liable as such to the payee and to all subsequent parties, if the instrument is payable to a third person. Corn v. Levy, 97 N. Y. App. Div. 48; Metropolitan Bank v. Engel, 66 N. Y. App. Div. 273.

Under the Negotiable Instruments Act (Laws 1897, c. 612, § 114) it is presumed that an irregular indorser indorsed the instrument with the intention of becoming liable to the payee, the obligation becoming complete after delivery. Kohn v. Consolidated Butter, etc., Co., (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 30 Misc. (N. Y.) 725.

Irregular Indorsement Waiving Protest and Guaranteeing Payment does not affect indorser's liability as maker. Atwood v. Lester, 20 R. I. 660.

Irregular Indorsers Liable as Joint Sureties as Between Themselves.—Logan v. Ogden, 101 Tenn. 392.

The Word "Indorser" After a Signature renders the signer liable as either maker or guarantor, his contract being the equivalent of making a new note. Herrick v. Edwards, 106 Mo. App. 633.

Where a promissory note is executed by one person, and another, who is not the payee, and whose indorsement is neither essential nor proper to the transmission of title to the note, signs his name upon the back of it, he becomes liable thereon either as joint principal or as surety, but does not, by thus signing his name, enter into such a contract of indorsement as will cut him off from setting up against the payee the defense that the note was founded upon an illegal consideration, and therefore void. Benson v. Dublin Warehouse Co., 99 Ga. 303.

A promissory note executed by two persons, one signing at the bottom of the note, and the other upon the back thereof, the latter not being the payee, and which is written "I promise to pay," is a joint and several note; and the person whose name appears upon the back of the note is, according to the facts connected with his undertaking, liable thereon either in the capacity of a co-principal or in that of a surety. Booth v. Huff, 116 Ga. 8, 94 Am. St. Rep. 98.

In Kansas it seems that an irregular indorser is considered an ordinary indorser. In such cases, however, if it be alleged that the plaintiff acquired the note by purchase before maturity from the payee, and that such person whose signature appears after that of the payee on the back of the note is in fact a joint maker thereof, parol evidence is admissible to prove the nature and extent of the contract entered into by such apparent indorser. *Commercial Nat. Under the English Bills of Exchange Act which enacts that when the acceptor of a bill is or becomes the holder of it at or after its maturity, in his own right, the bill is discharged, the expression "in his own right" is not used in contradistinction to a right in a representative capacity, but indicates a right not subject to that of another person, and good against all the world. Nash v. De Freville, (1900) 2 Q. B. 72, 69 L. J. Q. B. 484, 82 L. T. N. S. 642, 48 W. R. 434.

510. 6. See Cushing v. McLeod, 2 N. Bruns. Eq. Rep. 63; Forsyth v. Sutherland, 31 Nova Scotia 391.

511. 1. Statutory Provisions Requiring Carrier to Issue. — Sherman, etc., R. Co. v. Conly, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 37 S. W. Rep. 253; Conley v. Sherman, etc., R. Co., 90 Tex. 295.

Issuing Bill of Lading Without Having Received Goods. — In addition to requiring carriers to issue bills of lading, some of the statutes impose a penalty upon carriers that issue bills of lading without having received the goods for carriage. See Thompson v. Alabama Midland R. Co., 122 Ala. 378, wherein it was held that the defendant, an intermediate carrier, did not incur the statutory penalty by issuing, for the accommodation of the shipper and consignee, a bill of lading for goods which it expected soon to receive from the initial carrier.

512. 2. See O'Connell v. One Thousand and Two Bales Sisal Hemp, 75 Fed. Rep. 410.

513. 8. Reference to Charter-Party. — The words "freight and all conditions as per charter-party" will incorporate into a bill of lading all conditions in the charter applicable to and consistent with the character of the bill of lading.

O'Connell v. One Thousand and Two Bales Sisal Hemp, 75 Fed. Rep. 408; The Sandfield, 79 Fed. Rep. 371, affirmed (C. C. A.) 92 Fed. Rep. 663.

514. 7. See Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Potts, 33 Ind. App. 564.

In Dunbar v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 62 S. Car. 414, it was held that where a shipper received a receipt reciting that the shipment was subject to the terms of the regular bill of lading for which the receipt was exchangeable, the law imputed to him notice of, and he was bound by, the terms of the regular bill.

515. 3. Assent, Express or Implied. Necessary to Bind Shipper. — Cleveland, etc., R. Co., v. Potts, 33 Ind. App. 564.

Consignor's Indorsing Draft to Third Person. — When the vendor of goods ships them, taking from the carrier a bill of lading to deliver to his own order, and thereupon draws a draft payable to his own order upon the vendee, attaching the bill of lading and indorsing to a third party such draft for value, the title to the goods vests in the indorsee at least to the extent of the amount advanced. Willard Mfg. Co. v. Tierney, 133 N. Car. 630; Lewis v. Springville Banking Co., 166 Ill. 311; Kansas City First Nat. Bank v. Mt. Pleasant Milling Co., 103 Iowa 518; Landa v. Lattin, 19 Tex. Civ. App. 249. And it has been held that when a bill of lading and draft is negotiated in this manner, the proceeds in the hands of the collecting bank may be subjected by the consignee to a claim for damages for shortage in the goods. Searles v. Smith Grain Co., 80 Miss. 693, quoting 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 549. See also Landa v. Lattin, 19 Tex. Civ. App. 249. But compare Blaisdell v. White, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 76 S. W. Rep. 70. When the transfer by the consignor is merely for collection, no title to or control of the property passes to the transferee. Walker v. Athena First Nat. Bank, 43 Oregon 102.

4. Coker v. Memphis First Nat. Bank, 112 Ga. 71, wherein it is held that the title of the transferee is not lost simply because the bill is indorsed over to the consignor for the sole purpose of having him dispose of the goods for the transferee's benefit.

Title of Pledgee. — A pledgee to whom a bill of lading is given as security gets the legal title to the goods and the right of possession only if such is the intention of the parties, and that intention is open to explanation. The Carlos F. Roses, 177 U. S. 655.

5. See Cuero First Nat. Bank v. San Antonio, etc., R. Co., 97 Tex. 201.

Payment by Third Person. — When a draft with bill of lading attached is sent to a bank for collection, a third person who pays the charges under an agreement that he shall hold the property until he shall be repaid acquires at least an equitable title to the goods under a statute making bills of lading negotiable by written indorsement and delivery. Turner v. Israel, 64 Ark. 244.

8. Transfer After Arrival of Goods. — Anchor Mill Co. v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 102 Iowa 262.

Transfer After Delivery of Goods. — The innocent transferee of a bill of lading after the goods have been delivered does not obtain title, even though the bill contains a provision that it shall be surrendered upon delivery of the goods. National Commercial Bank v. Lackawanna Transp. Co., 59 N. Y. App. Div. 270, affirmed 172 N. Y. 596, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 548, 549.

Carrier Deprived of Possession by Legal Process. — When the parties to a transfer of a bill of lading know that the property has, prior to the transfer, been taken from the possession of the carrier by legal process, the indorsement and delivery of the bill of lading cannot operate as a transfer of the possession of the property. Storey v. Hershey, 19 Pa. Super. Ct. 485.

555. 2. See Putnam v. McDonald, 72 Vt. 5. When a Trust.—It may be shown by parol that the transfer of personal property by a conveyance absolute in form was in trust for the assignor. Martin v. Martin, 43 Oregon 119, citing Chace v. Chapin, 130 Mass. 128.

Bill of Sale as Means of Preferring Creditors.—Fraser v. Macpherson, 34 N. Bruns. 417; Owens v. Gascho, 154 Ind. 225.

A Mere Receipted Statement of Account containing no words importing a transfer of title is not a bill of sale. Putnam v. McDonald, 72 Vt. 5.

3. The Vendor May Waive a condition that title is not to pass till delivery of the bill of sale, and by delivering the property to the vendee entitle himself to maintain an action for the purchase price, although the bill of sale has never been delivered. Yori v. Cohn, 26 Nev. 206.

558. 1. Delivery of Instrument Passes Title to Property.—Bellerby v. Thomas, 105 Ga. 477; Casentini v. Galveston Fruit Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1898) 45 S. W. Rep. 756.

After-acquired Property Mingled with Property Transferred.—See Fraser v. Macpherson, 34 N. Bruns. 417.

559. 1. Modification of Common-law Rule.—See Heisch v. Bell, (N. Mex. 1902) 70 Pac. Rep. 572.

560. 2. What Constitutes Delivery of Possession.—It was held that where a debtor left a bill of sale in a designated place, and, after the debtor absconded, the creditor for whose benefit the bill was executed found it there together with a letter stating that the bill was in a desk which with the keys were "hereby delivered" to him, there was a sufficient delivery as against a subsequent attachment by another creditor. In Wetmore v. Moloney, 127 Mich. 372, a bill of sale was held to be a mortgage, although it contained the statement: "It is understood that this instrument conveys an absolute title."

It Must Have Been Intended at the time of the execution of the bill of sale that it should operate as a security, in order for the court to treat it as a mortgage. Long v. State, 44 Fla. 134.

To Show Conveyance in Trust. — It may be shown by parol that a trust and not an absolute transfer was intended. Martin v. Martin, 43 Oregon 119.

567. 1. Insufficient Evidence. — Evidence that the vendee would have been willing to let the vendor redeem the property is not sufficient to transform an absolute bill of sale into a mortgage, where there was no agreement to that effect. Fisher v. Stout, 74 N. Y. App. Div. 97.

568. 3. What Constitutes a Warranty in a Bill of Sale. — It is a question of fact where a doubt exists whether certain recitals in a bill of sale are intended as description or warranties, and it may be determined by oral evidence or proof of the custom of the trade. Sharp v. Sturgeon, 66 Mo. App. 191.

569. 2. Putnam v. McDonald, 72 Vt. 4, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 569.

3. Registration of Instrument. — The recording of a conditional bill of sale was held to be notice to a third person that title was still in the vendor, and the instrument was admissible to show that as between the vendee and a third person no title passed by a sale of a colt subsequently foaled by the mare which was the subject of the bill of sale. Anderson v. Leverette, 116 Ga. 732.

Valid Between Parties Though Not Recorded. — Heisch v. Bell, (N. Mex. 1902) 70 Pac. Rep. 572.

Recording Not Essential in Texas. — Failure to record a bill of sale does not, in the absence of fraud, entitle a creditor of the seller to levy an attachment on the goods, although delivery has not been made to the purchaser. Casentini v. Galveston Fruit Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1898) 45 S. W. Rep. 756.

Transfers of Choses in Action are not deemed to be within the meaning of the Georgia statute providing that a "bill of sale of personalty" shall be void unless filed. Thomas v. Schumacher, 17 N. Y. App. Div. 441, affirmed 163 N. Y. 554.

As to the Requirement and Effect of Registration in General, see the title RECORDING ACTS.

571. 1. Delivery of Property Equivalent to Registration. — Owens v. Gascho, 154 Ind. 225. see also Heisch v. Bell, (N. Mex. 1902) 70 Pac. Rep. 572.

2. Unauthorized Registration a Nullity. — See Baldinger v. Levine, 83 N. Y. App. Div. 130. See also the title RECORDING ACTS.

But it was held that where registration was unnecessary, yet the fact that it was filed should be considered in determining whether a bill absolute on its face was in fact given as security. Black v. Simon, 116 Mich. 382.

4. Stock Not Running on Range. — See Brill v. Christy, (Ariz. 1901) 63 Pac. Rep. 757.

573. 1. Consideration Expressed Prima Facie Evidence. — See Rogers v. Thompson, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 27 Misc. (N. Y.) 801.

Oral Evidence to Impeach Consideration. — Where the omission to insert additional consideration is not due to fraud, accident, or mistake it cannot be supplied by oral evidence. McFarland v. McGill, 16 Tex. Civ. App. 298.

576. 1. The Transfer Tax Law of New York provides for the exemption of property bequeathed to a bishop, etc. In construing this section the court said: "The statute uses only the word 'bishop,' but I have no question that it covers a bequest made to an archbishop or the cardinal archbishop, in his official capacity, as they are all, unquestionably, bishops, as well as the religious and temporal heads of their church." Matter of Kelly, (Surrogate Ct.) 29 Misc. (N. Y.) 169.

576. BITCH. — See note 2.[BLACKGUARD. — See note 7a.]577. BLACKLISTING EMPLOYEES. — See note 2.BLACKMAIL. — See note 4.

576. 2. Libel and Slander. — State v. Harwell, 129 N. Car. 550; Craver v. Norton, 114 Iowa 46; Robertson v. Edelsstein, 104 Wis. 440; Jacobs v. Cater, 87 Minn. 448; Craig v. Pyles, 101 Ky. 593; Stoner v. Erisman, 206 Pa. St. 600.

7a. Libel and Slander. — In Paladino v. Gustin, 17 Ont. Pr. 560, the court said: "The word blackguard ordinarily means a vulgar, base fellow; a ruffian, a scoundrel. It does not appear to me necessary here to refer to the early history or the use of the word. Most people have an understanding as to what is meant by it, and, so far as the use of the word has concern, the question is, what would a bystander think was meant by it in the circumstances in which it was used? Strictly, the word may be considered as not being applicable to a female at all; yet, as it appears to me, the man who calls a woman a blackguard should be answerable in respect of the meaning that the ordinary bystander would, in all the circumstances, attach to it."

577. 2. Blacklisting — Statutes. — The Minnesota statute prohibiting blacklisting has been held constitutional. State v. Justus, 85 Minn. 279. In this case the court said: "Conceding that the word blacklist, as used in the title, has no well-defined meaning in the law, either by statute or judicial expression, the general understanding of the term is that it has reference to the practice of one employer presenting to another the names of employees for the purpose of furnishing information concerning their standing as employees, and, so understood, it may have reference to the subject of influencing or coercing employees or employers."

4. Libel and Slander. — The word blackmailing is libelous per se, requiring no innuendo, and it does not lie upon the plaintiff to prove the falsity of the charge. Macdonald v. Mail Printing Co., 2 Ont. L. Rep. 278.

BLASPHEMY AND PROFANITY.

582. II. As CRIMES — 2. Statutes Regarding. — See note 2.[BLIND SIDING. — See note 3a.]583. BLOCK. — See note 1.584. BLOCKADE. — See note 1.

582. 2. Statutes in United States. — State v. Wiley, 76 Miss. 282.

The Name of the Deity Need Not Be Used in order to constitute profanity under the Mississippi statute. Any words importing an imprecation of divine vengeance, or implying divine condemnation, so used as to constitute a public nuisance, are sufficient. State v. Wiley, 76 Miss. 282.

In Georgia a similar rule obtains under the statute making it an offense to use profane language in the presence of a female. Foster v. State, 99 Ga. 56.

Georgia Statute — Profane Language in Presence of Female. — The Penal Code Ga., § 396, making it penal to use obscene, vulgar, or profane language in the presence of a female must be held, under the rule of strict construction applicable to penal statutes, to contemplate spoken words only. Where, therefore, an indictment alleged that the accused used obscene and vulgar language in the presence of a female by delivering to her a written communication set out in the indictment, a demurrer thereto on the ground that the indictment charged no offense against the laws of this state should have been sustained. Williams v. State, 117 Ga. 13.

There being no evidence that the profane language alleged to have been used by the defendant in the presence of females was without provocation, or that the defendant knew of the proximity of the women, his conviction was contrary to law. Hardin v. State, 114 Ga. 58.

On the trial of one charged with the offense of using profane language, without provocation, in the presence of a female, the accused may defend by showing that he was provoked to use the language by one other than such female, the sufficiency of the provocation being a question for the jury, under all the circumstances of the case. Ray v. State, 113 Ga. 1065.

3a. A Blind Siding is one without a telegraph operator. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 95 Tex. 2.

583. 1. Block — Synonymous with Square. — Harrison v. People, 195 Ill. 466.

Platted Ground. — In McGrew v. Kansas City, 64 Kan. 61, the court said: "According to the common understanding, a block is a portion of platted ground in a city, surrounded by streets, and the term is not ordinarily applied to a tract of unplatted land."

Not a Subdivision of a Section. — A contract for a quitclaim deed to property described as "lot 56, bl. 12, sec. 7, 39, 14," is too uncertain for specific performance. There is no such governmental subdivision of a section as a block. Glos v. Wilson, 108 Ill. 44.

592. BOARD — Inn Distinguished from Boarding House, and Boarder from Guest. — See notes 1, 2, 3, 4.

593. A Board. — See note 2.

587. 1. Blood Stains as Evidence of Crime in General. — Com. v. Williams, 171 Mass. 461; State v. Brown, 168 Mo. 449.

But where the state offers circumstantial evidence under an indictment for murder tending to show that deceased met his death by choking at the hands of the defendants, evidence in behalf of the defense that certain stains or spots on the floor were not blood stains is irrelevant and is properly excluded. Vaughn v. State, 130 Ala. 18.

2. Testimony of Ordinary Witnesses as to Existence of Blood Stains. — Gantling v. State, 40 Fla. 237; People v. Burgess, 153 N. Y. 561; State v. Henry, 51 W. Va. 283. Compare Taylor v. State, 41 Tex. Crim. 148.

In State v. Rice, 7 Idaho 762, it was held that the assistance of chemistry and the testimony of expert witnesses are not necessary to show the existence of blood, owing to the familiarity of all persons competent to testify as witnesses with its appearance, and it is only in cases where it is necessary to distinguish between the blood of a human being and that of the inferior animals that such expert evidence is necessary.

Weight of Evidence. — State v. Henry, 51 W. Va. 283.

588. 1. Expert Testimony as to Whether Stains Were of Human or Animal Blood. — State v. Rice, 7 Idaho 762; State v. Martin, 47 S. Car. 67.

Thus, where a physician testified on a trial under an indictment for murder that he had had considerable experience in examining blood spots, and had examined the defendant's leggings which were worn by him on the day of the homicide, it is competent for such witness to testify that the stains found on the leggings looked like blood stains. White v. State, 133 Ala. 122.

4. Clothing with Spots Thereon Resembling Blood. — State v. Henry, 51 W. Va. 283.

A Board from the floor of a house with stains thereon supposed to be blood stains is admissible in evidence, and the fact that it was taken from the floor nine or ten months after the homicide will not affect the competency of the evidence. State v. Martin, 47 S. Car. 67.

6. Blowing Up — Insurance Policy. — Where a policy of insurance provided that the company should not be liable for any loss caused by "blowing up of buildings," and plate glass was broken by the explosion of gas generated from gasoline in use in the building, it was held that the damage was not the result of "blowing up of a building" within the meaning of the policy. Vorse v. Jersey Plate Glass Ins. Co., 119 Iowa 555.

Pear*, 183 Mass. 242.

2. Presumption of Legality of Existence. — Where an act provided that three out of five members of the board of health should, if practicable, be registered physicians, it was held that the provision should not be taken to prohibit the organization of such boards with more than three physicians as members. *State v. Right to Turn Off Water Supply. — A board of health, empowered by statute to regulate the plumbing in buildings, has no right to turn off the water supply of a citizen who fails to comply with its ordinances, there being a statutory penalty on prosecution of the board for such noncompliance. Johnston v. Belmar, 58 N. J. Eq. 354.

In People v. Van Fradenburgh, 81 N. Y. App. Div. 259, it was held that an order of a village board of health prohibiting the taking of fresh table and kitchen refuse from a sanitarium for consumptives into a village as food for hogs and fowl was invalid in the absence of evidence that such refuse was any more dangerous to the community than similar refuse from a hotel or other public house.

Where by statute the health officers are required to examine premises and supervise the proper cleansing and fumigation of privy vaults, an ordinance charging persons engaged in such work for the supervision is legal; but a charge for issuing the permit, intended to cover expense of renovating privies, which should properly fall upon property owners, cannot be lawfully placed on persons licensed to do the work. Toledo v. Buechele, 11 Ohio Cir. Dec. 479, 21 Ohio Cir. Ct. 429.

Vaccination. — A regulation adopted by the state board of health requiring compulsory vaccination as a qualification for admission to the public schools was held to be unreasonable in the absence of a smallpox epidemic. State v. Burdge, 95 Wis. 390, 60 Am. St. Rep. 123.

So in Canada a regulation requiring employers to see that their workmen do not enter any place of business without a vaccination certificate is unreasonable. Montreal v. Garon, 23 Quebec Super. Ct. 363.

But see State v. Board of Education, 21 Utah 415, holding a regulation excluding unvaccinated children from the public schools during a time of epidemic to be reasonable, and the exercise of the right delegated by the state to adopt such regulations was supported by the police power inherent in the state. See also Com. v. Smith, 9 Pa. Dist. 625; Blue v. Beach, 155 Ind. 130, 80 Am. St. Rep. 195.

Reasonableness a Question for Jury. — In an action against the city for the burning of plaintiff's house as infected, during an epidemic of smallpox, the court held that the jury should pass on the question of the reasonable necessity for the destruction. Dallas v. Allen, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 40 S. W. Rep. 324.

Mode of Exercising Powers. — The act of ordering abatement of a nuisance must be a formal action of the state board of health, and not the order of its secretary; so the disobedience of such an order is not indictable. In re Yost, 14 York Leg. Rec. (Pa.) 25.

Where the statute provides that all three members of the executive committee of a board of health must be present in order to make a valid order, an order made by only two members is invalid. Wilson v. Alabama G. S. R. Co., 77 Miss. 714, 78 Am. St. Rep. 543.

Suit Must Be Brought in Name of Village. — Board of Health v. Magill, 17 N. Y. App. Div. 249.

Preliminary Injunction. — Under a statute providing in effect that the board of health may file a bill in chancery to enjoin the maintenance of any structures, adjoining a stream, likely to pollute it by drainage, and that on the establishment of the fact of the wrongful maintenance of such a structure the court shall abate it, the court has no jurisdiction to grant a preliminary injunction. Board of Health v. Summit, (N. J. 1903) 56 Atl. Rep. 125.

4. Mann v. Willey, 51 N. Y. App. Div. 169, affirmed 168 N. Y. 664.

Board Directing Removal in Specific Names. — Under a statute authorizing the health commissioner to abate nuisances, "in such manner as he may deem expedient," the act of the commissioner in replacing a privy by a water-closet was held to be unwarranted. The court said: "No sanitary board or officer can be permitted, under the guise of a power to abate nuisances detrimental to health, not only to remove or abate the nuisance * * * but also to proceed in a summary manner and cause new erections to be made, and new appliances, contrivances and conveniences to be used and adopted at a large expense to the owner and far beyond what the exigencies of the particular case may require." Eckhardt v. Buffalo, 19 N. Y. App. Div. 1, affirmed 156 N. Y. 658.

A board of health cannot abate a polluted stream, conceded to be a public nuisance, by constructing a drain costing $10,000, and draining an entire swamp, several hundred feet beyond the property of the plaintiff. Haag v. Mt. Vernon, 41 N. Y. App. Div. 366.

The erection of a garbage crematory pursuant to a contract with a city board of health will not be enjoined on the ground that the operation of the crematory will constitute a nuisance, where the contract expressly provides for a plant the operation of which shall not prove a nuisance. The question whether or not a nuisance will result can only be determined after the plant has been put into operation. Deysher v. Reading, 18 Pa. Co. Ct. 611.

7. Power of Board to Conclusively Declare a Nuisance. — Gaines v. Waters, 64 Ark. 609; Stone v. Heath, 179 Mass. 385; Golden v. Health Dept., 21 N. Y. App. Div. 420; Smith v. Irish, 37 N. Y. App. Div. 220.

An ordinance of the board of health of a city regulating the manner of building stables operates merely to protect those who conform to its provisions, and to impose on those who do not so conform the burden of showing that the particular structure is not a nuisance. Such an ordinance does not declare all erections not in accordance with its provisions to be nuisances. Morford v. Board of Health, 61 N. J. L. 386.

603. 3. In Rhode Island the order of a town council, proceeding under a statute empowering it to declare and abate a nuisance, is not appealable; such proceeding is intended to be summary, and the statute contemplates prompt and vigorous action. Brown v. Narragansett Dist., 21 R. I. 503.

In New York the statute prescribes that the effect of an order of the board shall be of prima facie legality, imposing "upon persons who question the orders of the board of health in such cases the duty of establishing that the facts upon which they were based do not exist, or that the orders themselves are beyond the authority given to the board by the law."

Golden v. Health Dept., 21 N. Y. App. Div. 420.

4. Pennsylvania Statute. — See Adams v. Ford, 3 Pa. Super. Ct. 239.

604. 2. Stone v. Heath, 179 Mass. 385, holding that under a statute conferring on local boards of health power to abate a nuisance, an order of abatement cannot be restrained by injunction.

3. Necessity of Notice. — Gaines v. Waters, 64 Ark. 609; Hartman v. Wilmington, 1 Marv. (Del.) 215; Chase v. Middleton, 123 Mich. 647; Eckhardt v. Buffalo, 19 N. Y. App. Div. 1, affirmed 156 N. Y. 658.

4. Where the Statute Requires Notice. — Fayette v. Greenleaf, (County Ct.) 44 Misc. (N. Y.) 352.

605. 1. Power to Employ Professional Aid — Liability for Compensation. — Bell County v. Blair, (Ky. 1899) 50 S. W. Rep. 1104; Zimmerman v. Cheboygan County, 133 Mich. 494; Board of Health v. Renville County, 89 Minn. 402; Rockaway Tp. v. Morris County, 68 N. J. L. 16; Matter of Plattsburgh, 157 N. Y. 78; Allen v. Dekalb County, (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 61 S. W. Rep. 291. See also Monroe v. Bluffton, 31 Ind. App. 269.

A county court in Kentucky has the power, in the case of resignation of all the members of the county board of health, to appoint a committee to take charge of smallpox patients until vacancies in the board shall be filled. And such committee has the power to secure professional aid at a compensation, not arbitrary, but governed by value of the services. Henderson County Board of Health v. Ward, 107 Ky. 477.

Where Board Exceeds Its Authority. — See Jay County v. Fertich, 18 Ind. App. 1.

A board of health, having power by statute to employ a health officer, has no power to appoint a sanitary inspector, and a person so appointed cannot recover from the city the compensation fixed by the board for his services. In re Kent, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 60 N. Y. Supp. 627.

As Town Charges. — A health officer, acting under a statute substituting a physician in each town to perform the duties and to have the powers formerly exercised by the board of health, has the power to employ assistants in maintaining quarantine, and the town will be liable for such services. Keefe v. Union, 76 Conn. 160.

A physician appointed by a county board of health to take charge of a quarantine in a city, such appointment being approved by the city council, can recover from the city the value of his services. Blair v. Middlesboro, (Ky. 1902) 67 S. W. Rep. 16.

Member of Board as Physician.— A physician who is a health officer of a city, and who receives a regular salary as such, cannot recover for medical services during a quarantine, such services being included in his regular duties, for which his salary is paid. Reynolds v. Mt. Vernon, 164 N. Y. 592, affirming 26 N. Y. App. Div. 581.

A health officer, called into consultation by another physician to determine whether a disease is contagious, performs his regular duty imposed by the statute, and he is not entitled to the extra compensation granted by another section of the act for attending infectious cases. Browne v. Livingston County, 126 Mich. 276.

In Minnesota a town board of health, formed under the provisions of the general statutes, one of whose members is a practicing physician, may employ such physician to act for the board in all matters requiring such services. Board of Health v. Renville County, 89 Minn. 402. See also Cedar Creek Tp. v. Wexford County, (Mich. 1903) 97 N. W. Rep. 409.

Power to Employ Persons to Make Examination of Premises.— Under a statute authorizing a board of health to suppress nuisances under the health laws and to engage persons to carry out its orders, such board has the power to employ persons to examine and report on the condition of premises, and the municipality will be liable for their compensation. Kent v. North Tarrytown, 50 N. Y. App. Div. 502.

Statute Requiring Auditing.— Under a statute providing that bills contracted at the instance of the board of health shall be audited by the board, no recovery can be allowed without showing such auditing. Cooke v. Custer County, 13 Okla. 11.

Reasonable Compensation in Absence of Agreed Terms.— In the absence of any agreed compensation, made between the board and a physician, or regulations touching upon charges, the physician will be entitled to recover the reasonable value of his services. Clement v. Lewiston, 97 Me. 95. See also Allen v. Dekalb County, (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 61 S. W. Rep. 291.

Liability Depends upon Existence of Valid Contract.— A physician employed by a person to attend his family, quarantined for scarlet fever, cannot recover compensation from the town in the absence of any contract for his services by the board of health. Pettengill v. Amherst, 72 N. H. 103. See also Congdon v. Nashua, 72 N. H. 468.

Contract Must Be by Formal Action of Board.— Martin v. Montgomery County, 27 Ind. App. 98.

But see Pierce v. Gladwin County, (Mich. 1904) 99 N. W. Rep. 1132, where it was held that the hiring of the physician need not be by formal act of the board of health convened in regular meeting. An authorization by all the members of the board to go ahead and attend to the cases is sufficient.

Compensation of Health Officer.— A health officer appointed by the board to perform certain duties at a stated compensation cannot recover extra compensation for things done within the scope of those duties. Sloan v. Peoria, 106 Ill. App. 151. See also Reynolds v. Mt. Vernon, 26 N. Y. App. Div. 581, affirming 164 N. Y. 592.

605. 2. Power of Health Officer of the Board.— Mankato v. Blue Earth County, 87 Minn. 425; Turner v. Toledo, 8 Ohio Cir. Dec. 196, 15 Ohio Cir. Ct. 627.

A health officer empowered by ordinance to secure medical services cannot appoint himself to render such services at the expense of the city. Sloan v. Peoria, 106 Ill. App. 151.

3. Where Patient Able to Pay for the Services.— McKillop v. Cheboygan County, 116 Mich. 614. But see St. Johns v. Clinton County, 111 Mich. 609. See also Laurel County Ct. v. Pennington, 80 S. W. Rep. 820, 26 Ky. L. Rep. 124, holding that a physician cannot recover compensation from the county for services rendered to a person quarantined with infectious disease, if the statute makes the liability of the county dependent on the inability of the person treated to pay, without proving such inability.

606. 3. Quarantine Regulations.— Tweedy v. Fremont County, 99 Iowa 721; Warner v. Stebbins, 111 Iowa 86; Hengehold v. Covington, 108 Ky. 752; Highland v. Schulte, 123 Mich. 360; Browne v. Livingston County, 126 Mich. 276; Turner v. Toledo, 8 Ohio Cir. Dec. 196, 15 Ohio Cir. Ct. 627.

A health commissioner has no power to establish a quarantine station for smallpox patients so near a school as to be dangerous, and therefore constituting a public nuisance. Thompson v. Kimbrough, 23 Tex. Civ. App. 350.

Boards of Health to Control Pest House.— The authority of a county board of health to take charge of and care for those suffering from infectious disease necessarily implies the custody and charge of the county pest house. Henderson County Board of Health v. Ward, 107 Ky. 477.

5. Hospitals.— Turner v. Toledo, 8 Ohio Cir. Dec. 196, 15 Ohio Cir. Ct. 627.

6. Private Residences.— Where a health officer took possession of the plaintiff's unoccupied dwelling and used it as a pest house, this was held a proper act, and not necessary to be done by express authority of the board of health. Brown v. Pierce County, 28 Wash. 345.

As Sustaining General Quarantine Laws.— The state board of health of Louisiana, exercising very general powers by virtue of the statute, can prohibit the entrance into the state 607. 1. Liability in Tort.— Compagnie Francaise, etc., v. State Board of Health, 51 La. Ann. 645, 72 Am. St. Rep. 458, affirmed 186 U. S. 380.

Statutory Immunity.— In New York, by section 599 of the Consolidation Act (Laws 1882, c. 410), it is provided that "no member, officer, or agent of said board of health and no person (but only the board itself) shall be sued or held to liability for any act done or omitted by either person aforesaid (in good faith and with ordinary discretion) on behalf of or under said board, or pursuant to its regulations, ordinances, or the health laws." Rep. 229; Lowe v. Conroy, 120 Wis. 151, 102 Am. St. Rep. 983. But see Clayton v. Henderson, 103 Ky. 228, in which the court held that the establishment by a board of health of a pest house within one mile of the city limits, contrary to a statute of the state, made the city liable for damages to any person suffering from contagion contracted from the nuisance.

A Municipality Is Liable on Contracts made by its board of health. Deysher v. Reading, 18 Pa. Co. Ct. 611.

609. 1. A Steam Dredge and Amalgamator used for mining purposes though called a boat is not such within the meaning of an attachment statute. Dietrich v. Martin, 24 Mont. 147.

611. 2. Bodily Heirs.— The phrase bodily heir is a well-established technical term, and is defined in And. Law Dict. 508 as "an heir begotten of the body; a lineal descendant." The words "children," "issue," and "heirs," are not synonymous terms. Clarkson v. Hatton, 143 Mo. 47.

Synonymous with Heirs of the Body.— Turner v. Hause, 199 Ill. 464; Kyner v. Boll, 182 Ill. 171; Stratton v. McKinnie, (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 62 S. W. Rep. 636; Miller v. Ensminger, 182 Mo. 195; Marsh v. Griffin, 136 N. Car. 333.

2a. Bodily Injuries — Personal Injuries.— In Terre Haute Electric R. Co. v. Lauer, 21 Ind. App. 475, the court said: "The standard dictionaries define the word bodily to mean, pertaining to or concerning the body; of or belonging to the body or to the physical constitution; not mental, but corporeal; and the word 'personal' as pertaining to the person or bodily form. The expression 'great personal injury' has been said to be equivalent to the expression 'great bodily harm.' 2 Abbott's Dict. 273. A personal injury is an injury to the person of an individual, as an assault is distinguished from an injury to one's property. 2 Rap. & Law. Law Dict. 955. If we admit, as claimed by appellant, that the terms 'personal injuries' and bodily injuries are not 'necessarily equivalent,' yet the jury could only have understood from instruction fifteen given that the appellee was entitled to recover only for mental suffering growing out of the bodily injuries he received."

Impairment of Vision may properly be proved under an allegation that "the plaintiff sustained serious and painful internal and other bodily injuries," as bodily injuries do not necessarily mean injuries to the trunk or main part of the human form as distinguished from the limbs or head. Quirk v. Siegel-Cooper Co., 43 N. Y. App. Div. 467.

Bona Fide Possessor.— Lindt v. Uihlein, 116 Iowa 48.

Bona Fides of the Taking — Larceny.— In People v. Slayton, 123 Mich. 397, the court said: "By bona fides I mean the good faith of the taking, — whether with a felonious intent or a criminal intent."

The Fact that the Names of Persons Appear in the Body of a Bond not signed by those persons does not invalidate the bond so as to prevent a recovery against those who did sign. Young v. Union Sav. Bank, etc., Co., 23 Wash. 360.

The Term "Signature" includes within its meaning the mark of a person unable to write. Terry v. Johnson, 109 Ky. 589.

A Mark or Sign is a sufficient signature, but the burden of proving it is on the obligee. Com. v. Campbell, (Ky. 1898) 45 S. W. Rep. 89.

Signing Conditionally that the signature of another person be secured before delivery is not a defense in event of the other signature not being obtained, where it does not appear that the obligee had notice of the condition. Hart v. Mead Invest. Co., 53 Neb. 153.

Bond Not Executed. — A party cannot be held liable on a bond which he never executed. Borman v. Jung Brewing Co., 23 Ind. App. 399; Camden v. Ward, 67 N. J. L. 558, holding that where the signature of the obligors was placed on the bond without their knowledge they are not liable thereon even though the obligees accepted the bond in good faith; Terrill v. Tillison, 75 Vt. 193, holding that where the obligors never signed the bond, but their signatures were placed on the bond by a third party, the bond was void.

Effect of Failure to Sign. — The absence of the obligor's signature on a liquor bond has been held not to invalidate the bond. North v. Barringer, 147 Ind. 224. So an attachment bond is not void because the obligor failed to sign it, but the obligor cannot be held liable on such an instrument. Storz v. Finklestein, 50 Neb. 177.

The Agent Is Prima Facie Liable even though his signature is followed by words descriptive of his agency. The burden is upon him to show by sufficient evidence that he is not actually the obligor. Gardner v. Cooper, 9 Kan. App. 587.

A Depositary's Bond signed by "Harvey P. Smith, cashier of the Manufacturers' Bank," though a statute provided for a different mode of execution, was held to be good as a common-law bond. St. Louis County v. Manufacturers' Bank, 69 Minn. 421.

3. Delivery Essential. — See Yeareance v. Blake, (N. J. 1899) 44 Atl. Rep. 858.

4. Illustrations. — A delivery of bonds to a third person with instructions that they be delivered to the obligee on the death of the obligor is sufficient. Frank v. Frank, 100 Va. 627.

A Formal Delivery. — St. Louis Brewing Assoc. v. Hayes, (C. C. A.) 97 Fed. Rep. 859, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 622.

Delivery by a Surety to a principal, in the absence of an express condition, cannot thereafter be shown to have been conditional. Gyger v. Courtney, 59 Neb. 555.

Where a Bond Was Given Pursuant to a Requirement of Court and there was no statute regulating its service, it was held to be sufficiently delivered if the instructions of the court were obeyed. Whereatt v. Ellis, 103 Wis. 348, 74 Am. St. Rep. 865.

623. 1. Delivery Need Not Be to Obligee Personally. — Wylie v. Commercial, etc., Bank, 63 S. Car. 406.

624. 3. The Date of Delivery of a bond may be shown where no date appears on the bond; and the fact that the bond is undated does not vitiate it. Harper v. Golden, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 39 S. W. Rep. 623.

624. Acceptance Essential. — See note 5.

(2) Whether Several or Joint. — See note 3.

641. IV. THE OBLIGEE — 1. General Characteristics — A Distinct Obligee Essential. — See note 4.

624. 5. Sufficient Acceptance. — Where a bond for the faithful performance of duties by a bank cashier was received and kept by one of the directors of the bank it was held that there was a sufficient delivery and acceptance. Fiala v. Ainsworth, 63 Neb. 1, 93 Am. St. Rep. 420.

A Bail Bond accepted by a county attorney is not valid where the proper person to accept was the county judge. Ex p. Price, 37 Tex. Crim. 275.

Compelling Acceptance. — Where a statute provided for the acceptance of a bond with but one surety it was held that the statute was permissive in meaning and that an obligor could not compel the acceptance of his bond by a public officer. Schmitt v. Clinton, 111 Mich. 99.

7. Valley Bank v. Wolf, 101 Iowa 51, holding that the acceptance of a bond and its retention for fourteen years amounted to a waiver of any formal defects wherein the bond did not conform to the requirements of a statute.

10. Name of Obligor in Body of Bond. — Thompson v. Mecosta, 127 Mich. 522, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 624, and holding that a bond signed by the president and clerk of a village wherein the obligor named was the "board of trustees of the village" was the bond of the village. Standard Underground Cable Co. v. Stone, 35 N. Y. App. Div. 64, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 624.

638. 4. Where a Husband and Wife Are Joint Obligors on a bond the husband may be sued alone, the bond being void as to the wife. Seigman v. Streeter, 64 N. J. L. 169.

Indemnifying Bond. — A bond was given by a bonding company to an employer conditioned to make good any loss suffered through the defalcation of a general agent, and the agent agreed to indemnify the company for any payment it was compelled to make to his employer. It was held that the obligation was not joint, and an action against the company alone could be maintained. American Bonding, etc., Co. v. Milwaukee Harvester Co., 91 Md. 733.

5. Joint and Several Obligation. — Where the obligors of a bond, by its terms, bound themselves, their "heirs, etc., each and every one of them," the obligation thereon was held to be joint and several. Lehigh County v. Gossler, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 406.

640. 1. Sureties in Joint Bonds. — Where sureties sign the bond of a school district treasurer the obligation is joint and several. Com. v. Joyce, 3 Pa. Super. Ct. 616, 40 W. N. C. (Pa.) 191.

3. A Bond Given by Stockholders to the directors of a corporation, making their liability proportionate to their holdings of stock, is a several and not a joint obligation. Spencer v. McLean, 20 Ind. App. 626, 67 Am. St. Rep. 271.

Action in Name of Obligee.—A suit on a bond must be brought in the name of the parties to whom it was given. Sister Mary Nonn v. Conlan, 68 N. J. L. 88.

646. 1. Nominal Obligee Trustee for Person Actually Damnified.—Anderson v. Blair, 118 Ga. 211; Farr v. Rouillard, 172 Mass. 303.

The Bond of a Depositary which named the "board of county commissioners" as obligee, instead of the county as directed by statute, was held not to be void for that reason. St. Louis County v. American L. T. Co., 67 Minn. 112.

Substantial Compliance with the statutory requirement is sufficient, as where the bond run to the county treasurer for the county instead of to the county. Buhrer v. Baldwin, (Mich. 1904) 11 Detroit Leg. N. 298, 100 N. W. Rep. 468.

647. 3. Where the Statute under Which a Bond Was Given Did Not Designate an obligee it was held that it was error to name one person as obligee and that an action might be brought by any of the parties interested. Moede v. Haines, 66 Minn. 419.

648. 2. The Assignee of a Bastardy Bond may maintain an action of debt thereon. St. Paul Title, etc., Co. v. Sabin, 112 Wis. 105. See further the title ASSIGNMENTS, 1041. 7 et seq.

650. 2. Successor in Office the Obligee by Succession.—Board of Education v. National Surety Co., 183 Mo. 166.

651. 2. Contractor's Bond.—Where one contracting to construct public improvements gave a bond to protect the city, it was held that a creditor beneficially interested could bring an action therein in the name of the city, without the city's consent. Stephenson v. Monmouth Min., etc., Co., 84 Fed. Rep. 114, 54 U. S. App. 499.

A contractor's bond given for the construction of a schoolhouse inures to the benefit of a person furnishing work or material under the contract, and such beneficial obligee may maintain an action thereon. Young v. Young, 21 Ind. App. 509. See also American Surety Co. v. Tauter, 22 Ind. App. 326.

Liquor Dealer's Bond.—Under the Texas statute requiring from liquor dealers a bond for the keeping of an open, quiet, and orderly house, a person who has suffered through the violation of the condition may bring an action upon the bond. Cunningham v. Porchet, 23 Tex. Civ. App. 80.

The Obligor of a Bond Given in Proceedings to Contest an Election may be sued by any person to whom the inspection of ballots was referred, though not named in the bond as an obligee. Moede v. Haines, 66 Minn. 419.

The Beneficiaries of a Bond Given by an Insurance Company to the state, conditioned to indemnify the policyholders, may, under statute, maintain suit for a breach. Union Guaranty, etc., Co. v. Robinson, 79 Fed. Rep. 420, 49 U. S. App. 148.

652. 1. Beneficial Obligees in Public Bonds.—Norwalk v. Ireland, 68 Conn. 1.

653. 3. Private Bonds Benefiting Third Parties.—See Macatee v. Hamilton, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 108.

On a contractor's bond, given to a city, faithfully to perform a contract to construct a sewer, in which there is a condition to "furnish all labor, materials," etc., an action may not be maintained by third parties for material used in the construction. Sterling v. Wolf, 163 Ill. 467.

In a contractor's bond there was a condition that the obligors would pay all damages sustained through their negligence, and all claims for labor, material, etc. It was held that subcontractors might maintain an action on the bond. Getchell, etc., Lumber, etc., Co. v. Peterson, 124 Iowa 599.

The name of the beneficial obligee need not be given. It is enough if he is sufficiently described or designated. American Surety Co. v. Thorn-Halliwell Cement Co., 9 Kan. App. 8.

655. 1. A Bond Given in Proceedings to Contest an Election was held to be several as to the ballot inspectors who had made personal expenditures during the performance of their duties, so that suits thereon should be separately brought. Moede v. Haines, 66 Minn. 419.

657. 4. Conditions Held Legal and Binding.—To refund to a city all amounts of salary received from the city as an officer of the same in case of a judicial determination that the obligor's election to office was invalid. Finley v. Tucson, (Ariz. 1900) 60 Pac. Rep. 872.

Faithfully to perform the duties of cashier of a branch bank. Morehead Banking Co. v. Tate, 122 N. Car. 313.

664. 2. Where Seals Have Been Abolished by Statute. — Keith County v. Ogalalla Power, etc., Co., 64 Neb. 35.

An Unsealed Instrument in the Form of a Bond, if supported by a consideration and delivered, is effectual as a contract. Brandon First Nat. Bank v. Briggs, 69 Vt. 12, 60 Am. St. Rep. 922.

*One Seal Where there Are Several Obligor*s is sufficient. Warder, etc., Co. v. Stewart, 2 Marv. (Del.) 275.

3. Seal Raises Prima Facie Presumption of Consideration. — Mutual L. Ins. Co. v. Yates County Nat. Bank, 35 N. Y. App. Div. 218.

4. In Pennsylvania a seal implies a consideration, and an action on a bond properly sealed cannot be defended on the ground of want of consideration. Cosgrove v. Cummings, 195 Pa. St. 497.

5. Want of Consideration No Defense at Common Law. — Chicago Sash, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Haven, 195 Ill. 474, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 664; Cosgrove v. Cummings, 195 Pa. St. 497. See also Graham v. Middleby, 185 Mass. 349.

The seal imports a consideration, and to defend on the ground of want of consideration notice of such defense must be given. Hollenbeck v. Breakey, 127 Mich. 555, 8 Detroit Leg. N. 450.

666. 1. Instances of No Consideration. — Entering into the contractual relation by the obligee where the obligee is not legally bound by such contract is not a valid consideration.

Keith County v. Ogalalla Power, etc., Co., 64 Neb. 35.

A bond given to secure an advance of money where the advance was already secured by a bottomry bond is without consideration. Davis v. Soelberg, 24 Wash. 308.

Instances of Sufficient Consideration. — Where an obligee had refused to enter into a contract with the obligor unless the latter furnished a bond, and a bond was thereupon made; it was held that there was a valid consideration. Sweeney v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 34 Wash. 126.

Indemnification of a surety for any loss he may suffer by reason of signing a bond as surety is a valid consideration. Seeberger v. Wyman, 108 Iowa 527.

A bond given to obtain goods from the possession of a receiver is based on a good consideration although it is subsequently judicially determined that the appointment of the receiver is invalid. Larsen v. Winder, 20 Wash. 419.

The issuance of a liquor license to the principal is a valid consideration for the execution of the bond by the sureties. North v. Barringer, 147 Ind. 224.

A depositary's bond was held to be based on sufficient consideration where sixteen thousand dollars was deposited with the obligor of the bond after its execution. Wylie v. Commercial, etc., Bank, 63 S. Car. 406.

667. 2. Unconstitutional Statute Requiring Bond Is No Consideration. — San Francisco Lumber Co. v. Bibb, 139 Cal. 192; Shaughnessy v. American Surety Co., 138 Cal. 543.

Dak. 391, quoting 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 667-670, and approving the whole text paragraph; Harper v. Golden, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 39 S. W. Rep. 623.

670. 1. Immaterial Nonconformity Does Not Invalidate. — A bond is not invalid for the reason that it was not taken by a constable previous to the levy of a writ of execution as required by statute. Terry v. Johnson, 109 Ky. 580.

Where a statute required a condition in a saloon-keeper's bond that he would not use any screen which might obstruct the view "through" the doors of the saloon, the use of the word "to" instead of through was held not to invalidate the bond. State v. Wharton, 26 Tex. Civ. App. 262.

2. A Statutory Provision Requiring an Attested Copy of a Treasurer's Bond sent to the commissioners to be accompanied by a certificate of the custodian of the bond is directory. Johnson v. Gerald, 169 Mass. 500.

671. 1. Valid if Voluntary and Supported by Consideration. — Spriggs v. State, 161 Ind. 226, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 671, and applying the rule to a bond given on petition for the establishment of a drain.

Bond Must Be Voluntary. — See Anderson v. Blair, 118 Ga. 211; Farr v. Rouillard, 172 Mass. 303.

3. Official Bonds. — Farr v. Rouillard, 172 Mass. 303; State v. Paxton, 65 Neb. 110, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 671; Hines v. Norris, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 81 S. W. Rep. 791.

672. 2. Bond Not Conforming to Statute Admits Only of Common-law Remedies. — Stephenson v. Monmouth Min., etc., Co., 84 Fed. Rep. 114, 54 U. S. App. 499; Farr v. Rouillard, 172 Mass. 303; Hines v. Norris, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 81 S. W. Rep. 791.

3. Intention to Comply with Statute. — In Farr v. Rouillard, 172 Mass. 303, wherein a constable's bond did not conform to the statutory requirement as to the obligee, it was said: "Treating the bond as a common-law bond, it is contended by the defendant that only nominal damages can be recovered; but it is plain that the obligor intended to comply with the statute, and therefore by implication it was taken in trust for the benefit of the same persons who could take advantage of a bond in the statutory form. The damages, therefore, will be measured by the interest of the cestui que trust, not by that of the obligee."

673. 1. Nonconforming Bonds in Judicial Proceedings — Bond of Committee of a Lunatic. — Dudley v. Rice, 119 Wis. 97.

Trustee's Bond. — McIntire v. Linehan, 178 Mass. 263.

7. Intention to Become Insurer Manifested. — U. S. v. Smythe, 120 Fed. Rep. 30, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 680.

Funds Stolen. — Bosbyshell v. U. S., 77 Fed. Rep. 944, 39 U. S. App. 474.

Funds Lost Before the Execution of a County Treasurer's Bond cannot be recovered from the sureties. Coe v. Nash, 91 Tex. 113.

681. 1. Condition to Faithfully Perform Duties. — U. S. v. Smythe, 120 Fed. Rep. 30, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 681.

2. St. Marys v. Rowe, 15 Ohio Dec. 686, quoting 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 681, and holding that the sureties on the bond of a public officer are entitled to stand on the strict letter of the contract and cannot be held for malfeasance except in respect to the acts of their principal as such officer and in discharge of the duties pertaining to his office.

Incidental and Necessary Duties Covered. — Smythe v. U. S., (C. C. A.) 107 Fed. Rep. 376, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 681.

Instances of Public Duties — Constable. — Norwalk v. Ireland, 68 Conn. 1.

684. 2. Separate Duties Not Included. — St. Marys v. Rowe, 15 Ohio Dec. 686, quoting 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 684.

685. 1. Condition to Perform Separate Contract. — See also Shelby v. Bohn, 25 Ind. App. 473.

686. 1. Remedy of the Obligee When Performance Is Excused. — Ward v. Hood, 124 Ala. 572, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 686; Webster v. Major, 33 Ind. App. 213, quoting 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 686.

687. 1. Act of Obligee — General Rule. — Webster v. Major, 33 Ind. App. 213, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 687.

688. 3. Bond of Bank Cashier. — Where a cashier broke the condition of his bond by wrongfully discounting a note, an attempt by the bank to collect the note was held not to amount to a waiver of its rights on the bond. Cassell v. Mercer Nat. Bank, 59 S. W. Rep. 504, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 1009.

691. 5. Conditions Precedent. — Tyrer v. Chew, 7 App. Cas. (D. C.) 175; Learn v. Bag-nall, 1 Ont. L. Rep. 472.

It is not necessary to make demand on a county treasurer for money wrongfully diverted by him before bringing an action on his bond. Coe v. Nash, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 40 S. W. Rep. 235, reversed 91 Tex. 113.

Occurrence of Conditions Precedent — Substantial Performance — Foreclosure of Mortgage. — Under the New Jersey statute providing that the holder of a bond secured by a mortgage shall foreclose the mortgage before proceeding upon the bond, it was held that where the mortgage had been wiped out foreclosure was not a condition precedent to a recovery on the bond. Seigman v. Streeter, 64 N. J. L. 169.

Arrival of Day of Payment. — Where in the case of a bond to pay a sum of money to the grandson of the obligee, or in the event of his death before the day of payment, then to a third person, the grandson died before the time named, it was held that the sum did not there-upon become payable. It did not fall due until the time set by the instrument itself. Matter of Garlock, 8 N. Y. App. Div. 341.

693. e. DISCHARGE OR RELEASE. — See note 1.

694. f. BREACH OF CONDITION TO INDEMNIFY — (1) Generally. — See note 4.

695. (2) No Specific Contingency. — See note 2.

699. VI. THE OBLIGATION — 4. Liability — a. IN COMMON-LAW BONDS. — See notes 1, 2.

700. b. IN STATUTORY BONDS. — See note 1.

701. c. EXTENT OF LIABILITY. — See notes 1, 2.

693. 1. A Release by the Obligor is no defense to a suit on the bond by a beneficial obligee. Etscheid v. Baker, 112 Wis. 129.

694. 4. Nature and Extent of Indemnity — Intention Controls. — U. S. v. Smythe, 120 Fed. Rep. 30, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 694, and holding that a condition to keep safely all moneys of the mint was not merely an obligation to pay the moneys, but safely to keep and deliver them as received.

695. 2. Events Causing Breach of Condition to Indemnify. — The obligor of a bond to keep safely the moneys of the United States was held to be liable where money was destroyed by fire through the carelessness of his subordinates. U. S. v. Smythe, 120 Fed. Rep. 30, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 695.

699. 1. Obligation Payable at Common Law as Penalty. — Ripley v. Eady, 106 Ga. 422; Disosway v. Edwards, 134 N. Car. 257, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 699; Dunavant v. Caldwell, etc., R. Co., 122 N. Car. 999; Grand Lodge, etc., v. Cleghorn, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 134.

In Bonds of Indemnity. — A bond given by a grantor of land upon which there was a mortgage, conditioned to satisfy the mortgage and other incumbrances, is a bond of indemnity and not one for liquidated damages. McDaniels v. Gowey, 30 Wash. 412.

2. Intention of Parties as to Liquidated Damages. — New Britain v. New Britain Telephone Co., 74 Conn. 326.

Where Part of the Sum Named in the Bond Was Paid, under an agreement between the parties to discontinue the performance of the condition, an action was held to be properly brought on the bond for the balance as liquidated damages. Bazemore v. Bynum, 127 N. Car. 11.

In a Bond Given for the Performance of a Separate Contract in the penal sum of one hundred dollars, the liability will be enforced as liquidated damages. Shelby v. Bohn, 25 Ind. App. 473.

In a Proceeding to Determine the Validity of an Election the holder of the office gave a bond the obligation of which was to refund to the city all salary which he had received in event he was found to be illegally in office. It was held that the measure of liability was the entire amount he had received, and not the amount by which the city had actually been damaged. Finley v. Tucson, (Ariz. 1900) 60 Pac. Rep. 872.

700. 1. Equity Cannot Relieve Against Statutory Penalty. — See State v. Larson, 83 Minn. 131, per Brown, J., dissenting, quoting 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 700. In this case, however, the majority of the court held that a liquor dealer's bond was one of indemnity, the amount thereof being in the nature of a penalty and not liquidated damages.

In New York an action may be brought on a liquor-tax bond to enforce either the penalty for the breach of any condition of the bond or for any penalty or penalties incurred or imposed for the violation of the liquor-tax law. Lyman v. Perlmutter, 166 N. Y. 414, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 700.

A liquor dealer's bond conditioned to pay to all persons all damages sustained by reason of obtaining the license was held to make the obligor liable for damages to one whose husband was killed as a result of becoming intoxicated from liquor sold to him by the obligor. Dowiat v. People, 92 Ill. App. 433. See generally the title CIVIL DAMAGE ACTS.

701. 1. Amount of Penalty Limit of Liability. — Moss v. Rowlett, 112 Ky. 124, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 701; People's Sav. Bank v. Campau, 124 Mich. 106; Board of Education v. National Surety Co., 183 Mo. 166, quoting 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 701; Sachs v. American Surety Co., 177 N. Y. 551 (where the condition is for the performance of an act, and not for the payment of money); John Polhemus Printing Co. v. Hallenbeck, 46 N. Y. App. Div. 563; Sachs v. American Surety Co., 72 N. Y. App. Div. 60, affirmed 177 N. Y. 551; New Home Sewing Mach. Co. v. Seago, 128 N. Car. 158; Grand Lodge, etc., v. Cleghorn, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 134. See also Hughes v. Pritchard, 129 N. Car. 42.

On a Bond to Secure a Note recovery may be had for attorney's fees mentioned in the note and for interest on the principal. Morristown Stove Works v. Jones, (Tenn. Ch. 1899) 53 S. W. Rep. 217.

Costs. — Where the recovery is less than the penalty full costs may be allowed though the total is thereby brought above the amount of the penalty. Dwyer v. U. S., 93 Fed. Rep. 616, 35 C. C. A. 488.

2. Interest Allowed Beyond Penalty. — Knife v. Blair, (1900) 1 Ir. R. 372; U. S. v. Walker, 128 Fed. Rep. 1012; Holmes v. Standard Oil Co., 183 Ill. 70; Getchell, etc., Lumber, etc., Co. v. Peterson, 124 Iowa 599; McMullen v. Winfield Bldg., etc., Assoc., 64 Kan. 305, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. 703. 3. Copyright — Bound Volume. — In Holmes v. Hurst, 174 U. S. 89, the court said: "It is the intellectual production of the author which the copyright protects, and not the particular form which such production ultimately takes, and the word book as used in the statute is not to be understood in its technical sense of a bound volume, but any species of publication which the author selects to embody his literary product."

Customs Duties. — The unbound sheets of a scientific publication are a book within the Tariff Act prescribing a free list including "scientific books and periodicals devoted to original scientific research." In re Hempstead, 95 Fed. Rep. 967; Macmillan Co. v. U. S., 116 Fed. Rep. 1019.

Flooding from Jams. — Hunter v. Grande Ronde Lumber Co., 39 Oregon 448.

But where the flooding of the lands of a riparian owner is due to the negligence of a logging company the latter is liable. Watkins v. Dorris, 24 Wash. 636.

2. Works Improperly Constructed. — Sibley v. Penobscot Lumbering Assoc., 93 Me. 399; Pickens v. Coal River Boom, etc., Co., 51 W. Va. 445, 90 Am. St. Rep. 819.

Burden of Proof. — Gniadck v. Northwestern Imp., etc., Co., 73 Minn. 87.

Where the Defendants Were Not Authorized to Carry on the Business of Booming they were held liable for damages resulting to riparian owners irrespective of the question of negligence. Watkinson v. McCoy, 23 Wash. 372.

Negligence Not Presumed. — Where the plaintiff showed that his lands had been flooded annually for a number of years by reason of the raising of a dam, he was held not to be entitled to a recovery in the absence of sufficient evidence to establish the defendant's negligence. Ramgren v. McDermott, 73 Minn. 368.

713. 1. Sudden Freshet — Where Boom Properly Constructed. — Coyne v. Mississippi, etc., Boom Co., 72 Minn. 533, 71 Am. St. Rep. 508.

4. Cannot Interfere with Water Power. — Pickens v. Coal River Boom, etc., Co., 51 W. Va. 445, 90 Am. St. Rep. 819, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 710-712 [713].

715. 1. Entire and Severable Contracts. — Where the compensation for booming a number of logs is payable in instalments it is not necessary for the contractor to perform fully before being entitled to receive pay, but a pro tanto recovery may be had for part performance. Kerslake v. McInnis, 113 Wis. 659.

Counterclaim. — The defendant in an action for compensation for driving logs may not interpose as a counterclaim a lien on his logs by one who drove them, the plaintiff having been negligent in performing his contract. Such facts might be shown in defense. Gibson v. Trow, 105 Wis. 288.

Failure of Stream. — In an action of assumption it was shown that the plaintiff was unable to complete the contract to drive the defendant's logs because of a falling of the water. It was held that such failure of the water excused the full performance. Clarksville Land Co. v. Harriman, 68 N. H. 374.

716. 2. Statutory Authority to Run Logs of Nonconsenting Owners. — See Doyle v. Pelton, 134 Mich. 398, 10 Detroit Leg. N. 475; Boyle v. Musser, 77 Minn. 153; *E. W. Backus Lumber Co. v. A Borough Is a Public Municipal Corporation, and has within its sphere all the powers necessary for its corporate existence. Ridley Park v. Citizens Electric Light, etc., Co., 7 Del. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 395, 9 Pa. Super. Ct. 615.

722. 5. Constitutionality of Acts. — Though the statute under which a borough was created has been declared unconstitutional in a proceeding against another borough existing under the same statute, that fact has no bearing as to the de facto existence of the borough in an action against its officers to restrain them from tearing down a building. Coast Co. v. Spring Lake, 56 N. J. Eq. 615.

723. 2. Delegation of Powers. — In proceedings for incorporation the Court of Quarter Sessions may not delegate its power of hearing and passing upon the evidence to a master appointed by the court. In re Wayne, 7 Del. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 533, 12 Pa. Super. Ct. 363.

Annexation to City. — The Court of Quarter Sessions may determine whether three-fifths of the taxable inhabitants have signed a petition to annex the borough to a city. West New Castle Annexation, 19 Pa. Co. Ct. 33.

3. Application for Incorporation. — In re Old Forge Borough, 5 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 185, 7 Del. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 462.

Contents of Petition. — The petition must contain a detailed description of the boundaries of the proposed borough. Riverton Borough, 20 Pa. Co. Ct. 63, 6 Pa. Dist. 685.

Minors Holding Property as Heirs are not counted in ascertaining whether a majority of the freeholders have signed the petition for incorporation. Alliance Borough Case, 7 Northam. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 235.

Jurisdiction once having been obtained by the court it cannot be ousted by a remonstrance of the petitioner. In re Old Forge Borough, 5 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 185, 7 Del. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 462.

Incorporation Will Not Be Refused because the proposed borough includes a large tract of unoccupied land. In re Rouseville, 21 Pa. Co. Ct. 262, affirmed 12 Pa. Super. Ct. 126.

Vacating Decree. — A decree incorporating a borough may be vacated by the Court of Quarter Sessions during the same term at which it was made. In re Herndon, 19 Pa. Super. Ct. 127.

But an appeal from a decree incorporating a borough may not be taken two years after it was entered, where in the meantime obligations have been entered into and a school district has been organized by the borough. Morton Borough, 8 Del. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 118, 15 Pa. Super. Ct. 466.

5. Record Must Show Performance of Condition. — In re Pyne, 6 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 124.

724. 3. Notice of Proceedings. — See In re Linton, 5 Pa. Super. Ct. 36, 40 W. N. C. (Pa.) 525.

5. Defect in Published Notice of Petition. — Although the objecting parties had notice themselves they may still object that others did not have notice. Pyne Borough, 6 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 124.

6. Facts Warranting Incorporation. — Smithfield Borough, 23 Pa. Co. Ct. 583, 30 Pittsb. Leg. J. N. S. (Pa.) 433; In re Alliance, 7 Northam. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 396; West Homestead Borough Case, 31 Pittsb. Leg. J. N. S. (Pa.) 172.

The court should be satisfied of the necessity of incorporation before it is justified in making a decree incorporating a borough. Pyne Borough, 6 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 124.

In Wall Borough Case, 30 Pittsb. Leg. J. N. S. (Pa.) 308, it was held that a petition would be refused where it appeared that the town was small and the land to be included uneven and rough, the greater part being included for purposes of taxation.

The Increase of Township Taxes which will follow the incorporation of a borough is not a sufficient ground for an exception to the incorporation. Cross Roads Borough, 13 York Leg. Rec. (Pa.) 85.

8. Separate Groups of Houses between which is land not used for dwelling purposes may be incorporated into a borough. In re Swoyerville, 12 Pa. Super. Ct. 118.

Lands Included. — Land will not be included within a borough for the reason alone that the land is owned by a railroad and the borough may at a future time desire to bridge over the property. Riverton Borough, 18 Pa. Co. Ct. 539, 6 Pa. Dist. 29.

An Objection to the Inclusion of Farm Lands within the limits of a borough must be raised by the owners of the land. Cross Roads Borough, 13 York Leg. Rec. (Pa.) 85.

3. Annexation Proceedings Will Not Be Set Aside After Approval by the court if the statutory requirements have been complied with. Edwardsville Borough, 8 Kulp (Pa.) 339.

4. Description of Boundaries — Courses and Distances. — In re Moosic, 12 Pa. Super. Ct. 353.

5. Allegation as to Character of Petitioners. — A petition is not invalid though it refers to the petitioners as "taxables" instead of taxable inhabitants. West New Castle Annexation, 19 Pa. Co. Ct. 33.

6. The Court of Quarter Sessions is vested with jurisdiction to constitute a borough, annexed to a city, a new ward. Morrellville Borough Annexation, 20 Pa. Co. Ct. 257.

Petition — Signatures — Review. — The petition should be signed by at least twenty freeholders; but the same number of signers is not necessary in the case of a petition for a review, since the court might of its own motion order a review without any petition. Freeland Borough, 22 Pa. Co. Ct. 403.

726. 1. Not Necessary to State Specific Number of Wards. — In re South Ward Div., 7 Del. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 428, 9 Kulp (Pa.) 387, 13 York Leg. Rec. (Pa.) 15.

Invalid Report. — A report should be set aside where it appears that the commissioners held no meeting within the borough and did not visit the land to be incorporated. Sharpsburg Borough Cas, 30 Pittsb. Leg. J. N. S. (Pa.) 167, 13 York Leg. Rec. 156.

4. Application of Borough Funds. — In England the borough fund of a municipal corporation, where there is no surplus, cannot be applied lawfully, either under the provisions of the Municipal Corporations Act of 1882, or of the Borough Funds Act of 1872, to indemnify the chief constable of the borough for costs incurred by him in appearing by counsel as a party to an appeal to Quarter Sessions, by the holder of a license for the selling of intoxicating liquors, from the refusal of the licensing justices to grant a renewal of the license. Query, whether if there be a surplus, it can be applied legally to the payment of such costs? Tynemouth v. Atty.-Gen., (1899) A. C. 293, affirming (1898) 1 Q. B. 604.

727. 1. A Local Statute Is Not Repealed by the incorporation of a part of a township into a borough. Com. v. Ayers, 17 Pa. Super. Ct. 352.

2. In New Jersey, where a borough is incorporated out of a township, its liability for debts of the township contracted previous to incorporation is provided for by Laws N. J., 1896, p. 270. Lodi Tp. v. Hackensack Imp. Commission, 60 N. J. Eq. 229.

6. In New Jersey the general government of boroughs is provided for by statute (P. L. 1897, p. 285). Smith v. Hightstown, (N. J. 1904) 57 Atl. Rep. 901.

Quorum of Council. — Members of a borough council, present at a meeting, though not voting, are to be counted for the purpose of making a quorum. Com. v. Schubmehl, 3 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 186.

Under the English Bankruptcy Act of 1883, a bankrupt is disqualified, not only for being elected to, but also for holding or exercising, the office of borough councilor. An information in the nature of a quo warranto lies to oust a bankrupt from holding or exercising such office. Rex v. Beer, (1903) 2 K. B. 693.

Notice of Adjourned Meeting. — Councilmen are not entitled to notice of an adjourned meeting of a borough council. Com. v. Fleming, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 404.

728. 2. Disqualification of Councilman. — It was held that a councilman who, being disqualified to hold office for nonpayment of a tax, resigned after paying the tax, might be appointed to fill the vacancy. Com. v. Giles, 2 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 223.

A Vacancy in the Council is filled by the council, not by the Court of Quarter Sessions. In re Strasburg, 16 Lanc. L. Rev. (Pa.) 191, 8 Pa. Dist. 544.

7. Acts Passed Over Veto of Burgess. — Where the veto of the burgess is not properly recorded an ordinance passed over the veto is void. Galloway v. Gilmour, 5 Pa. Dist. 553.

7. Liability for Condition of Streets. — Canfield v. East Stroudsburg, 19 Pa. Super. Ct. 649; Brown v. Towanda, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 378.

Alleys. — The degree of care required in the case of streets is not called for in the case of alleys. Musick v. Latrobe, 184 Pa. St. 375, 42 W. N. C. (Pa.) 209.

730. 1. Borough Entitled to Actual or Implied Notice. — Boyle v. Mahonoy City, 19 Pa. Co. Ct. 195, affirmed 187 Pa. St. 1. See also Dutton v. Lansdowne, 7 Del. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 400, 10 Pa. Super. Ct. 204, 44 W. N. C. (Pa.) 290.

Latent Defect. — A borough is not liable for an injury from a latent defect in a sidewalk. McClosky v. Dubois, 4 Pa. Super. Ct. 181, 40 W. N. C. (Pa.) 214; Fitzpatrick v. Darby, 184 Pa. St. 645.

3. Power to Exact License Fees. — A borough in Pennsylvania has power to exact license fees from an electric light and power company for poles erected in its streets. Ridley Park v. Citizen's Electric Light, etc., Co., 9 Pa. Super. Ct. 620; Lansdowne v. Citizens Electric Light, etc., Co., 7 Del. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 399, 9 Pa. Super. Ct. 620.

734. 1*a*. "A Botanical Garden means, primarily, a collection of plants, shrubs, etc., that would assist in the acquisition and advancement of botanical knowledge, — not large quantities of flowering plants for merely ornamental purposes of the private grounds of a gentleman's residence, but specimens, whether flowering, or ornamental, or otherwise, that would aid a botanist in imparting botanical knowledge." Per Rogers, J., in *Pierce v. 12. Bought and Paid for — Indian Laws. — In construing the Act of Congress of July 28, 1891, providing that lands occupied by Indians who have bought and paid for the same may be leased under the authority of the secretary of the interior, the court said: "Reflections upon the history and policy of the government in its dealings with the Indians go far to support the position that Congress did not intend to limit the words 'bought and paid for' to lands which had been actually paid for in cash, or to lands which had been patented, and the title thereto actually parted with, by the United States. It was doubtless the intention of Congress that the statute and those words should apply to all lands which had been purchased by the Indians, either by the payment of money, or exchange or surrender of the possession of other property." Strawberry Valley Cattle Co. v. Chipman, 13 Utah 454.

3. A Boulevard Is a Street or Highway within the meaning of an act making municipalities liable for defects in streets, etc. Burridge v. Detroit, 117 Mich. 557. See also West Chicago v. Farber, 171 Ill. 146.

Speedway a Boulevard. — "The word boulevard, as now commonly used in this commonwealth, has not a very definite meaning. It sometimes means little more than a wide street or highway. In the Century Dictionary it is said: 'The name is now sometimes extended to any street or walk encircling a town, and also to a street which is of especial width, is given a park-like appearance by reserving spaces at the sides or centre for shade trees, flowers, seats, and the like, and is not used for heavy teaming.' It seems to us that the 'speedway' may properly be said to be a boulevard, within the meaning of that word in the conditions of the deeds." Per Field, C. J., in Howe v. Lowell, 171 Mass. 575.

Wisconsin. — Walls v. Cunningham, (Wis. 1904) 101 N. W. Rep. 696.

See also Wilcox v. Snyder, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 451.

Where the boundary line on the lake side of the land is substantially coincident with the shore of the lake at low-water mark the intent to convey to such low-water mark will be presumed, though no mention is made in the deed of the lake as a boundary. Slauson v. Goodrich Transp. Co., 94 Wis. 642.

Effect of Call for Quantity. — The mere fact that the quantity called for in the deed corresponds with the quantity within the meandered line, does not show that the meandered line was intended as the boundary. Schlusser v. Cruickshank, 96 Iowa 414.

Where There Is No Adjacent Body of Water Proper to Be Meandered, the rule stated in the text will not apply. In such a case the meandered line will be a boundary line, and one who purchases from the government accordingly thereto cannot claim title beyond it. Schlusser v. Hemphill, 118 Iowa 452. See also Carroll v. Moore, 119 Iowa 152, 97 Am. St. Rep. 292.

Omission of Extensive Tract. — The rule does not apply where an extensive tract is omitted between the meandered line and the body of water. Barnhart v. Ehrhart, 33 Oregon 274.

Boundaries of fractional lots will not be indefinitely extended, where they appear by the government plat to abut on a body of water, which in fact never existed at substantially the place indicated on the plat. In such exceptional cases, the supposed meander line will, if consistent with the other calls and distances, mark the limit of the survey, and be held to be the boundary line of the land it delimits. Security Land, etc., Co. v. Burns, 87 Minn. 97, 94 Am. St. Rep. 684.

Establishment of Side Lines. — In establishing the side lines of adjoining property owners whose front line is a meandered line around a lake, the side lines are fixed by extending their side lines on a deflected course from their intersection with the meander line toward a point in the centre of the lake. Hanson v. Rice, 88 Minn. 273.

Where in a deed conveying a triangular piece of land, the front line of the triangle was a road near the shore, and the deed expressly called for the land "in front of" such line to high-water mark, in extending the side lines they are not to be extended on the oblique line of the triangle but on lines perpendicular to the front line. McIntyre v. McKinnon, 31 Nova Scotia 54.

Method of Determining Boundary Line Described as the Junction of One Body of Water with Another. — Oakland v. Oakland Water Front Co., 118 Cal. 160.

Head of Stream. — The head of a stream is the highest point on that stream which furnishes a continuous stream of water, and not necessarily its longest prong. In determining the head of a stream which has several branches, courts have uniformly held that branch to be the main fork which furnishes the main volume of water. Uhl v. Reynolds, (Ky. 1901) 64 S. W. Rep. 498. See also HEAD.

The Thread of a Stream is the line midway between the banks at the ordinary stage of water, without regard to the channel or the lowest and deepest part of the stream. State v. Burton, 106 La. 732. See also FILUM AQUÆ; THREAD.

High-water Mark on Nontidal River. — Welch v. Browning, 115 Iowa 690. See also HIGH-WATER MARK.

High-water mark as applied to nontidal streams, though inaccurate, means the ordinary high-water mark. Morrison v. Skowhegan First Nat. Bank, 88 Me. 155.

3. Low-water Mark. — Low-water mark as applied to inland navigable lakes means the ordinary low-water mark. McBurney v. Young, 67 Vt. 574.

Low-water mark upon an inland lake is a point at which the water stands when free from disturbing causes. Slauson v. Goodrich Transp. Co., 94 Wis. 642.

See also LOW-WATER MARK.

The Term "Shore," though inapplicable, is sometimes used with regard to nontidal streams. Morrison v. Skowhegan First Nat. Bank, 88 Me. 155.

See also SHORE.

"Strand."—The term "strand" is synonymous with "shore," and is that portion of the land lying between ordinary high and low water marks. Stillman v. Burfeind, 21 N. Y. App. Div. 13. See also STRAND.

2. Boundary of Lands Abutting on the Sea — Leading Rule. — Coburn v. San Mateo County, 75 Fed. Rep. 520 (Mexican grant bordering "to the west on the sea" carries only to high-water mark); Mobile Transp. Co. v. Mobile, 128 Ala. 335, 86 Am. St. Rep. 143; Johnson v. State, 114 Ga. 790, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 820; Jarvis v. Lynch, 91 Hun (N. Y.) 349, affirmed 157 N. Y. 445; Sage v. New York, 154 N. Y. 61; Stillman v. Burfeind, 21 N. Colonial Ordinance, 1641-47. — Dunton v. Parker, 97 Me. 461.

821. 1. Centre Thread of Small Tidal Creeks. — Where the grantor owns to the centre of a tidal stream, a description "to mouth of creek" and "thence ascending" the stream, will carry to centre of stream. Freeman v. Bellegarde, 108 Cal. 179, 49 Am. St. Rep. 76.

2. "By," "Upon," "To," or "Along" the Shore — Decisions Conflicting. — Freeman v. Bellegarde, 108 Cal. 179, 49 Am. St. Rep. 76; Freeman v. Leighton, 90 Me. 541 ("to the shore" excludes flats); Dunton v. Parker, 97 Me. 461. See also ALONG; BY; TO; UPON.

To Low-water Mark on Sea Shore. — A description of land as running to a certain bay, "thence northerly following the meandering from said bay," carries to low-water mark.

Maynard v. Puget Sound Nat. Bank, 24 Wash. 455.

To High-water Mark on Shore. — Mobile Transp. Co. v. Mobile, 128 Ala. 335, 86 Am. St. Rep. 143; Stillman v. Burfeind, 21 N. Y. App. Div. 13.

Non-ownership of Bed of River. — The rule that the conveyance of land adjoining a river passes ad medium filum without special mention does not apply where the bed is not owned by the grantor so that it would pass if expressly mentioned. Ecroyd v. Coulthard, (1897) 2 Ch. 554, (1898) 2 Ch. 358.

2. To Middle Thread of River. — Fuller v. Shedd, 161 Ill. 462, 52 Am. St. Rep. 380; Bellefontaine Imp. Co. v. Niedringhaus, 181 Ill. 426, 72 Am. St. Rep. 269; Smith v. Bartlett, 180 N. Y. 360, quoting 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 823; Chesbrough v. Head, 23 Ohio Cir. Ct. 427.

In Wisconsin it is held that where a river separates Wisconsin from another state, the title of a riparian owner in Wisconsin goes to the state boundary line in the river, regardless of whether that is nearer to or farther from the shore than the filum aquæ of the stream. Franzini v. Layland, 120 Wis. 72.

Leases. — The rule applies to leases. Balance v. Peoria, 180 Ill. 29, reversing 70 Ill. App. 546 (Illinois river).

A description of land extending to a stake on the bank of a stream, thence up the stream to a sycamore on the bank, has been held to carry to the thread of the stream. Reunion v. Alley, (Ky. 1897) 39 S. W. Rep. 849.

Island. — The fact that there is an island in the watercourse does not change the rule that a grant of land bordering on the watercourse carries to the centre of the stream. Whitaker v. McBride, 197 U. S. 510.

Federal Grants. — Grants of the federal government for land bounded on streams without any reservation or restriction of terms ought to be construed as to their effect according to the law of the state in which the land lies. Whitaker v. McBride, 197 U. S. 510, following Hardin v. Jordan, 140 U. S. 371.

830. 2. Land Described as Bounded "on the Bank or Shore" of Stream. — Morrison v. Skowhegan First Nat. Bank, 88 Me. 155; Matter of Rochester, 8 N. Y. App. Div. 609 (a call to the top of the bank of a stream, thence along the top of the bank; the course should follow the meanders of the bank).

A description of land as lying on the south "side of" a river carries to the centre of the river. Hanlon v. Hobson, 24 Colo. 284.

3. Dayton v. Cooper Hydraulic Co., 10 Ohio Dec. 192, 7 Ohio N. P. 495 (to ordinary line of water without reference to extraordinary freshets or extraordinary low water). See, however, Morrison v. Skowhegan First Nat. Bank, 88 Me. 155, where the call was to high-water mark of a river and thence by the bank or shore of the river, and it was held to carry only to the ordinary high-water mark.

Where the description expressly calls for the low-water mark of the stream, such mark will, of course, be the boundary line. Webster v. Harris, 111 Tenn. 668.

tract extending from the shore or meander line, on lines converging to a point in the centre of the lake bed; and such lake bed is an incident and an appurtenance to the adjoining lands, and becomes the property of the individual shore owner upon acquiring title to the adjoining land." Shell v. Matteson, 81 Minn. 38, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 828 [834].

Swamp. — A description running to a swamp and thence along the swamp carries only to the banks of the swamp, and not to the centre thread of a stream running through the swamp. Rowe v. Cape Fear Lumber Co., 128 N. Car. 301.

Where the call is "with the run of the swamp" the line should be extended to the run and not limited to the edge of the swamp. Rowe v. Cape Fear Lumber Co., 133 N. Car. 433.

And it has been held that where there is a call for a swamp, it is for the jury to say whether the margin or the run is intended. Rowe v. Cape Fear Lumber Co., 133 N. Car. 433, citing Brooks v. Britt, 4 Dev. L. (15 N. Car.) 481, and explaining Rowe v. Cape Fear Lumber Co., 128 N. Car. 301; Rowe v. Cape Fear Lumber Co., (1905) 138 N. Car. 465, following Rowe v. Cape Fear Lumber Co., 133 N. Car. 433.

835. 1. Meander Lines on Nonnavigable Lakes. — Schlosser v. Cruickshank, 96 Iowa 414. See, however, Fuller v. Shedd, 161 Ill. 462, 52 Am. St. Rep. 380; Carr v. Moore, 119 Iowa 152, 97 Am. St. Rep. 292.

The fact that the meandered line does not actually follow the bank of the lake does not alter the rule. Schlosser v. Cruickshank, 96 Iowa 414.

The fact that the quantity called for by the grant and the quantity within the meandered line correspond does not alter the rule. Schlosser v. Cruickshank, 96 Iowa 414.

836. 2. Artificial Pond. — Under a deed bounding the land therein conveyed by an artificial pond, which had been in existence for more than forty years, and which had thus become a permanent body of water, and was still being kept up and maintained as such, its waters, however, ebbing and flowing from time to time, so as to leave a margin of land between its high and low water marks, the line of the land so conveyed did not extend to the thread of the stream from whose waters the pond was formed, but only to the low-water mark of the pond at the date of the execution of the deed. Boardman v. Scott, 102 Ga. 404.

A conveyance bounded by an artificial pond does not carry to the centre of the pond, but merely to the shore; but where the pond is merely an enlargement of a stream by the erection of a dam, the grant will carry to the centre of the pond. Roberts v. Decker, 120 Wis. 102.

840. 1. Discovery as to Boundaries. — The mere fact that a land owner has in his possession a map and deed showing the disputed boundary line does not confer jurisdiction upon a court of equity for discovery of evidence. Collins v. Sutton, 94 Va. 127.

2. Fraud. — While the jurisdiction of a court of equity to establish a disputed boundary line does not arise upon any mere dispute as to the location of the boundary between adjoining parcels of land or even upon the mere dispute as to such location because of a confusion or obliteration of the line, it will be exercised when the obliteration or confusion has resulted from the act of the defendant in fraud of the complainant's rights. Guice v. Barr, 130 Ala. 570, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 840.

Wisconsin. — Welton v. Poynter, 96 Wis. 346; Schlei v. Struck, 109 Wis. 598.

The rule sustaining agreements as to division lines does not apply unless the lands of the parties to the agreement are contiguous. Cavanaugh v. Wholey, 143 Cal. 164.

Where the plaintiff claims the location of a boundary line by agreement, the agreement is not binding upon the defendant if there is no privity between the defendant and the person with whom plaintiff made his agreement. Connor v. Johnson, 59 S. Car. 115.

A surveyor employed by one party to locate his boundary line has no power to bind his employer by an agreement with an adjoining owner as to the boundary line. Higginson v. Schaneback, (Ky. 1902) 66 S. W. Rep. 1040.

A grantor after conveyance cannot bind his grantee by an agreement as to boundary line between adjoining owners. Donaldson v. Rall, 14 Tex. Civ. App. 336.

One cotenant cannot bind the other cotenant by an agreement as to a disputed boundary line. Strickley v. Hill, 22 Utah 257, 83 Am. St. Rep. 786.

A Tenant has no power to bind his landlord by agreement as to boundary line. Cox v. Dougherty, 62 Ark. 629, 36 S. W. Rep. 184.

In New Hampshire in order that parol agreement as to division line shall be binding, the line must be actually run. Glen Mfg. Co. v. Weston Lumber Co., 80 Fed. Rep. 242.

Consideration. — The uncertainty as to the location of the boundary is a sufficient foundation or consideration for their agreement locating the boundary. Thaxter v. Inglis, 121 Cal. 593; Gardner v. White, 74 S. W. Rep. 206, 24 Ky. L. Rep. 2444; Brummell v. Harris, 148 Mo. 430.

Where a Government Section Line is a True Boundary Line, still, if its true location is in doubt, the adjoining owners may, by parol agreement, establish a boundary line, though the line so established differs from the section line. LaMont v. Dickinson, 189 Ill. 628; Cox v. Dougherty, 62 Ark. 629, 36 S. W. Rep. 184.

Agreement is Binding at Law as Well as in Equity. — Brown v. Bowerman, (Mich. 1903) 97 N. W. Rep. 352, 10 Detroit Leg. N. 659.

Abandonment of Agreement Avoids it. — Geoghagan v. Turner, 82 S. W. Rep. 244, 26 Ky. L. Rep. 537.

If the parties after agreeing on a disputed boundary line disregard such agreement by long course of conduct, the court will not enforce such agreement. Brummell v. Harris, 162 Mo. 397.

Where a disputed boundary line is agreed on between the parties, the fact that in erecting a line fence the line agreed upon is departed from merely to accommodate the fence to a creek does not show an abandonment of the

And by Bouvier, as 'an additional benefit conferred upon or a compensation paid to a class of persons.' In a conference of representatives of the principal European powers, specially convened at Brussels in 1898 for the purpose of considering the question of sugar bounties, the definition of bounty was examined by the conference sitting in committee, who made the following report: 'The conference, while reserving the question of mitigations and provisional disposition that may be authorized, if need be by reason of exceptional situations, is of opinion that bounties whose abolition is desirable are understood to be all the advantages conceded to manufacturers and refiners by the fiscal legislation of the states, and that, directly or indirectly, are borne by the public treasury. There should be classified as such, notably (a) The direct advantages granted in case of exportation. (b) The direct advantages granted to production. (c) The total or partial exemptions from taxation granted to a portion of the manufactured products. (d) The indirect advantages growing out of surplus or allowance in manufacturing effected beyond the legal estimates. (e) The profit that may be derived from an excessive drawback.'"

Proof of Record. — See note 1.

874. 2. Marks and Brands Distinguished. — In Churchill v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 108 Ga. 265, the court said: "When we speak of the 'marks and brands' used by an owner of stock to designate his property and distinguish it from property of like character belonging to others, every one understands the expression to include only those devices placed upon stock by artificial means. The word 'brand' indicates some figure or device burned upon the animal by a hot iron, and the word 'mark' indicates generally some change made in some part of the animal by a knife or other means, such as boring or slitting the ear. The 'brand' is more commonly used upon some animals as a means of identification, such as horses, mules, and the like; while others are generally identified by 'marks' made by knife-cuts in the ear, such as cattle, hogs, and the like."

875. 5. Brand Not Conclusive Evidence of Ownership in Replevin Suit. — Debord v. Johnson, 11 Colo. App. 402.

Evidence of Custom. — Where the issue was as to the ownership of the animal, evidence as to a custom that prevailed in regard to placing a certain brand on all calves when parties did not know to whom they belonged was not pertinent; as, if such a custom did prevail, action in pursuance of the custom could not deprive a person of his property. Rumfield v. Neal, (Tex. Civ. App. 1898) 46 S. W. Rep. 262.

7. Statutes — Only Recorded Brands Evidence of Ownership. — Sapp v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 77 S. W. Rep. 456; Walton v. State, 41 Tex. Crim. 454; Chowning v. State, 41 Tex. Crim. 81; Unsell v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 330; Turner v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 322; Brooke v. People, 23 Colo. 375; Welch v. State, 42 Tex. Crim. 338.

State*, 39 Tex. Crim. 330; Turner v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 322; Chowning v. State, 41 Tex. Crim. 81; Welch v. State, 42 Tex. Crim. 338.

Brand Defectively Recorded not admissible to prove ownership. Steed v. State, 43 Tex. Crim. 567.

876. 1. Proof of Identity by Unrecorded Brands. — Sapp v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 77 S. W. Rep. 456; Chowning v. State, 41 Tex. Crim. 81; Turner v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 322; Brooke v. People, 23 Colo. 375; Welch v. State, 42 Tex. Crim. 338.

Identity Proved by Brand Defectively Recorded. — Steed v. State, 43 Tex. Crim. 567.

Brand on Animal Different from Recorded Brand. — Where the brand on an alleged stolen animal is different from the recorded brand of the owner, it does not constitute evidence of ownership, but may be looked to as any other flesh mark which might serve to identify the animal. Garrett v. State, 42 Tex. Crim. 521.

2. Proof of Ownership by Unrecorded Mark. — In Turner v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 322, it was held that a person or company could have but one recorded brand; and, if such person or company had more than one recorded brand, said brands could be regarded as no more than flesh marks on the animal so branded, which could be used, not as evidence of ownership in connection with the recorded brand, but simply as evidence to establish the identity of such ownership, and that this identity in connection with other proof might, of course, show ownership.

In Swan v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 76 S. W. Rep. 464, the court said: "The holding in Turner's Case is not authority for the proposition that, where a person or company has several recorded brands and marks, either or all of said brands cannot be offered in evidence, but merely relates to the effect of such recorded brand where the party has more than one." See also Welch v. State, 42 Tex. Crim. 338.

4. Dickson v. Territory, (Ariz. 1899) 56 Pac. Rep. 971. See also Debord v. Johnson, 11 Colo. App. 402.

5. In Turner v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 322, it was held that a brand recorded prior to the theft does not constitute indisputable evidence of ownership, but is merely prima facie proof thereof subject to rebuttal.

Animal. — In Garrett v. State, 42 Tex. Crim. 521, the court said: "The certificate of the brand being admissible in evidence, then other testimony to reconcile and explain the conflict between the brand in the purported certificate and that actually placed on the animal was admissible, that is, it was admissible to show how the particular brand on the alleged stolen animal came to be placed there instead of the recorded brand."

877. 3. Steed v. State, 43 Tex. Crim. 567. Side of Animal Need Not Be Designated. — Reese v. State, 43 Tex. Crim. 539.

Shoulder or Side. — A record of a brand designating the place of the brand on the animal in the alternative, as either on the "shoulder or side" (that is, different parts on the same side of the animal), is defective. Reese v. State, 43 Tex. Crim. 539.

878. 1. See Unsell v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 330.

6. The Texas Penal Code of 1895, Art. 932, imposes a penalty upon any one who originally uses more than one brand in the branding of cattle. Unsell v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 330.

879. 1. Intent to Prevent Identification. — In construing a California statute providing that one who in any way marks any animal therein named, belonging to another, with intent thereby to prevent identification thereof by the true owner, is guilty of a felony, the court said: "It can make no difference that the mark placed on the animal is not of a character usually adopted for the purpose of indicating ownership, or that it may not accomplish the purpose of preventing identification. These are matters that may properly weigh with the jury in determining as to the intent with which the marking was done. It is the placing of any mark on such an animal, with the intent thereby to prevent identification by the true owner, that constitutes the crime. That one who slits the ears of a horse or colt thereby 'marks' the same, within the ordinary meaning of that word, is clear." People v. Strombeck, 145 Cal. 110.

4. Elements of the Offense. — In Samples v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 64 S. W. Rep. 1041, the court said: "In order to constitute this offense, it must be shown (1) that the accused marked the animals of another, (2) without consent of the owner, and (3) with intent to defraud."

In Shiver v. State, 41 Fla. 630, the court said: "It is the fraudulent altering or changing of the mark or brand upon an animal of another, with intent to claim the same, that is denounced by the statute; and it is not a necessary ingredient of the offense that the altered mark or brand should be claimed by the defendant or any other person. The ownership of the altered mark or brand might constitute a circumstance proper to be considered in determining the question of defendant's intent in effecting the alteration, but the statute does not make it an essential ingredient of the offense, so as to require it to be noticed in framing the indictment."

Evidence Held Sufficient to Convict. — Samples v. State, (Tex. 1901) 64 S. W. Rep. 1041; Diaz v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 53 S. W. Rep. 632.

The Punishment for altering the mark on a hog, under the Texas statutes, is a felony, without regard to the value of the hog. Barfield v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 43 S. W. Rep. 333. (Tex. Crim. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 1104. And the same rule applies in Arkansas. Houston v. State, 66 Ark. 607.

882. 1. Right of Action Exists Independent of Legislation. — Parker v. Forehand, 99 Ga. 743.

The Action Is Not a Tort Action, although it partakes somewhat of the character of such an action. Broyhill v. Norton, 175 Mo. 190.

Procuring Breach. — In Leonard v. Whetstone, (Ind. App. 1903) 68 N. E. Rep. 197, it was held that it was not an actionable wrong for parents to induce their son to refuse to carry out a marriage contract.

Action Does Not Survive Death of Party. — French v. Merrill, 27 N. Y. App. Div. 612, appeal dismissed 157 N. Y. 704.

2. Action Affects Character. — In Hullett v. Baker, 101 Tenn. 689, it was held that an action for breach of promise abated on the death of the defendant, since it comes within the excepting clause of the statute (Shannon's Tenn. Code, § 4569), which provides that "no civil action commenced, whether founded on wrongs or contracts, except for wrongs affecting the character of the plaintiff, shall abate by the death of either party, but may be revived."

9. See Wells v. Hardy, 21 Tex. Civ. App. 454.

12. Promise by Parties Already Married. — A promise of marriage made to a married party known to be such is void. Davis v. Pryor, (C. C. A.) 112 Fed. Rep. 274, reversing 3 Indian Ter. 396; Smith v. Hall, 69 Conn. 651.

When Married Party Is Liable on Promise. — "The law unquestionably is settled that a married person can enter into a contract of marriage, and thereby become responsible in damages to the other contracting party, provided the party with whom the married person contracts is ignorant of the fact that the person is married." Davis v. Pryor, 3 Indian Ter. 396, judgment reversed (C. C. A.) 112 Fed. Rep. 274.

884. 1. Statute Forbidding Second Marriage for Certain Time. — In Buelna v. Ryan, 139

Cal. 630, it was held, under a statute making a subsequent marriage illegal and void when contracted by a divorced person within one year subsequent to the divorce, that a divorced person could, before the expiration of the time, agree to marry after the time.

8. Must Be an Offer — Mere Intention Insufficient. — A charge which substantially stated that if the defendant told or held out to other persons that he was to marry the plaintiff, his promise was established, etc., was held to be erroneous. Tamke v. Vangsnes, 72 Minn. 236.

Burden of Proving Promise Is on Plaintiff. — McPhail v. Trovillo, 65 Ill. App. 660.

Breach of Former Promise No Bar to Proof of New Promise. — The fact that a previous promise had been made by the defendant and a breach thereof taken place does not constitute a bar to the introduction of evidence that a new and subsequent promise had been made. Pyle v. Piercy, 122 Cal. 383.

Evidence Warranting Finding of New and Independent Promise. — In an action for the breach of a contract to marry, it appeared that in February, 1901, the parties had agreed to marry in March, 1902. In June, 1901, they had a conversation, in which the plaintiff said to the defendant: "Do you intend to marry me as you promised, or are you making a fool of me?" To which the defendant replied: "I intend to marry you as I promised. In March we will go on the farm and live right. I will either buy or build." It was held that, under all the facts of the case, the jury was warranted in finding that the latter part of the defendant's statement constituted a present, new, and independent promise, and not a mere declaration of a continuing obligation previously incurred. Parrish v. Parrish, 67 Kan. 323.

10. Walters v. Stockberger, 20 Ind. App. 277; Rime v. Rater, 108 Iowa 61.

When Express Contract Is Question for Jury. — Where a party brought an action on an express contract to marry, which contract was not based on any particular letter, promise, or act, and the defendant claimed that an offer by him was answered by a letter containing a conditional acceptance, and evidence was introduced to the effect that the letter was an unconditional acceptance, also that subsequent to the letter the parties agreed to be married at a certain time, the court held that the question whether there was an express contract to marry, even though the letter was a conditional acceptance, was properly submitted to the jury. Olmstead v. Hoy, 112 Iowa 349.

885. 1. Mutuality Necessary. — Smyth v. Greacen, 100 N. Y. App. Div. 275.

Offer and Acceptance Constitute Contract. — Where there are no legal disabilities existing, an offer of marriage by one person to another, and an acceptance of such offer, constitute a marriage contract. Walters v. Stockberger, 20 Ind. App. 277; Broyhill v. Norton, 175 Mo. 190.

Sufficiency of Evidence to Establish Promise. — Where the testimony was that the defendant asked the plaintiff to marry him; that she consented; that he asked her to go to his home and prepare it for the marriage; and that the day for the marriage was fixed, it was held that the evidence was sufficient to establish the promise. Lauer v. Schmidt, 25 Ind. App. 54.

2. Promise by Deed. — Sponable v. Owens, 92 Mo. App. 174.

6. Acceptance Must Be Known to Other Party. — Walters v. Stockberger, 20 Ind. App. 277.

886. 1. Contract Inferred from Circumstances. — Walters v. Stockberger, 20 Ind. App. 277; Rime v. Rater, 108 Iowa 61; Edge v. Griffin, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 63 S. W. Rep. 148.

Evidence of Destroyed Letter. — In Shields v. Lewis, (Ky. 1899) 49 S. W. Rep. 803, it was held that it did not constitute error to admit the plaintiff's testimony as to the contents of letters containing promises of marriage written to her by the defendant, but which were destroyed by the plaintiff in good faith.

Representations Concerning Defendant's Wealth. — In Humphrey v. Brown, 89 Fed. Rep. 640, it was held that representations which the defendant made to the plaintiff concerning his wealth, whether true or false, would be admissible for the purpose of explaining the situation and relation of the parties.

Letters Concerning Business and Other Women. — Letters concerning the defendant's business and relations with other women are admissible. Geiger v. Payne, 102 Iowa 581.

When Construction of Correspondence Is for Jury. — The construction of correspondence was held to have been properly left to the jury where oral testimony was given concerning some of the letters which were lost. Barber v. Geer, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 176.

Where the contract is evidenced in part by letters and in part by parol, its construction is for the jury. But no injury is done by permitting the plaintiff to place a construction on it where her answer is inconclusive and is given merely as her supposition. Lewis v. Tapman, 90 Md. 294.

Admissions After Suit Is Brought. — Admissions of the defendant even after suit is brought may be considered. Lohner v. Coldwell, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 444.

Admissions Made by the Plaintiff to persons not invited to the wedding, and before the wedding day was fixed, were held to be inadmissible to establish the contract. Liebrandt v. Sorg, (Cal. 1901) 65 Pac. Rep. 318.

Declarations Made After Breach. — Declarations to a third party tending to show a promise are admissible, even if made after the breach. Geiger v. Payne, 102 Iowa 581.

Relation of Parties Where One Was Married. — Evidence showing the relation of the parties which existed before the divorce of the woman is admissible as bearing on the question whether a promise of marriage was made after the divorce and as showing the circumstances under which the plaintiff had rendered services as alleged. Smith v. Hall, 69 Conn. 651.

Evidence whether the plaintiff had ever met the defendant in a certain city while he was living with his first wife was held to be admissible. While at that time the defendant was incapable of entering into a matrimonial contract, yet it was proper to show the origin and continuation of their acquaintance, for the purpose of aiding the jury in determining the probability of an offer of marriage at a subsequent time, when he had legal capacity to make it. Hahn v. Bettingen, 84 Minn. 512.

Evidence of Previous Engagement. — In an action for the breach of a contract to marry, it is not error to admit in evidence, in corroboration of direct testimony of an express contract between the parties, a previous contract of marriage, included in their past intercourse with each other. This rule does not, however, forbid the court from excluding testimony only remotely affecting the latest relations of the parties, although involved in their previous intercourse, and does not compel the court to permit the complete rehabilitation of all the minute details of a long-past association, which could be of no material aid in elucidating the issues on trial. Parrish v. Parrish, 67 Kan. 323.

Evidence of Defendant's Flight Is Inadmissible. — Wise v. Schloesser, 111 Iowa 16.

887. 3. Understanding of Friends and Relations. — Lewis v. Tapman, 90 Md. 294, holding that it may be shown by the plaintiff that she stated to her family that she was engaged to the defendant.

Agreement to Marry as Consideration for Other Agreements.—An agreement to marry is a valuable consideration upon which other lawful agreements may be based. Such an agreement may be a valuable consideration which will support a promise that may be void, as for example the promise of a father to the mother to support a bastard. Sponable v. Owens, 92 Mo. App. 174.

3. Future Intercourse.—Edmonds v. Hughes, 115 Ky. 561; Spellings v. Parks, 104 Tenn. 351, holding, however, that where a contract was made the basis for obtaining the intercourse, and as a result of the promise intercourse was consummated, the contract was not illegal.

5. Contract to Be Performed upon Death of Divorced Spouse.—A contract to be performed upon the death of the man's divorced wife is not void as against public policy as an inducement to the destruction of life. Brown v. Odill, 104 Tenn. 250, 78 Am. St. Rep. 914.

App. 517, holding that what constitutes a legal cause for refusing to carry out the contract is a question of law for the court.

Evidence of Reputation Is Competent. — The character of the plaintiff for chastity, when attacked, can always be sustained by evidence of reputation. Smith v. Hall, 69 Conn. 651.

Evidence of Unchastity After Bringing Suit should not be admitted. Duvall v. Fuhrman, 2 Ohio Cir. Dec. 174.

When Question of Knowledge Is Not for Jury. — Where there is no evidence that the defendant, at the time of the alleged promise to marry, had any knowledge of the conduct of the plaintiff being other than that of a chaste and virtuous woman, it is error to submit to the jury the question whether or not the defendant knew that the plaintiff was of bad character for chastity at the time he entered into the alleged marriage contract. *Welker v. 7. Disease. — Vierling v. Binder, 113 Iowa 337; Gardner v. Arnett, (Ky. 1899) 50 S. W. Rep. 840, holding that the mere fact that the defendant, after a disease reappeared, talked over the matter of getting married and expressed a willingness to marry, did not deprive him of the right to rely on the defense.

In Smith v. Compton, 67 N. J. L. 548, the court refused to sanction the doctrine established by Allen v. Baker, 86 N. Car. 91, 41 Am. Rep. 444, and Shackleford v. Hamilton, 93 Ky. 80, 40 Am. St. Rep. 166. It was held that the disease must make the performance of the marriage contract impossible in order to excuse performance.

If the party without fault contracts a disease between the date of the contract and the date set for the marriage, which renders it unsafe for him to marry, he may have a postponment until the result of the disease is known or he is cured; this, too, whether or not the woman knows of his condition, or consents to such an arrangement. Trammell v. Vaughan, 158 Mo. 214, 81 Am. St. Rep. 302.

In Sanders v. Coleman, 97 Va. 690, it was held that a contract to marry is coupled with the implied condition that both of the parties shall remain in the enjoyment of life and health, and if the condition of the parties has so changed that the marriage state would endanger the life or health of either, a breach of the contract is excusable. See also Waneck v. Kratky, (Neb. 1903) 96 N. W. Rep. 651.

894. 1. Vierling v. Binder, 113 Iowa 337. Operation Incapacitating Woman. — It is a good defense that the woman, subsequent to the promise, unnecessarily underwent an operation which made her incapable of procreation. Edmonds v. Hughes, 115 Ky. 561.

895. 3. Release. — Kellett v. Robie, 99 Wis. 303.

Circumstances Held Not a Release. — In Folz v. Wagner, 24 Ind. App. 694, it was held that a letter containing expressions of regret and forgiveness, written by the plaintiff to the defendant in answer to a letter from the defendant announcing his intention not to marry the plaintiff, did not constitute a release.

Evidence of Release. — Where the contract was admitted by the defendant, and the disputed question before the jury was whether the contract was terminated by mutual consent, or whether it was broken by the defendant, and the jury decided that the contract was terminated by mutual consent, the court was of the opinion that testimony introduced for the purpose of showing the existence of a lack of harmony between the defendant (who was the pastor of a church of which the plaintiff was a member) and the plaintiff with relation to church work, offered on the theory that it tended to sustain the case made by the defendant that the engagement was terminated by mutual consent, was competent; but even if it was not, it was immaterial, and its admission was a harmless error. Justice v. Davis, (N. J. 1904) 59 Atl. Rep. 6.

Burden of Proving Release Is on Defendant. — Liese v. Meyer, 143 Mo. 547.

897. Exemplary Damages. — See note 1.

Circumstances to Be Considered in Estimating Damages. — See notes 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8.

895. 4. Evidence of Acquiescing in Postponement. — Evidence that the plaintiff sold property at a sacrifice in order to be prepared to be married, to the knowledge of the defendant, without any claim on his part that the contract was not binding, is admissible to show whether the plaintiff acquiesced in the postponement of the marriage. Clement v. Skinner, 72 Vt. 159.

7. Waneck v. Kratky, (Neb. 1903) 96 N. W. Rep. 651.

896. 4. Parker v. Forehand, 99 Ga. 743.
No Fixed Measure of Compensation Can Be Laid Down. — La Porte v. Wallace, 89 Ill. App. 517; Hahn v. Bettingen, 81 Minn. 91.

Services Rendered in Consideration of Promise. — Where the value of services which were rendered to the defendant in consideration of his promise and pending the engagement was sought to be recovered, and a recovery for the breach of the promise of marriage was also sought, it was held that a recovery for the breach of promise was equivalent to performance which precluded a recovery for the services. Smith v. Hall, 69 Conn. 651.

5. Discretion of Jury. — Parker v. Forehand, 99 Ga. 743; Poehlmann v. Kertz, 105 Ill. App. 249, affirmed 204 Ill. 418; Lauer v. Schmidt, 25 Ind. App. 54; Hooker v. Phillippe, 26 Ind. App. 501; Geiger v. Payne, 102 Iowa 581; Rime v. Rater, 108 Iowa 61; Herriman v. Layman, 118 Iowa 590; Hahn v. Bettingen, 81 Minn. 91; Hahn v. Bettingen, 84 Minn. 512; Duwall v. Fuhrman, 2 Ohio Cir. Dec. 174; Brown v. Odill, 104 Tenn. 250, 78 Am. St. Rep. 914.

Illustrations. — In Mainz v. Lederer, 21 R. I. 370, a verdict of twelve thousand five hundred dollars was held not to be excessive.

6. Prejudice, Passion, or Corruption. — McCarty v. Heryford, 125 Fed. Rep. 46; La Porte v. Wallace, 89 Ill. App. 517; Gardner v. Arnett, (Ky. 1899) 50 S. W. Rep. 840; Broyhill v. Norton, 175 Mo. 190; Kolsch v. Jewell, 21 N. Y. App. Div. 581; Duwall v. Fuhrman, 2 Ohio Cir. Dec. 174; Kellett v. Robie, 99 Wis. 303.

897. 1. Exemplary Damages. — Jacoby v. Stark, 205 Ill. 34; Duwall v. Fuhrman, 2 Ohio Cir. Dec. 174. But see Trammell v. Vaughan, 158 Mo. 214, 81 Am. St. Rep. 302, wherein it is stated that exemplary or punitive damages, as such, cannot be recovered for the breach of a contract of marriage.

Matter in Aggravation Must Appear. — The jury is restricted to compensatory damages, unless matter in aggravation appears. La Porte v. Wallace, 89 Ill. App. 517.

2. Defendant's General Reputation for Wealth. — Humphrey v. Brown, 89 Fed. Rep. 640; Geiger v. Payne, 102 Iowa 581; Herriman v. Layman, 118 Iowa 590; Tamke v. Vangsnes, 72 Minn. 236; Hahn v. Bettingen, 84 Minn. 512; Birum v. Johnson, 87 Minn. 362; See also Vierling v. Binder, 113 Iowa 337. Contra, Johansen v. Modahl, (Neb. 1903) 94 N. W. Rep. 532.

Evidence of Particulars of Defendant's Property. — As denying the admissibility of such evidence, see Smith v. Compton, 67 N. J. L. 548, wherein it is held, however, that where the declaration alleges, as a ground of special damages, the loss of a valuable right of dower in the defendant's property, evidence of the defendant's ownership of specific property may be given by the plaintiff.

As sustaining the admissibility of such evidence, see Vierling v. Binder, 113 Iowa 337; Rime v. Rater, 108 Iowa 61.

Where the exchange of property was a part of the consideration of marriage, the two questions were held to be so interwoven as to render competent testimony as to the value of the property. Shields v. Lewis, (Ky. 1899) 49 S. W. Rep. 803.

Defendant's Interest in His Father's Estate is a proper matter of inquiry. Rime v. Rater, 108 Iowa 61.

Necessity of Evidence. — In Pyle v. Piercy, 122 Cal. 383, the court was of the opinion that in the absence of evidence thereof, the defendant's financial ability should not be considered by the jury.

3. Smith v. Compton, 67 N. J. L. 548.

Where it was alleged that the defendant was worth over ten thousand dollars, and his business relations were proved, it was competent for the defendant to show his actual financial condition. Casey v. Gill, 154 Mo. 187.

4. Social Position of Defendant. — Tamke v. Vangsnes, 72 Minn. 236; Brown v. Odill, 104 Tenn. 250, 78 Am. St. Rep. 914.

Where the evidence warrants it, the jury may take into consideration the plaintiff's pecuniary loss, her loss of opportunities during her engagement, the disappointment of her reasonable expectation of marital and social advantages resulting from the intended marriage, and the marring of her prospects in life. Hahn v. Bettingen, 81 Minn. 91.

5. Length of Engagement. — Olmstead v. Hoy, 112 Iowa 349.

6. Evidence of Inducement to Change Church Relations. — As showing the woman's affection and her wounded feelings, testimony that after the marriage contract the defendant induced the plaintiff to change her church relations, and transfer her membership to the church of which he was a member, is admissible for consideration in the computation of damages. MacElree v. Wolfersberger, 59 Kan. 105.

Evidence that the plaintiff told others about her contemplated marriage, though not admissible to prove the contract, may be admitted to show humiliation after the contract has been prima facie shown. Liebrandt v. Sorg, 133 Cal. 571.

898. 3. Expense of Preparations. — Such expenses are an element of damage, if alleged and proven. Where there is no evidence tending to show the amount expended, it is error to submit the matter to the jury. Olmstead v. Hoy, 112 Iowa 349.

4. Understanding Concerning Building Home. — In Jacoby v. Stark, 205 Ill. 34, it was held that it was proper to submit to the jury the consideration of the money value or worldly advantage of a marriage which would have given the plaintiff a permanent home, where there was evidence of an understanding concerning the building of a home.

Loss of Opportunity to Marry Jilted Lover. — Where the plaintiff broke an existing engagement with another man, at the solicitation of the defendant, and promised to marry him, the loss of the opportunity to marry her jilted lover cannot be considered in assessing damages for a breach of the subsequent engagement. Hahn v. Bettingen, 81 Minn. 91; Trammell v. Vaughan, 158 Mo. 214, 81 Am. St. Rep. 302.

6. Seduction. — Mainz v. Lederer, 21 R. I. 370, explaining and limiting Perkins v. Hersey, 1 R. I. 493, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 898; Poehlmann v. Kertz, 204 Ill. 418, affirming 105 Ill. App. 249; Geiger v. Payne, 102 Iowa 581; Liese v. Meyer, 143 Mo. 547; Spellings v. Parks, 104 Tenn. 351; Kaufman v. Fye, 99 Tenn. 145.

Seduction Outside of State or Territory. — Seduction may be considered even if accomplished outside of the jurisdiction of the state or territory. Davis v. Pryor, 3 Indian Ter. 396, judgment reversed (C. C. A.) 112 Fed. Rep. 274.

Must Be Pled to Be Available. — Herriman v. Layman, 118 Iowa 590.

3. Allegation of Plaintiff's Bad Character. — Fleetford v. Barnett, 11 Colo. App. 77; Liese v. Meyer, 143 Mo. 547; Broyhill v. Norton, 175 Mo. 190; Duvall v. Fuhrman, 2 Ohio Cir. Dec. 174.

4. Bad Faith. — Contra, Kaufman v. Fye, 99 Tenn. 145.

6. Jacoby v. Stark, 205 Ill. 34, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 899; Tamke v. Vangsnes, 72 Minn. 236; Duvall v. Fuhrman, 2 Ohio Cir. Dec. 174; Kaufman v. Fye, 99 Tenn. 145. But see Trammell v. Vaughan, 158 Mo. 214, 81 Am. St. Rep. 302, wherein the court held that where the defendant enters into the transaction maliciously and not in good faith, this may aggravate the compensatory damages, but will not entitle the plaintiff to punitive damages.

Evidence of Bad Faith. — Where the court allowed the plaintiff to put in evidence the value of specific tracts of land owned by the defendant, and conveyed by him to his sisters shortly before the date set for the marriage, it was held that this evidence was admissible to show the bad faith on the part of the defendant, and that he intended to break the contract, and to contradict the truthfulness of his specification of defense that his failure to comply with his engagement was in consequence of his physical condition. Smith v. Compton, 67 N. J. L. 548.

900. 3. The Plaintiff's Reputation for Truth and Veracity is not competent in mitigation of special damages claimed to result from wounded feelings, injured reputation, etc. Barber v. Geer, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 176, distinguishing Collins v. Clark, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 341.

Remote Previous Engagements of the Plaintiff, not breached by fault of the plaintiff, are not admissible on the question of damages. Edge v. Griffin, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 63 S. W. Rep. 148.

5. Markham v. Herrick, 82 Mo. App. 327.

Must Be Pled to Be Available. — Herriman v. Layman, 118 Iowa 590.

Evidence of the Plaintiff's Mother's Misconduct, with which the plaintiff had no connection, is inadmissible as a bar to the action or to mitigate damages. Lewis v. Tapman, 90 Md. 294.

Evidence that the mother of the plaintiff was a prostitute and the mother of illegitimate children is inadmissible to mitigate the damages. The general reputation and standing of the family may be shown by the plaintiff to enhance, and by the defendant to diminish, damages, but the reputation of a particular member of the family other than the plaintiff cannot be inquired into. Spellings v. Parks, 104 Tenn. 351.

6. Clark v. Reese, 26 Tex. Civ. App. 619, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 900; La Porte v. Wallace, 89 Ill. App. 517.

13. Must Be Pleaded to Be Available. — Vierling v. Binder, 113 Iowa 337.

Evidence of Insanity in the Plaintiff's Family is not admissible where it appears that the defendant knew of the insanity at the time of the promise. Lohner v. Coldwell, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 444.

BREACH OF THE PEACE.

902. I. DEFINITION. — See note 1.

Actual or Threatened Violence. — See note 2.

903. II. TERM NOT SPECIFIC, BUT GENERIC. — See note 1.

III. ACTS TENDING TO BREACH OF THE PEACE. — See notes 2, 3.

904. See note 2.

902. 1. Definition. — Stancliff v. U. S., (Indian Ter. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 882, quoting 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 902; Scougale v. Sweet, 124 Mich. 311.

In People v. Most, 171 N. Y. 423, the court said: "A breach of the peace is an offense well known to the common law. It is a disturbance of public order by an act of violence, or by any act likely to produce violence, or which, by causing consternation and alarm, disturbs the peace and quiet of the community."

2. Actual or Threatened Violence. — Com. v. Krubeck, 23 Pa. Co. Ct. 35, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 902.

903. 1. Scougale v. Sweet, 124 Mich. 311, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 903. In this case it was held that games of baseball upon Sunday are prohibited by section 5912, Comp. Laws Mich. 1897, and are breaches of the peace under section 11334. And see the title SUNDAYS AND HOLIDAYS.

Discharging Firearms. — See Stancliff v. U. S., (Indian Ter. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 882.

A conviction for disturbing the peace will lie where the evidence showed that the defendant with some drinking companions, traveling along a road at night, fired several shots into a house and hit one of the occupants. Spiares v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 437.

2. People v. Most, 171 N. Y. 423.

3. A Publication in a Newspaper which instigates revolution and murder; which suggests the persons to be murdered, through the positions occupied and the duties performed by them; which advises all to discharge their duty to the human race by murdering those who enforce the law; which denounces those who spare the ministers of public justice, as guilty of a crime against humanity; and which names poison and dynamite as the agencies to be used to murder and destroy, necessarily endangers the public peace; and the publisher may be convicted under New York Penal Code, § 675, providing that "a person who wilfully and wrongfully commits any act * * * which seriously disturbs or endangers the public peace, * * * for which no other punishment is expressly prescribed by this Code, is guilty of a misdemeanor." People v. Most, 171 N. Y. 423.

Street Meeting. — Under the above-quoted section of the New York Penal Code, it was held that a conviction might be had of representatives of a socialistic party addressing a political meeting from boxes in the public street, and thereby collecting a disorderly crowd which the police could not disperse. People v. Wallace, 85 N. Y. App. Div. 170.

904. 2. Statutes Directed Against Disturbances of the Peace. — State v. Maggard, 80 Mo. App. 286.

In Alabama. — In a prosecution for going sufficiently near the dwelling house of another person and using abusive and insulting language in the presence or hearing of the family of the occupant thereof, it is not necessary, to authorize a conviction, that the entire family should be present or within hearing when the language was used; but if it was used in the presence or hearing of two or more members of the family, there is a violation of the statute. Bones v. State, 117 Ala. 146.

Evidence that the defendant was in his own room quarreling with his wife, not talking very loudly nor cursing, but that the talking disturbed a sick man in the same house, will not warrant a conviction under an ordinance providing that "any person who disturbs the peace of others by violent, offensive, or boisterous conduct or carriage, or by loud or unusual noises, or by profane, obscene, or offensive language, calculated to provoke a breach of the peace, or being drunk or in a state of intoxication in a public place, or in a private place to the annoyance of others, shall be guilty of disorderly conduct." Ellis v. Pratt City, 113 Ala. 541.

In Georgia. — The use in the presence of a man, of an obscene word in an ordinary tone, without anger, and under circumstances not calculated to offend the hearer or cause a breach of the peace, does not constitute a violation of a municipal ordinance prohibiting disorderly conduct "calculated to disturb the peace of the citizen." Daniel v. Athens, 110 Ga. 289.

The Georgia Penal Code, § 396, prohibits "indecent or disorderly conduct in the presence of females on passenger cars, street cars, or other places of like character." In construing this statute, the court said: "We think the true construction of the statute is that, if the disorderly or indecent conduct takes place on a street car on which females are riding, it is in their presence, although their backs may be turned to the offenders. That being drunk, cursing, and hugging and kissing, in an offensive manner, as was here shown to be the case, by a man and a woman on a street car, is disorderly conduct, we think too clear to require any discussion." Sailors v. State, 108 Ga. 35, 75 Am. St. Rep. 17.

Question for Jury.—In a prosecution for using opprobrious words tending to cause a breach of the peace, it is for the jury to say whether there was a provocation, and if so whether it was sufficient to justify the accused in using the language attributed to him. Williams v. State, 105 Ga. 608; Echols v. State, 110 Ga. 257.

Indian Territory.—It is not necessary in a prosecution for a breach of the peace that "any person should testify that he was disturbed by the conduct of the defendant, in order to sustain the charge. The jury are to consider all the facts and circumstances in the case, and then arrive at a conclusion as to whether the acts of the defendant disturbed the inhabitants of a community or not. The gravamen of the offense is the indulgence of improper conduct, and the attracting of the attention of any part of the people of a community." Stancliff v. U. S., (Indian Ter. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 882.

Time Not an Element.—In Stancliff v. U. S., (Indian Ter. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 882, the court said: "But by express provision of statute and the uniform opinions of the courts, time is not a necessary element of the crime."

In Kansas.—"One who applies vile epithets to another in a public street in the presence of bystanders, with the intention of annoying and disturbing such person, commits a breach of the peace." State v. Appleton, (Kan. 1904) 78 Pac. Rep. 445.

The Office of a Hotel Is a Public Place within an ordinance prohibiting wrangling, etc., in a public place. Howard v. Stroud, 63 Kan. 883, 65 Pac. Rep. 249.

Missouri Statute.—The Conversation Must Be Loud and offensive or indecent to constitute an offense under this statute. An instruction which fails to charge that the conversation was loud does not define the offense. State v. Maggard, 80 Mo. App. 286.

What Constitutes Family.—State v. Maggard, 80 Mo. App. 286.

In New Jersey.—Using loud language is no offense under section 3 of the Disorderly Act; the offense consists in the use of "loud and offensive or indecent language." Mullen v. State, 67 N. J. L. 451.

New York — Disorderly Conduct.—"Disorderly conduct in the abstract does not constitute any crime known to the law; it is only when it 'tends to a breach of the peace,' under the circumstances detailed in section 1458 of the Consolidation Act, that it constitutes a minor offense cognizable by the police magistrates of the city of New York; and when it in fact threatens to disturb the peace it is a misdemeanor, as well under section 675 of the Penal Code as at common law, and not within the jurisdiction of the police magistrates, but of the Court of Special Sessions (Laws of 1895, c. 601, § 14; Laws of 1901, c. 466, § 1409)." People v. Davis, 80 N. Y. App. Div. 448, affirmed 176 N. Y. 465.

In Texas.—A conviction for breach of the peace in using language calculated to bring on a difficulty is warranted where the evidence shows that the defendant called the plaintiff a "God damn liar." Johnson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 66 S. W. Rep. 1097.

The statute prohibiting the use of profane language near a private house, calculated to disturb the inhabitants thereof, does not require that the acts complained of be wilfully done. Watson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 50 S. W. Rep. 340.

In a prosecution for cursing under circumstances calculated to provoke a breach of the peace, an instruction that it is sufficient that the cursing be in the presence or hearing of the injured party is proper when such party admitted he heard the cursing. Christmas v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 175; Watkins v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 507.

Defenses.—In a prosecution for cursing under circumstances calculated to provoke a breach of the peace, the fact that the prosecutor cursed the defendant first is no defense, but may go in mitigation of penalty. Christmas v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 175; Watkins v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 507.

BRIBERY.

By X. P. HUDDY.

907. I. DEFINITION AND REQUISITES OF OFFENSE. — See note 1.

907. 1. Definition.—People v. Van De Carr, 87 N. Y. App. Div. 386, quoting 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 908 [907]; State v. Davis, 2 Penn. (Del.) 139; State v. Miles, 89 Me. 142; State v. Meysenburg, 171 Mo. 1; Com. v. Brown, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 470. See also State v. Smith, 72 Vt. 366.

Under State Statutes—California.—A party who offers to accept a bribe is guilty under Penal Code Cal., § 57, even though there is no offer to bribe him. People v. Hurley, 126 Cal. 351.

At an Early Day in England, when the duties of judicial officers, especially of the petty sort, entered more closely into the everyday life of the people than in later years, the motive for bribery was largely confined to the corruption of such officers, and bribery was perhaps largely confined to such officials. So the crime came to be defined by some of the old writers as "where any man in judicial place takes any fee or pension, robe or livery, gift, reward, or brocade, of any person that hath to do before him in any way, for doing his office, or by color of his office, but of the King only, unless it be meat and drink, and that of small value." State v. Sullivan, 110 Mo. App. 75.

Where the Offense Is Not Defined by Statute reference will be had to the common law, not only for the definition of the crime, but also for the punishment, under a general provision of the Delaware statute. State v. Davis, 2 Penn. (Del.) 139.

Bribery Is an Offense Against Public Justice.—The essence of it is the prostitution of a public trust, the betrayal of public interest, and the debauchment of public conscience. State v. Duncan, 153 Ind. 318.

Infamous Crime.—In the Illinois constitutions of 1848 and 1870, bribery of all kinds was classed with perjury, as rendering the offender infamous. Christie v. People, 206 Ill. 337.

It Is Immaterial Whether the Agreement Is Carried Out by the parties. The offense is complete upon the acceptance of the promise of a gift in pursuance of a corrupt agreement to vote in favor of a measure pending before a municipal assembly. State v. Lehman, 182 Mo. 424. See also State v. Gardner, 88 Minn. 130.

Must Be Legal Duty.—There is no rule so uniformly adhered to by the courts, both state and federal, as the one "that there can be no bribery of any official to do a particular act, unless the law requires or imposes upon him the duty of acting." It is bottomed upon the sound and logical principle that he cannot be influenced to do something that he has no power or authority to do. State v. Butler, 178 Mo. 272.

Ignorance of Duty.—That the defendant did not, at the time he received the money, know of the existence of the statutory duty would be no defense under an indictment for failure to do the thing required; but where the charge is receiving money for an agreement to omit to perform that duty, evidence by the defendant of his ignorance of the statute is material to sustain his claim that he never made an agreement not to perform the duty imposed by the statute. Where an instruction was asked for by the defendant, which covered this theory, and was refused, it was held that the ruling was not, under the facts, erroneous, because, while the defendant may not have known of the specific statute, he was conclusively presumed to know that gambling was a crime, and the record showed that he did know it, and, in general, that his official duty was to execute the laws against gambling. His transaction with gamblers was conclusive that he knew that gambling was unlawful, and that the gamblers would not give him money to prevent interference with their practices unless it was within his power, and a part of his duty, to do the things which the statute declared that he should do. Newman v. People, 23 Colo. 300.

A Tender of a Bribe is not necessary under a statute prohibiting the offering to give any gift with the intent to bribe a juror. A proposal and declaration of a willingness to give the bribe is prohibited. State v. Miller, 182 Mo. 370; State v. Woodward, 182 Mo. 391. See also State v. Iden, 5 Ohio Dec. 627.

Defendant Need Not Expressly Agree to Act.—It is sufficient if there was a promise of money which induced the defendant to make an appointment, although he did not actually agree to do so, and that in pursuance of the promise or offer he afterwards accepted the money which had been offered. Com. v. Dietrich, 7 Pa. Super. Ct. 515. See also Com. v. Donovan, 170 Mass. 228.

Act of Two Parties Essential.—To constitute bribery, the act of at least two persons is essential, that of him who gives and him who receives. The minds of the two must concur. It is immaterial, however, whether the giver makes the first advances or gives the money to get some personal advantage to himself. Newman v. People, 23 Colo. 300. See also State v. Sargent, 71 Minn. 28.

In Missouri the statute has effected such a change in the common-law offense of bribery as to divide the crime into two divisions, so that bribery consists in giving anything of value in corrupt payment for an official act, etc.; while the other division consists in the acceptance or receipt of any bribe. There are two distinct offenses plainly marked out, one for giving, the other for receiving, a bribe; but both are termed bribery. State v. Meysenburg, 171 Mo. 1, per Sherwood, J.

The Act Induced. — See notes 2, 3, 5.

Bribery of a Juror or an offer to bribe a juror is a crime by itself under section 71 of the New York Penal Code. The acceptance of a bribe by a juror is a separate offense. People v. Winant, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 361.

Suspension of Trial to Investigate Charges of Bribery. — Where an attempt to bribe one of the state's witnesses was made during a criminal trial and the fact was called to the court's attention, it was held that a temporary suspension of the trial for the purpose of investigating the matter did not constitute error. People v. Salsbury, 134 Mich. 537.

A Magistrate Has Jurisdiction in New York to inquire into a violation of section 72 of the New York Penal Code, which prohibits an officer from receiving a bribe, and he may thereafter, upon proper proof, hold a person to answer for the crime. People v. Van De Carr, 87 N. Y. App. Div. 386.

Officers and Other Persons Designated by Statute. — Where the party is in no manner an officer within the meaning of the statute, the offense is not committed. Messer v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 635. See also U. S. v. Dietrich, 126 Fed. Rep. 676.

An Accountant employed by a board of revision of a city, constituted of the mayor, president of the council, and city solicitor, is an employee of an officer within the meaning of section 6900 of Rev. Stat. Ohio, 1892, and may be punished, by virtue of said section, for accepting a bribe given for the purpose of influencing him with respect to his duty as such accountant. Barker v. State, 69 Ohio St. 68.

3. Act in Excess of Power. — In State v. Butler, 178 Mo. 272, it was held that the offense of attempted bribery under the Missouri statute was not committed where the act induced was not something the officer could by law do.

The Law Must Impose a Duty on the Officer and authorize him to act in the particular matter in order for the offense of bribery to be committed. U. S. v. Boyer, 85 Fed. Rep. 426; Gunning v. People, 189 Ill. 165, 82 Am. St. Rep. 433, reversing 86 Ill. App. 676; Moore v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 159; Ex p. Richards, 44 Tex. Crim. 561.

Under Rev. Stat. U. S., § 5451, the prosecution must prove: (a) an offer to bribe; (b) that such corrupt offer was made to an officer of the United States, or a person at the time acting for or on behalf of the United States in an official function; (c) that the offer was made to influence the officer or person in the doing of some act or performance of some duty in his official capacity. Where the accused offered to bribe an interpreter of Chinese, appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury, to secure for him a translation favorable to the accused of certain Chinese letters and documents which he expected would be offered in evidence at a hearing to take place before a United States commissioner of a criminal charge then pending, and which were supposed to contain material evidence, no charge of bribery under this section can be predicated, because it is not a matter within the scope of the interpreter's duties under the appointment of the Secretary of the Treasury, nor could he act as an interpreter at the hearing of the case without the authority and approval of the commissioner presiding, and such authority and approval had not been given at the time the offer of a bribe was made. An offer made to a person in contemplation of a mere probability that he may be called to perform official functions, and intended to influence his conduct in performance of such functions if he shall be so called, does not violate this section. In re Yee Gee, (1897) 83 Fed. Rep. 145.

The Term "Official Function," as used in Rev. Stat. U. S., § 5451, may include a function belonging to an officer held by his superior, which function has been committed to the subordinate for the purpose of being executed. A secret service operative, employed by the Secretary of the Treasury to detect certain crimes, is a person acting in an official function, and any one bribing such a person is guilty of an offense under this section. U. S. v. Ingham, 97 Fed. Rep. 935.

Official Action and Duty. — The asking for a bribe by a member of the city council, with the understanding or agreement that he would corruptly use it to bribe or influence the votes or official action of his colleagues, constitutes a crime under Gen. Stat. Minn. 1894, § 6349. The influence of the member of a public body over the official action of his colleagues is itself a part of his own official action and duty. State v. Durnam, 73 Minn. 150.

Unauthorized Action by City. — Even though a city has no authority to take a certain course, the bribery of an officer before whom the matter might lawfully come is unlawful. People v. McGarry, (Mich. 1904) 99 N. W. Rep. 147; People v. Salsbury, 134 Mich. 537; People v. Mol, (Mich. 1904) 100 N. W. Rep. 913; People v. Ellen, (Mich. 1904) 100 N. W. Rep. 1008; State v. Lehman, 182 Mo. 424.

5. Bribe to Procure Release from Illegal Arrest. — Compare Moore v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 159, distinguishing Florez v. State, 11 Tex. App. 102; Moseley v. State, 25 Tex. App. 515, and holding that in order to bribe the officer he must be in the discharge of a legal and official duty, and the custody of the prisoner must have been legal. See also Ex p. Richards, 44 Tex. Crim. 561.

Evidence — Conspiracy. — In People v. Gorsline, 132 Mich. 549, it was held that testimony tending to show a conspiracy which characterized and made clear the motive and purpose of the defendant in the payment of the money was admissible.

Communications and Actions by Others. — Evidence concerning communications and actions by and between other persons interested in procuring a contract from a city council was held to be admissible on the trial of a city attorney for accepting a bribe to influence the city council in reference to the contract. It was proper to submit to the jury the question whether all of the parties and the defendant were co-conspirators. People v. Salsbury, 134 Mich. 537.

Conversations. — Where an indictment charged the defendant with asking one Richards for a bribe with the understanding and agreement that his vote and official action should be thereby influenced in favor of the acceptance of a bid which the firm of Haverson, Richards & Co. had submitted to the city council for the construction of a reservoir by the city, it was held that, upon the facts, a conversation on the same subject which the defendant had, on the day previous, with Haverson, was admissible for the purpose of illustrating and explaining the conversation on the next day between the defendant and Richards, when the crime charged is alleged to have been committed, the latter being but a continuation of the conversation with Haverson, and the two being part of the same transaction. State v. Durnam, 73 Minn. 150.

Execution of Agreement. — Where on the trial of a defendant indicted for accepting a bribe upon the agreement or understanding that he would not as a police officer arrest or prosecute the confidence men from whom he received the bribe, but would permit them to operate their business and would influence the police force so to do, evidence tending to show that the defendant carried into effect the agreement on his part was not erroneously admitted. His acts and declarations in the premises, and those of the persons from whom the bribe was received, of which he had knowledge, were also admissible; but it was error to receive evidence of the acts and declarations of such persons and of members of the police force with whom it was not shown that the defendant was connected. State v. Gardner, 88 Minn. 130.

Negotiations Culminating in Bribery May Be Shown. — State v. Smith, 72 Vt. 366.

Evidence of Previous Offenses. — Evidence that a member of a legislative body previously solicited a bribe with reference to another measure may be admissible to prove purpose, intent, notice, and to corroborate other testimony. Higgins v. State, 157 Ind. 57; State v. Ames, 90 Minn. 183. See also State v. Schnettler, 181 Mo. 173.

Corpus Delicti. — All testimony going to show that the bribe was received is admissible as proof of the corpus delicti. People v. McGarry, (Mich. 1904) 99 N. W. Rep. 147.

Proceedings Before City Council. — In State v. Durnam, 73 Minn. 150, it was held that the proceedings before the city council, of which the defendant was a member, were admissible for the purpose of showing that the matter upon which the bribe was alleged to have been asked for was pending before that body, and in what way or manner it was pending.

Offer to Receive Bribe from Third Party. — In People v. Hurley, 126 Cal. 351, it was held that where there was no connection between the two offers, evidence that the defendant offered to receive a bribe from a person other than the one charged in the prosecution was inadmissible.

Agency. — A party was indicted for having, while acting as superintendent of the police department of the city of Minneapolis, received a bribe from one Mills, under an agreement to protect her in an unlawful occupation in the city. The evidence showed that Mills paid the money to one Cohen, who, the state claimed, was acting for the defendant in receiving the money. It was held, taking the evidence altogether, that it was sufficient to justify the jury in finding that Cohen was acting for and in behalf of the defendant, and that the payment to him was equivalent to a payment to the defendant personally. State v. Ames, 90 Minn. 183.

Variance. — Where a variance alleged was that the charge was that the defendant corruptly agreed to omit to seize and take before a judicial officer gambling devices, and the proof showed nothing but a vague understanding between the defendant and the gamblers from whom the money was received that he, the defendant, was not to close the gambling houses, it was held that the distinction which was endeavored to be made was too unsubstantial and refined for courts to recognize in the administration of the criminal law. Newman v. People, 23 Colo. 300.

Failure of Proof. — An indictment charged that on the 15th day of December, 1901, the defendant (the mayor of the city) did feloniously receive from (naming certain parties, and others unknown, who were conducting houses of ill repute) the sum of six hundred dollars, upon the agreement and with the understanding that such persons would be protected from criminal prosecution for the month of December, 1901. The undisputed evidence was that detectives and police officers accepted money from the women specified in the indictment, and others, in amounts ranging from fifteen to twenty-five dollars, in consideration of which each person making payment was promised police protection; that the detectives and police officers who received the money were the agents of the defendant, and not of those making payments; that there was no joint agreement or understanding between those paying the money; and that the six hundred dollars which was paid over to the defendant by his agent in one sum, after it was paid to him by the women individually, was not a general fund, contributed with the understanding that those participating should be protected. The court held that there was a failure of proof to sustain the offense charged. State v. Ames, 91 Minn. 365.

908. 6. Political or Personal Advantage Is Sufficient. — People v. Van De Carr, 87 N. Y. App. Div. 386.

Void Notes. — The fact that the notes which the defendant received were void because of the corrupt agreement under which they were given constitutes no defense. People v. Willis, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 549. See also Com. v. Donovan, 170 Mass. 228, holding that the fact that notes were given by the defendant with the belief that they were worthless does not constitute a valid defense. But see U. S. v. Driggs, 125 Fed. Rep. 520, wherein it was held that an illegal nonnegotiable note did not constitute "property" or a "valuable consideration" within the meaning of a statute.

One Who Gives or Offers a Bribe Is Not an Accomplice of the one who asks for it. Asking for a bribe and offering or giving a bribe are separate and distinct offenses. State v. Durnam, 73 Minn. 150.

3. Misdemeanor at Common Law. — State v. Sullivan, 110 Mo. App. 75. See also Com. v. Brown, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 470.

Bribery was an indictable offense at common law, and, although in the early days it was limited to judicial officers and those engaged in the administration of justice, it was later extended to all public officers. It was variously defined as taking or offering an "undue reward" or a "reward" to influence official action. People v. Van De Carr, 87 N. Y. App. Div. 386.

4. Aggravated Bribery at Common Law. — "While it was a felony at common law to bribe a judicial officer, it does not appear clear whether it was a felony or a misdemeanor to bribe other officers." State v. Sullivan, 110 Mo. App. 75.

910. 1. Bribery as Felony Within Statute of Limitations. — Rev. Stat. Mo. 1899, § 2419, provides: "No person shall be tried, prosecuted or punished for any felony, other than as specified in the next preceding section, unless an indictment for such offense be found within three years after the commission of the offense." The "preceding section" applies only to offenses punishable by death or imprisonment for life. The offense of bribery falls within section 2419, and the three-year bar applies. State v. Snyder, 182 Mo. 462.

2. Justice of Peace. — In Morawietz v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 997, it was held that a justice of the peace was guilty of bribery where, in consideration of money, he refrained from instituting proceedings against a party known by him to be unlawfully carrying a pistol. It was also held that a deputy sheriff, who was with the justice of the peace when information was obtained of carrying the pistol, was guilty of taking a bribe where the justice of the peace divided the money with him; and it was further held that the deputy sheriff, the party who carried the pistol, and his friend who was with him during the settlement and who paid part thereof were accomplices.

Attorney — Michigan Statute. — A statute punishing the receiving of bribes by executive or judicial officers includes a city attorney. People v. Salsbury, 134 Mich. 537.

A Commonwealth's Attorney in Kentucky may be prosecuted for bribery under section 1366, Ky. Stat., for taking a bribe to dismiss an indictment, or he may be prosecuted for the common-law offense of malfeasance in office; however, where every fact stated in the indictment is included in the statutory offense, the punishment is limited to the mode prescribed by statute. Com. v. Rowe, 112 Ky. 482.

3. A Common-law bribery was not confined to judicial officers, but it was an offense to bribe or attempt to bribe a legislative officer. Com. v. Brown, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 470; State v. Sullivan, 110 Mo. App. 75, holding that it is an offense for a legislative officer to solicit a bribe. See also People v. Hammond, 132 Mich. 422, holding that a solicitation is an offense even where the other party refuses to act.

But see State v. Bowles, (Kan. 1905) 79 Pac. Rep. 731, where it is said concerning the decision in the preceding case, "The inference from this decision is that soliciting a bribe would not be punishable in Michigan except for the statute recognizing common-law offenses."

In Ohio the statute makes it a crime for a member of the legislature to solicit from any person any valuable or beneficial thing to influence him with respect to his official duty, or to influence his action, vote, opinion, or judgment in any matter pending or that might legally come before him. The state in order to convict under this law is not obliged to prove that even a cent of money was paid. The fact that the defendant did not want the money for his own use, or intend to use it for his own purposes, is of no importance. It is not necessary to prove that the solicitation for the money was the only consideration that was to influence the defendant. To ask, to induce, other members to vote for the passage of a bill, and to collect facts and reasons and present them to other members for the purpose of inducing them to vote for or against the bill, would constitute official action or official duty. State v. Geyer, 5 Ohio Dec. 646, 3 Ohio N. P. 242.

A Delegate-elect to a Political Convention, even though the convention is not organized, is a member of the convention within the purview of Penal Code California, § 57, which prescribes punishment against a member of such a convention who receives or offers to receive a bribe. People v. Hurley, 126 Cal. 351.

912. 1. Bribery at Elections of Members of Parliament was an offense at common law in England, and so, probably, was bribery at municipal elections. At common law, as well as under some of the English statutes, there seems to be no difference in liability between the giver and the taker of a bribe. Doyle v. Kirby, 184 Mass. 409.

2. Distinction Between Lawful Expenditures and Bribe Money. — There is a difference between a contribution made by a candidate for office for his part of the necessary expenses of a political campaign or paying individuals to help him conduct his own personal canvas, provided the electioneering is honest and the service duly rendered, and the giving of money or any other thing of value to electors in order to be elected. Epps v. Smith, 121 N. Car. 157.

Congress May Punish Bribery at Federal Elections. — See James v. Bowman, 190 U. S. 127.

Constitutionality of Federal Statute. — Section 5507 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, which prohibited individuals from bribing others from exercising the right of suffrage guaranteed by the Fifteenth Amendment, was held to be unconstitutional and not an appropriate exercise of the power conferred by that amendment. It was also held that the court would not restrict the scope of the statute, which included all elections, state and federal. James v. Bowman, 190 U. S. 127. See also Karem v. U. S., (C. C. A.) 121 Fed. Rep. 250.

Conviction Warranted. — A prosecution was had for corruptly influencing a voter, in Washington, under Ball. Code, § 7421, which prohibits an attempt to influence any person, directly or indirectly, in giving or refusing to give his vote. The conviction of a defendant was held to be warranted where the evidence showed that the defendant, a judge of the election, gave a slip of paper to a voter at the latter's request, which indicated that the voter was "all right," upon the surrender of which to a party outside money was given to the voter; and it further appeared that the defendant was with the voter in the voting booth at the time the latter marked his ballot, at the voter's request for instructions in regard thereto, but the defendant did not ask the voter to vote any particular ticket, merely telling him that an "X" at the top of the national ticket voted the whole ticket, and showing him how to mark the ballot. State v. Milby, 26 Wash. 661.

The Gist of the Offense under the Indiana statute is in the giving or offering of an article of value "to influence" the vote of an elector. State v. Downs, 148 Ind. 324.

In Massachusetts the legislature has not left the common law in force as to any form of bribery at elections. No punishment is provided for the voter. Doyle v. Kirby, 184 Mass. 409.

In North Carolina It Is the Doing of the Particular Act, the giving of money to electors in order to be elected, that gives the cause of action, and the intent with which the act is done is not material except that the purpose must be to procure the election of the defendant. Epps v. Smith, 121 N. Car. 161.

In Pennsylvania, under the Act of June 8, 1881, P. L. 70, an indictment cannot be maintained which alleges that at a nominating or delegate election commonly known as a primary election, the defendant offered bribes to different electors to vote for him for the office of county chairman. The purpose of the act was to prevent bribery in the nomination of candidates to be voted for at a subsequent election, and does not apply to an election of officers of a party organization by direct vote of the qualified electors of the party. Under section 6 of the Act of June 8, 1881, an indictment may be maintained which charges that the defendant offered money to a member of the election board at a primary election to influence him to have the vote of the ward cast and counted in favor of a certain person for the office of county chairman. Com. v. Gouger, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 217.

913. 1. Reception of Bribe by Voter. — Contra, Doyle v. Kirby, 184 Mass. 409. (In Massachusetts the common law is superseded.)

Disfranchisement as Punishment. — The Illinois statute which provides for the disfranchisement of one who solicits a bribe to procure votes at an election does not violate section 1 of article 7 of the constitution, as the crime was considered to be infamous at the adoption of the constitution of 1870. Christie v. People, 206 Ill. 337. See also Baum v. People, 157 Ind. 282.

3. Disqualification for Office. — See State v. Towns, 153 Mo. 91, holding that where a candidate for the nomination to the office of county clerk promises the appointment of a deputy at a salary of one thousand five hundred dollars a year, if made to secure votes, violates the Corrupt Practice Act of Missouri and will authorize an ouster from office.

In Bradley v. Clark, 133 Cal. 196, it is held that a promise of official patronage may be a cause for a forfeiture of office, but the promisee commits no offense.

Minnesota Statute. — Where the accused bribed or offered to bribe a witness to absent himself from a trial to which he had been duly subpoenaed, it was held that the accused could not be convicted under section 6385, Minn. Gen. Stat. 1894, as that section applies only to cases where the witness was bribed, or attempted to be bribed, to give false testimony, or, under sections 6310 and 6386, for aiding and abetting the receiving of a bribe, and could only be convicted, under section 6383, of a misdemeanor of which a justice of the peace has jurisdiction. State v. Sargent, 71 Minn. 28.

Knowledge that Person Is Witness. — One of the essential elements of the offense of offering to bribe a witness is that the accused should know that the person to whom the bribe was offered was in fact a witness. The necessary knowledge may, however, be implied from circumstances. Com. v. Bailey, (Ky. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 299.

Contempt of Court. — In Fisher v. McDaniel, 9 Wyo. 457, 87 Am. St. Rep. 971, it was held that an attempt to bribe witnesses committed in the hallway of the court house or adjoining the building is a contempt committed in the presence of the court.

Offense of Bribery Embraces Attempt to Bribe. — Com. v. Bailey, (Ky. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 299.

Solicitation as Attempt to Receive Bribe. — The solicitation of a bribe does not constitute an attempt to accept or receive a bribe. State v. Bowles, (Kan. 1905) 79 Pac. Rep. 726.

915. 1. Missouri. — The statute makes it a felony to bribe a legislative officer; consequently if the defendant solicited that he be bribed, he solicited the commission of a felony, and committed a common-law misdemeanor. State v. Sullivan, 110 Mo. App. 75.

In this state every person who directly or indirectly offers to give any money to any public officer of the state or city thereof, with intent to influence his vote, opinion, judgment, or decision on any question which may by law be brought before him in his official capacity, is guilty of an attempt to bribe. The elements of the offense, as denounced by the statute, are: First. There must be a public officer of the state or city thereof. Second. The offer must be made with intent to influence the vote, opinion, judgment, or decision of such police officer. Third. The vote, opinion, judgment, or decision must be in respect to some question which may by law be brought before the public officer in his official capacity. To constitute the offense, all the elements herein noted must be shown to exist. State v. Butler, 178 Mo. 272.

Solicitation of Bribe. — A legislator who invites a person to pay money for the purpose of engaging another to appear before a committee in support of or against a bill is guilty of soliciting a bribe. State v. Abbot, 5 Ohio Dec. 650.

To Constitute the Crime of Asking for a Bribe by a public officer "with the understanding or agreement that his vote," etc., "shall be influenced thereby" (Gen. Stat. Minn. 1894, § 6349), it is not necessary that the party solicited for the bribe shall consent to give it, or that there shall be any meeting of minds or mutual understanding or agreement between him and the party asking for a bribe. It is sufficient if the latter is ready and willing to enter into a corrupt agreement or understanding that his vote, etc., shall be influenced by the bribe. State v. Durnam, 73 Minn. 150.

In Kansas the solicitation of a bribe is not punishable as a crime. State v. Bowles, (Kan. 1905) 79 Pac. Rep. 726.

916. 1. City Ordinance. — In Peters v. Chicago, 192 Ill. 438, the court said: "We need not go to a lexicographer to ascertain the generally accepted meaning of the word brick. Among builders and mechanics a brick is understood to be eight inches in length, four inches in width, and two inches in thickness, and where an ordinance simply describes the material out of which an improvement shall be made, as of brick, paving brick, or sewer brick, every one will understand that it means brick of the ordinary dimensions and of the best quality for that particular structure."

4. Congress May Erect Bridges Over Navigable Waters. — Frost v. Washington County R. Co., 96 Me. 76.

923. 3. State Authority to Authorize Bridges Over Navigable Waters. — Adams v. Ulmer, 91 Me. 47; Dietrich v. Schremms, 117 Mich. 298, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 923; Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Wiygul, 82 Miss. 223, quoting 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 923; People v. Jessup, 28 N. Y. App. Div. 524, reversed 160 N. Y. 249; Carvalho v. Brooklyn, etc., Turnpike Co., (Supm. Ct. App. Div.) 76 N. Y. Supp. 859.

Delegation of Power. — The state may delegate to a board of supervisors the power to erect bridges over navigable streams. Chico Bridge Co. v. Sacramento Transp. Co., 123 Cal. 178.

But no grant of the legislature of any right in or control over the bridging of navigable streams will be upheld which rests upon mere implication or construction or anything short of a clear and direct expression of the legislative will. Dundalk, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 97 Md. 177.

IV. CONSTRUCTION AND MAINTENANCE OF BRIDGES — 1. Who Is to Erect and Maintain. — See note 3.

Under the Statute Laws of Most of the States. — See note 6.

929. 2. Legislative Powers and Discretion — Delegating Powers — Granting Exclusive Rights. — See note 5.

930. Providing for Expense of Construction — Apportioning Expenses. — See notes 1, 2.

Power to Construct Includes Power to Renew. — In U. S. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., (C. C. A.) 134 Fed. Rep. 353, it was held that a railroad company maintaining a bridge over a navigable river, under authority from the state, had a right, in making repairs, to renew the superstructure of such bridge with other materials than those originally used, and that a bill by the United States to restrain such renewal could not be maintained.

923. 4. Plenary Authority Over Internal Navigable Waters. — Adams v. Ulmer, 91 Me. 47. 924. 1. Freedom of Navigation to Be Preserved as Far as Possible. — Clement v. Metropolitan West Side El. R. Co., (C. C. A.) 123 Fed. Rep. 271.

So Long as Navigation Is Not Prevented. — See Hedges v. West Shore R. Co., 150 N. Y. 150, 55 Am. St. Rep. 660.

925. 3. Bridge Unlawfully Erected a Nuisance. — People v. Jessup, 28 N. Y. App. Div. 524, reversed 160 N. Y. 249; Carvalho v. Brooklyn, etc., Turnpike Co., (Supm. Ct. App. Div.) 76 N. Y. Supp. 859.

926. 1. Corning v. Saginaw, 116 Mich. 78, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 926.

2. Duty of One Maintaining Drawbridge. — Piscataqua Nav. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 89 Fed. Rep. 362; Boland v. Combination Bridge Co., 94 Fed. Rep. 888; Hartley v. American Steel-Barge Co., 47 C. C. A. 229, 108 Fed. Rep. 97.

Delay in Passing Draw. — A county is not liable for detaining vessels in a river by reason of breakage of the machinery operating a draw in a county bridge, where there was no negligence by the county's agents or servants, or any unreasonable delay in making repairs. Pettit v. Chosen Freeholders, 91 Fed. Rep. 998, 63 U. S. App. 286.

Cities — Liability for Drawbridges. — A city cannot be charged with negligence in failing to have at each end of a drawbridge a lock of sufficient strength to resist the impact of a heavy steamer. Chicago v. Wisconsin Steamship Co., 97 Fed. Rep. 107, 38 C. C. A. 70.

927. 1. Liability for Negligence of Bridge Officials. — Boland v. Combination Bridge Co., 94 Fed. Rep. 888; Hartley v. American Steel-Barge Co., 47 C. C. A. 229, 108 Fed. Rep. 97; Chicago v. Mullen, (C. C. A.) 116 Fed. Rep. 292.

3. Turning Ferry into Bridge. — In Oloff v. Shreveport, 52 La. Ann. 1203, it was held that a grant of the power to establish a toll ferry includes by necessary implication power to establish a toll bridge as a substitute for the ferry.

6. Authorities Required by Statute to Erect and Repair Bridges. — Johnson County v. Hemphill, (Ind. App. 1895) 41 N. E. Rep. 965; Leslie County v. Wooten, 115 Ky. 850; Bigelow v. Brooks, 119 Mich. 208; Piqua v. Geist, 59 Ohio St. 163; Newark v. Jones, 9 Ohio Cir. Dec. 196, 16 Ohio Cir. Ct. 563; Francis v. Franklin Tp., 179 Pa. St. 195. See also State v. Ahnapee, 99 Wis. 322.

Unauthorized Bridges. — Where the duty of erecting and maintaining bridges is imposed upon a county, the county is liable only for the class of bridges which the statute requires or authorizes it to build and maintain. Ehle v. Minden, 70 N. Y. App. Div. 275.

County Aid. — Provision is made by statute in Illinois for application to the county by the highway commissioners for aid in building a bridge, and where the statute has been complied with the county board has no discretion in regard to granting or refusing the requested aid. People v. Moultrie County, 71 Ill. App. 348. The requirement that such aid can be demanded where the bridge will cost more than twenty cents on the hundred dollars on the latest assessment roll is not fulfilled by the inclusion in one petition of a number of bridges so that the total exceeds such limit. Board of Supervisors v. Highway Com'rs, 69 Ill. App. 344.

Cities in Indiana are liable for failing to keep their bridges in a reasonably safe condition for travel. Connersville v. Snider, 31 Ind. App. 218.

Bridges over Railroads. — The Pennsylvania statute of 1855 does not require that all railroad crossings should be bridged. Such bridges, when required for the ordinary needs of travel, are put on the same status with other bridges with respect to liability for cost of construction, which is borne by one or more towns or one or more counties, as the case may be. Dixon v. Butler Tp., 4 Pa. Super. Ct. 333, 40 W. N. C. (Pa.) 209.

929. 5. See Dietrich v. Schremms, 117 Mich. 298.

Delegation by County Commissioners. — The power to determine whether a bridge shall be built or repaired, and the sum to be paid, is conferred upon the county commissioners in North Carolina, and cannot be delegated. McPhail v. Cumberland County, 119 N. Car. 330.

Bridge Must Connect a Lawful Highway. — The liability of towns or counties under the New York statutes to construct bridges over waters dividing them exists only where there is a lawful highway the parts of which would be connected by them, and of which the bridge would form a part. People v. Queens County, 151 N. Y. 190.

Canada. — Public Bridge. — In Canada a rule passed by a county council is illegal where it places on two municipalities the cost of a bridge which the county has declared to be a public bridge. Corporation Du Comté, etc., v. Corporation Du Township, etc., 17 Quebec Super. Ct. 87.

2. The Right to Make Repairs is included in power to bridge a navigable stream. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Wiygul, 82 Miss. 223.

Canada. — Extent of Authority. — A rule of a county council for the construction of a wooden bridge at a small expense will not authorize the construction of an iron bridge costing a greater amount. Corporation Du Comté, etc., v. Du Township, etc., 17 Quebec Super. Ct. 87.

932. 1. Authority to Condemn Lands for Public Bridge. — Southern Illinois, etc., Bridge Co. v. Stone, 174 Mo. 1.

933. 6. Care Required of Railroad Company in Constructing Bridges. — Jones v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 67 S. Car. 181.

But a railroad company in building a bridge is not bound to provide against floods of which the usual course of nature affords no premonition. Southern R. Co. v. Plott, 131 Ala. 312.

Where a bridge was constructed by a railroad in pursuance of an agreement between it and a borough council, which agreement prescribed the details of design and construction, and the bridge as constructed was accepted by the borough council, the railroad was held not to be liable to a person injured by reason of an alleged defect in its design. Smith v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 201 Pa. St. 131.

934. 1. Construction of Railroad Bridges and Drawbridges. — A structure which dams up a waterway and causes the water to spread dangerously from its natural course may amount to a nuisance, and the maintenance as well as the erection of a nuisance, with knowledge of its harmful character, may create a liability for resultant injuries. Southern R. Co. v. Plott, 131 Ala. 312.

935. 1. Degree of Strength Requisite. — Seyfer v. Otoe County, 66 Neb. 566.

The maintenance by a highway commissioner, and keeping open for public travel, without notice or warning, of a bridge which is of strength insufficient to support in transportation across it a vehicle and load weighing less than four tons is prima facie negligence. Heib v. Big Flats, 66 N. Y. App. Div. 88.

Extraordinary Uses of Bridges. — The city is not liable for damages resulting from the hauling of extraordinary and unusual loads. Moore v. Hazelton Tp., 118 Mich. 425.

Limit of Strength Required Established by Statute. — Stone v. Tilden, (Wis. 1904) 99 N. W. Rep. 1026. See also Welch v. Geneva, 110 Wis. 388. But see Vandewater v. Wappinger, 69 N. Y. App. Div. 325; Lee v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 62 N. Y. App. Div. 624.

As to the Obligation to Repair Ratione Tenuræ, or by prescription, see Hertfordshire County Council v. New River Co., (1904) 2 Ch. 513.

937. 1. Statutes as to Maintenance and Repair. — Martin v. Sherwood, 74 Conn. 475; Freeman v. Independence, 123 Iowa 1; Bembe v. Anne Arundel County, 94 Md. 330; Moore v. St. Paul, 82 Minn. 494; State v. Cincinnati, 4 Ohio Dec. 368; Mooney v. St. Mary, 8 Ohio Cir. Dec. 341, 15 Ohio Cir. Ct. 446; Smith v. Muncy Creek Tp., 206 Pa. St. 7; Battles v. Doll, 113 Wis. 357.

938. 1. Nonliability of Counties at Common Law. — "It is well settled that no liability existed at common law for the nonrepair of a bridge by the county; the only remedy being by indictment." Spencer v. Chosen Freeholders, 66 N.J.L. 301. See further the titles COUNTIES, 950. 1 et seq.; TOWNS AND TOWNSHIPS, 330. 4.

2. Right to Close Bridge for Repairs. — Where a bridge becomes out of repair and dangerous and it is the duty of the railroad company to maintain and repair, the company has the same right as the city to close the bridge although it constitutes a part of the public street. Toledo Consol. St. R. Co. v. Mammet, 6 Ohio Cir. Dec. 244, 13 Ohio Cir. Ct. 591.

939. 1. Purchaser of Bridge Takes Cum Onere. — Book v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 207 Pa. St. 138.

Turnpike Franchise Carries Duty of Erecting and Maintaining Bridges. — Allen v. Smith, (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 47 S. W. Rep. 206, wherein the turnpike company was held to be bound to repair a bridge forming part of the turnpike, which bridge had been built and kept in repair by the town until its charter expired.

But a Railway Company Which Diverts a Stream that ran under a highway, and puts up a new bridge where the stream crosses the highway as diverted, is not liable, in the absence of a special agreement, to keep such bridge in repair. Peterborough v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 32 Ont. 154. See also Rutland v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 71 Ill. App. 442, wherein it was held that the railroad was not obliged to rebuild or repair the bridge.

940. 2. Bridge Must Be Altered Where Public Necessity Requires it. — Jones v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 67 S. Car. 181, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 940.

New Use of Bridge Carries New Duties. — Acts which would fulfil every reasonable requirement of ordinary care in the inspection of bridges over which nothing heavier than an ordinary loaded wagon ever passed might not constitute ordinary care when it was known that traction engines of many tons in weight frequently passed over them under the sanction of express law. Walker v. Ontario, 118 Wis. 564.

Use Not Originally Contemplated — Who Must Strengthen Bridge. — Where a railroad agreed with a turnpike company to construct a bridge for the latter, and at that time it was not within the contemplation of either party that the bridge was to be used for anything but ordinary turnpike travel, it was held that the expense of rebuilding the bridge so as to make it strong enough to carry a trolley line must be borne by the turnpike company. West Shore R. Co. v. Bergen Turnpike Co., 62 N. J. Eq. 109.

3. Rebuilding. — State v. Renville County, 83 Minn. 67, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 940.

941. 1. Duty to Repair Includes Approaches. — Johnson County v. Hemphill, (Ind. App. 1895) 41 N. E. Rep. 965; People v. Bay County Bridge Commission, 115 Mich. 622, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 941; Grant v. Brainerd, 86 Minn. 126; Edwards v. Ford, 22 N. Y. App. Div. 279, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 941.

Repairing Fence on Raised Approach. — Where a statute provided that a canal company should not be liable to repair any part of the grounds approaching any bridge over its canal beyond or further than the extremity of the wing walls of any such bridge, but that the company was not to be exonerated from the repair of all such bridges and of the wing walls, ramparts, and side banks thereof, it was held that the company was not liable to repair a broken fence on a raised approach to one of its bridges. Atty.-Gen. v. Oxford Canal Nav., 88 L. T. N. S. 250, affirming 87 L. T. N. S. 93.

942. 1. Hertfordshire County Council v. New River Co., (1904) 2 Ch. 513; Eginoire v. Union County, 112 Iowa 558.

2. Cases to Which Statute of Bridges Applies. — The rule laid down by the Statute of Bridges (22 Hen. VIII., c. 5) that the persons liable to repair a bridge are also liable to repair the highway at each end of the bridge for a distance of three hundred feet applies where the bridge is repairable by the county and where the liability arises by prescription or (semble) ratione tenuræ, but does not apply where the liability is directly imposed by a later statute. Hertfordshire County Council v. New River Co., (1904) 2 Ch. 513.

Use of Railings — Leaning Thereon. — In Georgia it has been held that while the owner of a bridge owes a duty to the public to keep it in a reasonably safe condition for pedestrians, it is not bound to anticipate that weary citizens will use the railing to recline upon. Knowles v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 118 Ga. 795.

Safe Condition. — A city owes to the public the duty of keeping a bridge in a safe condition, and is liable for special injuries resulting from neglect to perform this duty. Buechner v. New Orleans, 112 La. 599; Ford v. Roulet Tp., 9 Pa. Super. Ct. 643.

3. Duty to Ascertain and Repair Defects. — Murray v. Woodson County, 58 Kan. 1; Cook v. Dean, 11 N. Y. App. Div. 123; Boyce v. Shawangunk, 40 N. Y. App. Div. 593; Whitmire v. Muncy Creek Tp., 17 Pa. Super. Ct. 399.

Where a town exercised the requisite degree of care in inspecting a bridge, and failed to discover the defect in season to remedy it, it was held not to be liable. Hawkes v. Chester, 70 Vt. 271.

4. Lack of Funds. — See Lee v. Berne, 79 N. Y. App. Div. 214.

In order to make the defense of lack of funds complete, it must appear not only that there was a lack of funds, but an inability, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, to obtain them. McMahon v. Salem, 25 N. Y. App. Div. 1.

944. 1. Not Insurer. — Warren County v. Evans, 118 Ga. 200; Pearl v. Benton Tp., 131 Mich. 275, 9 Detroit Leg. N. 317; Comstock v. Georgetown Tp., (Mich. 1904) 100 N. W. Rep. 788, 11 Detroit Leg. N. 379; Johnson County v. Carmen, (Neb. 1904) 99 N. W. Rep. 502; Creighton v. Chosen Freeholders, 70 N. J. L. 350; Marshall v. McAllister, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 159.

3. Notice of Defects Must Be Brought Home to Proprietors. — Jones v. Walnut Tp., 59 Kan. 774, 52 Pac. Rep. 865; Pearl v. Benton Tp., 131 Mich. 275, 9 Detroit Leg. N. 317; Thomas v. Flint, 123 Mich. 10; Bratfisch v. Mason Tp., 120 Mich. 323; Johnson County v. Carmen, (Neb. 1904) 99 N. W. Rep. 502; Creighton v. Chosen Freeholders, 70 N. J. L. 350; Robe v. Snohomish County, 35 Wash. 475. See also Shaw v. Potsdam, 11 N. Y. App. Div. 508.

Reasonable Expectation of Decay of Old Bridge. — Perry v. Clarke County, 120 Iowa 96; Smith v. Muncy Creek Tp., 206 Pa. St. 7; Green v. Nebagamain, 113 Wis. 508. See also Robe v. Snohomish County, 35 Wash. 475.

What Evidence of Notice Admissible and Sufficient. — A city is chargeable with notice where it appears that the bridge was in a populous part of the city, and that the defect consisted of a hole two to three feet long and six inches wide, which had existed for three or four months. Connerville v. Snyder, 31 Ind. App. 218.

The admissions and declarations of the officers of the town after the accident are competent for the purpose of showing that the town, through its officers, had notice of the condition of the bridge. Vandewater v. Wappinger, 69 N. Y. App. Div. 325.

Notice to a commissioner of highways is notice to the town in cases of injury resulting from defective bridges. Allen v. Allen, 33 N. Y. App. Div. 463.

Constructive Notice. — A city will be deemed to have constructive notice where by reasonable diligence it should have known of the defective condition of the bridge, but such notice cannot be presumed unless of such long standing and of such a character as actually to arrest the attention of passers-by or of persons inspecting the bridge. Snyder v. Albion, 113 Mich. 275. See also Allen v. Allen, 33 N. Y. App. Div. 463; Spencer v. Sardinia, 42 N. Y. App. Div. 472. But see Murray v. Woodson County, 58 Kan. 1, wherein the statute excluded the idea of constructive notice.

Where Notice Not Necessary. — Where a bridge is negligently constructed and the defect is an open one, it is not necessary to show that the defendant had notice of its unsafe condition. McDonald v. Duluth, 93 Minn. 206.

Notice to Contractor Where Construction under Direction of Engineer. — Where a contractor for the erection of a public bridge agrees to construct a temporary bridge, pending the erection of the permanent bridge, and to keep it in good repair, all work to be done under the direction of an engineer, he is liable for injuries caused by failure to keep the bridge in repair, though he had not been notified by the engineer that repairs were needed. Cook v. Dean, 11 N. Y. App. Div. 123.

Where the Owner of a Toll-bridge Abandons It, the bridge becomes a free public highway under the California statutes. Sears v. Tuolumne County, 132 Cal. 167.

945. 3. Without Legislative Grant, municipal corporations are without authority to exact tolls for crossing a bridge. Oliff v. Shreveport, 52 La. Ann. 1203.

950. 4. Contract Against Discrimination — Waiver by Failure to Object. — Where a bridge company contracted with a railroad for the use of the bridge, agreeing not to contract with any other railroad for the same privilege at a less rate without the consent of the first railroad, it was held that a reduction thereafter given to another railroad under circumstances which must have brought such reduction to the knowledge of the first railroad was no defense to an action for tolls, consent to the reduction being presumed from failure to object to the reduction. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., (C. C. A.) 107 Fed. Rep. 781.

6. Right to Free Passage — Waiver — Limitation. — Where a turnpike company granted to the owner of land the right to free passage of a ferry in consideration of the use of his land for the turnpike, the privilege was held to extend to a bridge afterwards substituted for the ferry and to attach to subsequent grantees of the land so long as the turnpike was maintained over such land. It was further held that payment of toll under protest by such person was not a waiver of the right to free passage, but that after twelve years' continuous denial of the right it was barred by limitation. Wisconsin. — Bell v. Siemens, etc., Electric Co., 101 Wis. 320.

Ratification. — To entitle a broker to commissions there must be either an actual employment or a ratification and acceptance of his services. But in case of ratification, the intention of the principal to ratify must be clear. Fowler v. Hoschke, 53 N. Y. App. Div. 327.

A party may ratify the acts of a broker in such a way that it is equivalent to an original employment of the broker by him. Duncan v. Kearney, 72 Conn. 585; McCormack v. McCaffrey, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 36 Misc. (N. Y.) 775.

Mere Volunteer Not Entitled to Commissions. — See Weinhouse v. Cronin, 68 Conn. 250; Somers v. Wescoat, 66 N. J. L. 551; White v. Molloy, 9 N. Y. App. Div. 101; Samuels v. Luckenbach, 205 Pa. St. 428.

Must Be Contract Express or Implied. — There must be a contract in writing, or at least an equivalent admission, on the part of the principal, of the existence of a contract. The mere statement of a price which the principal is willing to take and of a commission which he is willing to pay does not constitute such a contract. Mainwaring v. Crane, 22 Quebec Super. Ct. 67. See also Calloway v. Stobart, 14 Manitoba 650.

Where a broker is authorized to sell to one particular person only, he cannot recover commissions for having secured a different purchaser, unless the principal ratified his act. Breen v. Rives, 16 N. Y. App. Div. 632.

972. (4) Completeness of Transaction — Broker to Sell Entitled to Commissions When Customer Procured, Though Sale Never Completed. — See note 5.

973. Qualification of the Rule — Special Contract. — See note 2.

974. (5) Availability of Customer — Customer Must Be Ready to Buy on Terms Stipulated. — See note 1.

Where an agent of a real-estate broker attempted to depress the price of property at a sale, it was held that the broker could not recover commissions. De Armit v. Milnor, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 369.

The Intentional Concealment of Important and Material Facts. — See Hafner v. Herron, 165 Ill. 242; Mullen v. Bower, 22 Ind. App. 294; Morey v. Laird, 108 Iowa 670; Jeffries v. Robbins, 66 Kan. 427; Humphrey v. Robinson, 134 N. Car. 432; Wilkinson v. McCullough, 196 Pa. St. 205, 79 Am. St. Rep. 702.

Where a customer authorized a broker to buy certain property for a given price, but the broker knew that it could be bought for less, it was the duty of the broker so to inform his customer, and on his failing to do so he was held not to be entitled to commissions. Carpenter v. Fisher, 175 Mass. 9.

Secret Bargain Between Purchaser and Vendor's Broker. — Where the purchaser promised to the vendor's broker a sum of money for extending the time of sale, and after the time was extended the sale was consummated but the broker did not receive the sum promised to him, it was held that though the secret bargain was a breach of the broker's duty to his principal it was not such as to disentitle him to the stipulated commission for the service which he had fully performed. Davidson v. Manitoba, etc., Land Corp., 14 Manitoba 232, reversed 34 Can. Sup. Ct. 255.

6. Broker Entitled to Reimbursement. — Where a principal revokes a broker's authority, the broker is entitled to be reimbursed for expenses. Hale v. Kumber, (C. C. A.) 85 Fed. Rep. 161; Dulaney v. Page Belting Co., (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 59 S. W. Rep. 1082.

Where a broker bought cotton for a customer on a margin, but on account of the sudden decline in the price of cotton was compelled to sell at a loss, it was held that he could recover from the customer the balance thus lost. Robinson v. Crawford, 31 N. Y. App. Div. 228.

Where brokers were employed to sell property at auction, and they accordingly advertised the property and made the necessary arrangements for the sale, but on the day before the auction the owner sold the property to another party, it was held that the brokers could recover from the owner their disbursements and the reasonable value of their services. Donald v. Lawson, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 87 N. Y. Supp. 485.

987. 1. Principal Not Bound Where Broker Exceeds Authority. — Planer v. Equitable L. Assur. Soc., (N. J. 1897) 37 Atl. Rep. 668. See generally the title AGENCY, 986. 3 et seq., 1136. 5 et seq.

"Where a broker sells goods without disclosing the name of his principal, he acts beyond the scope of his authority, and the buyer cannot set off a debt due from the broker to him against the demand for the goods made by the principal." Delafield v. Smith, 101 Wis. 664, 70 Am. St. Rep. 938.

Unauthorized Sale on Credit. — A principal authorized a broker to sell certain real property for cash during the following sixty days. The broker made a contract for sale, extending the time for payment thirty days after the expiration of the sixty days. It was held that the contract of sale was not binding on the principal. Smith v. McCann, 205 Pa. St. 57.

988. 2. Broker Not Liable on Contracts for Known Principal. — Bailey v. Galbreath, 100 Tenn. 599.

3. Broker Liable Where Agency Not Disclosed. — Lichten v. Verner, 8 Pa. Dist. 218.

4. Principal's Name Not Disclosed. — Lincoln v. Levi Cotton Mills Co., (C. C. A.) 128 Fed. Rep. 865.

989. 5. Principal May Enforce Contract Made by Broker. — Dodd Grocery Co. v. Postal Tel.-Cable Co., 112 Ga. 685.

7. Compare Rimmer v. Webster, (1902) 2 Ch. 163.

990. 2a. In Paris Medicine Co. v. W. H. Hill Co., (C. C. A.) 102 Fed. Rep. 148, the court said: "The court below took judicial notice of a definition of bromo found in the Standard Dictionary, where it is stated that the word is 'derived from bromine,' and is 'a combining word used mostly in names of chemical compounds in which bromine is a principal element.' * * * Whether the word bromo has or has not acquired a definite significance as a term of science, indicating a compound in which bromine is an element, is a matter upon which this court is not clear."

992. 3. See Com. v. J—, 21 Pa. Co. Ct. 625, 5. Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 65 Ark. 183, dissenting opinion.

"Built Up Portions of Cities."—In Com. v. Charity Hospital, 198 Pa. St. 270, the court said: "The phrase 'built up portions of cities' must be understood in its ordinary and popular meaning, and with reference to the object of the act, viz., the protection of the public health. The object of the act must be presumed to be to remove supposed sources of contagion from immediate contact with a large population. With this meaning of the act and the situation of the proposed hospital in reference to its surroundings in view, we are of opinion that the site of the proposed hospital is in a built up portion of the city of Pittsburg within the meaning of the act."

994. 1. Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 65 Ark. 183, dissenting opinion.

Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 65 Ark. 183, dissenting opinion.

Builder's Lien.—In June v. Doke, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 406, the court said: "The lien is described in the contract as a 'builder's lien,' and evidently has reference to the lien described in the constitution and statute, because there is no other builder's lien in Texas. In order, therefore, to arrive at the meaning of the parties when they used the term 'builder's lien,' resort must be had to the definitions given to the constitution and statute. By a reference thereto, we find that the 'builder's lien' extends not only to the house or building erected, but also to the lot or lots of land necessarily connected therewith."

Hen-house—Burglary.—The phrase "other building" in a statute punishing burglary includes a hen-house. Gillock v. People, 171 Ill. 307; State v. Poole, 65 Kan. 713.

Hotel—Burglary.—A hotel is a building within a statute against burglary. Bruen v. People, 206 Ill. 417.

Planing-mill—Burglary.—A planing mill is a building within a statute against burglary. State v. Haney, 110 Iowa 26.

Fences.—A fence is not a building within the meaning of an agreement providing that a university "may erect a university building and such other buildings as may be incidentally connected therewith, and forever afterward maintain and control the same for the purposes hereinafter named." Cincinnati v. Cincinnati University, 13 Ohio Dec. 288.

Under a statute requiring all necessary buildings to be erected by contract let to the highest bidder, etc., the word buildings will include an iron fence around the courthouse grounds. Swasey v. Shasta County, 141 Cal. 392.

Wall—Covenant in a Deed.—Clark v. Lee, 185 Mass. 223, following Nowell v. Boston Academy, 130 Mass. 209, set out in the original note.

Building Purposes.—Under a tax providing for "building purposes," appropriation and tax levy ordinances, each substantially specifying the purposes for which the school tax is to be used, are sufficiently definite. Otis v. People, 196 Ill. 542.

"Building" in the Sense of House—Arson.—State v. Spiegel, 111 Iowa 701.

Building Partially Destroyed—Insurance—Question for Jury.—See Corbett v. Spring Garden Ins. Co., 40 N. Y. App. Div. 628, affirmed 167 N. Y. 596.

Tent Not a Building—Exemption from Taxation.—Children's Seashore House, etc., v. Atlantic City, 68 N. J. L. 385.

A Greenhouse is a building within section 3 of the Prescription Act (2 & 3 Wm. IV., c. 71), and therefore, if it has ancient lights, may be protected by injunction against interference with the access of light. Clifford v. Holt, (1899) 1 Ch. 698.

Fixtures and Machinery.—A covenant in a lease to pay for "buildings and erections" on the demised premises, covers and includes fixtures and machinery which would have been fixtures but for 58 Viet., c. 26, § 2, subsec. (c) (o). Re Brantford Electric, etc., Co., 28 Ont. 40.

A Churchyard Wall, so built as to form an arcade or covered way for the protection from the weather of frescoes proposed to be painted on the panels on that side of the wall which would be inside the churchyard, is not a building prohibited to be erected on a disused burial ground by the Disused Burial Grounds Act, 1884, and the Open Spaces Act, 1887. St. Botolph v. Parishioners, (1900) P. 69.

Invest. Security, etc., Co. v. Brabant, 8 Quebec Q. B. 311.

In Alabama under the Constitution, art. 14, § 4, and Code 1896, §§ 1316, 1318, 1319, enacted pursuant thereto, prohibiting foreign building and loan associations from transacting business directly or indirectly in the state, where the association has not designated a known place of business in the state and an authorized agent or agents residing thereat, such foreign association cannot, in the courts of the state, enforce a loan made through a traveling soliciting agent to a resident of the state without first complying with the Code provision. Denson v. Chattanooga Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc., (C. C. A.) 107 Fed. Rep. 777, affirmed 189 U. S. 408.

But it has been held that the failure of a foreign building and loan association to pay a license fee for doing business in the state as required by the Act of Feb. 7, 1893, does not vitiate the contract arising in such business. Eslava v. New York Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 121 Ala. 480.

In Florida, Acts of 1893, p. 80, c. 4158, authorizing foreign building associations to do business in the state, does not relieve them from the general rule requiring the validity of their contracts made in the state to be tested by the laws applicable to domestic corporations of like character. Equitable Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. King, (Fla. 1904) 37 So. Rep. 181.

In Iowa the courts, as an exercise of comity, will not enforce a contract resulting from the transaction of business by a foreign building and loan association within the state violating the public policy thereof. Henni v. Fidelity Bldg., etc., Assoc., 61 Neb. 744, 87 Am. St. Rep. 519.

See also Welling v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 56 S. Car. 280.

When Receiver Has Been Appointed. — But where a foreign building and loan association doing business in the state has become insolvent and a receiver has been appointed therefor to wind up its affairs, its failure to comply with the laws relative to its right or admission to transact business within the state does not affect or defeat the right of such receiver to institute and maintain any suit necessary to the winding up of its affairs. Clarke v. Darr, 156 Ind. 692. Compare U. S. Savings, etc., Co. v. Shain, 8 N. Dak. 136, wherein it was held that a note and mortgage executed to a foreign building and loan association can be enforced in the courts of that state, notwithstanding the fact that the association had not complied with the statutes prescribing the terms upon which foreign corporations might do business in that jurisdiction.

In Maine, by statute (Laws 1897, c. 319, § 4), loan and building associations are placed under the charge, and to a certain extent under the control, of a public official, the bank examiner, and it is made his duty to see that the safeguards established by law are maintained and that the business of the association is lawfully conducted. Ulmer v. Falmouth Loan, etc., Assoc., 93 Me. 302.

In Oregon a certificate of the secretary of state is sufficient to establish, prima facie, the authority of a foreign association to do business in the state. Washington Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Stanley, 38 Oregon 319.

Subjected to Supervision by Statute. — Huntington County Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Fulk, 158 Ind. 113; Home Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Nolan, 21 Mont. 205.

1009. 3. Retroactive Legislation. — In Bosang v. Iron Belt Bldg., etc., Assoc., 96 Va. 119, it was held that the legislature has power in granting a new charter to validate and confirm previously made usurious contracts under the old charter granted by a corporation court. See also Smoot v. People's Perpetual Loan, etc., Assoc., 95 Va. 686.

But see Crabtree v. Old Dominion Bldg., etc., Assoc., 95 Va. 670, wherein it was held that an act of the legislature ratifying the charter of an association theretofore granted by a court is not retroactive in its effect on a usurious contract made prior to the passage of the act.

Taint of Usury Removed by Curative Legislation. — Building association loans tainted with usury may be legalized by curative acts of the general assembly. Bacon v. Iowa Sav., etc., Assoc., 121 Iowa 449. See also Edworthy v. Iowa Sav., etc., Assoc., 114 Iowa 220; Iowa Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Selby, 111 Iowa 402; Iowa Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Heidt, 107 Iowa 297, 70 Am. St. Rep. 197; Iowa Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Curtis, 107 Iowa 504.

Contract of Loan Interpreted by Charter, Statute, or By-law. — Both the borrower and the association must conform to the charter, statute, and by-law which constitute a part of the contract, and where the contract is repugnant thereto it must yield and be interpreted according to the law of the charter, statute, or by-law. Young v. Improvement Loan, etc., Assoc., 48 W. Va. 512; Savage v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 45 W. Va. 275. See also Schell v. Equitable Loan, etc., Assoc., 150 Mo. 103; *Bertche v. Assoc., (N. J. 1903) 54 Atl. Fully Paid-up Stock an Anomaly. — In Cashen v. Southern Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 114 Ga. 983, it was held that fully paid-up stock in building associations is really an anomaly, and that, strictly speaking, there can be no such thing, for the moment stock as such is matured — that is, brought to its par value — the holder thereof is entitled to his money, and his connection with the association is at an end.

In Georgia, when authorized by its charter, an association may issue instalment stock and also stock wholly or partly prepaid, where no preference is given to the holder over other classes, as such a system does not contravene the laws of building and loan associations as to mutuality. Kirklin v. Atlas Sav., etc., Assoc., 107 Ga. 313.

The issuance by a building association of fully paid stock on which dividends are guaranteed, the holder having no further interest in the profits, is a borrowing of money by the association and does not contravene the principles of an association on the building and loan plan. Cottingham v. Equitable Bldg., etc., Assoc., 114 Ga. 940. See also Cook v. Equitable Bldg., etc., Assoc., 104 Ga. 814.

In Illinois a building and loan association, such as is provided for by the statute, is not authorized under the statute, either directly or by implication, to issue paid-up stock. Rhodes v. Missouri Sav., etc., Co., 173 Ill. 621.

In Iowa it has been held that the plan of issuing preferred stock, which is quite compatible with an ordinary business undertaking, is essentially destructive of that "mutuality, reciprocity, and equality" which constitute the controlling idea of building and loan transactions. Winegardner v. Equitable Loan Co., 120 Iowa 485.

In Michigan the law does not authorize the issuance of paid-up shares, thus allowing investments which will bring rates of interest much in excess of those allowed by the usury laws. National Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Burch, 124 Mich. 57, 83 Am. St. Rep. 311.

New York. — In Dickinson v. Continental Trust Co., (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 23 Misc. (N. Y.) 489, it was held that a building and loan association doing business on the mutual plan was not authorized to issue stock to which was attached an unconditional guaranty to pay a fixed dividend of six per cent. annually to the holder.

No Interest on Paid-up Stock After Association Becomes Insolvent. — Holders of paid-up stock are not entitled to interest on their shares after the association becomes insolvent. Wilson v. Parvin, (C. C. A.) 119 Fed. Rep. 652.

1031. 1. Tootle v. Singer, 118 Iowa 533.

2. May Issue Preferred Stock. — Wilson v. Parvin, (C. C. A.) 119 Fed. Rep. 652; People v. New York Bldg. Loan Banking Co., (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 41 Misc. (N. Y.) 363, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1031, affirmed 96 N. Y. App. Div. 625.

1032. 4. Lien of Association.— See note 3.

5. Maturity of Stock — Methods of Determining. — See note 5.

1034. VII. RIGHTS, DUTIES, AND LIABILITIES OF MEMBERS — 1. The Rights — a. GENERALLY.— See note 2.

b. TO BE PAID ON MATURITY. — See notes 6, 7.

In Hohenshell v. Home Sav., etc., Assoc., 140 Mo. 566, it was held that the power to issue stock payable in instalments would seem to imply the power to issue prepaid stock, and there was no apparent reason why an association should not do so. But in the absence of charter provisions or by-laws authorizing such issue, or a contract to that effect, such association cannot issue preferred stock; that is, stock entitled to be first paid, after the payment of the general indebtedness, over other stock of the association.

Preferred as to Dividends and Principal.— The power to issue prepaid shares, preferred as to dividends and principal, is a valid exercise of the association inter se, and not so inconsistent with the purposes and objects of such association as to be regarded as illegal and void. Wilson v. Parvin, (C. C. A.) 119 Fed. Rep. 652.

Definition.— Preferred stock is an issue of shares on which a stated dividend from the corporate profits is to be paid before any distribution is made to the holders of common stock. Winegardner v. Equitable Loan Co., 120 Iowa 485.

Estoppel to Deny Validity of Transfer.— An association is estopped to deny the validity of a transfer of stock as not having been made in accordance with its by-laws when it has recognized the validity of such transfer for purposes advantageous to itself. Prairie State Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Gorrie, 167 Ill. 414, affirming 64 Ill. App. 325.

1031. 5. Transfer.— In Washington the statutes, Ball. Annot. Codes and Stat., § 4264, neither contemplate nor require that the holder of stock which has been pledged shall notify the association that the stock has been pledged to him. The statute recognizes the pledgor as the sole owner of such stock and the only one authorized to represent it at the stockholders' meetings, and does not provide for a conditional transfer, as it is only absolute transfers which must be entered. Hence notice of the pledge is not necessary to the association, which will be held responsible in damages to the pledgee for a cancellation of the stock without requiring a return of the certificates thereof. Brown v. Union Sav., etc., Assoc., 28 Wash. 657.

7. A purchaser of shares of the company's stock, without notice by a by-law providing for a lien thereon, by tendering the prescribed fee and a proper transfer, may compel the company to make the transfer on its books. In re McKain, etc., Invest., etc., Co., 7 Ont. L. Rep. 241.

1032. 3. Lien.— A provision in the by-laws of an investment and savings company that all shares of stock shall, whether it is mentioned in the certificate of stock or not, be subject to a lien of the company to secure indebtedness for dues, loans, interest, and otherwise, is binding on the original borrower of the stock so long as he is the holder thereof; but the per-chaser of such stock, taking it without notice of the provision, is not bound thereby. In re McKain, etc., Invest., etc., Co., 7 Ont. L. Rep. 241.

Lien on Stock for Unpaid Fines.— By-laws may provide that all stock shall be subject to a lien for the payment of unpaid fines. Fidelity Sav. Assoc. v. Bank of Commerce, (Wyo. 1904) 75 Pac. Rep. 448.

Rep. 870, upholding a building and loan contract where the maturity of the contract was guaranteed to be within ten years from its date, and was not dependent on the business or the termination of the company.

1034. 2. Miscellaneous Rights — Voting for Officers.— Where the constitution of a building association provides that "each shareholder shall be entitled to one vote only, irrespective of the number of shares he or she may hold," a shareholder is for voting purposes the holder of a share which is a unit, and where a share is owned jointly by two or more persons each of such persons is not entitled to a vote. Matter of Provident Bldg., etc., Assoc., 62 N. Stat. N. J., p. 331, Revision approved April 9, 1875), cannot be had at law. The remedy of a shareholder, if the directors will not recognize his demand for distribution of the fund in which he is interested, is the Court of Chancery. *Campbell v. Perth Amboy Mut. 1049. 1. Waiver of Provision as to Withdrawals. — A vote of the board of management directing a claim to be paid must be deemed a consent thereto, and entitles a withdrawing member to payment regardless of the condition of the treasury of the association. Davies v. Millinery Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 31 Misc. (N. Y.) 735.

Borrowing Money. — Under the Missouri statute authorizing building associations to borrow money for temporary purposes, the money so borrowed cannot be applied to withdrawals. Powell's Appeal, 93 Mo. App. 296.

2. Duty to Keep Funds on Hand. — Colin v. Wellford, 102 Va. 581, 102 Am. St. Rep. 859; Andrews v. Roanoke Bldg. Assoc., etc., Co., 98 Va. 445.

3. Notice Necessary. — Pioneer Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Everheart, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 102.

Verbal Notice Sufficient. — St. Louis Loan, etc., Co. v. Yantis, 173 Ill. 321.

May Require Notice of Filing of Certificate at Home Office. — The association is entitled to require notice of withdrawal and the filing of the certificate of stock at its home office, as preliminaries to the payments of the withdrawal value of the stock. Heslin v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 61 N. Y. App. Div. 458.

Notice to the Secretary Has Been Held Insufficient, since at most the secretary is the mere agent of the shareholder to convey the notice to the directors, and his failure to do so is the failure of the shareholder himself. Huntington County Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Emerick, 23 Ind. App. 175.

Notice May Be Waived by Association. — Reitz v. Hayward, 100 Mo. App. 216.

4. Order of Payment. — Ward v. North Fairmount Bldg., etc., Co., 8 Ohio Dec. 489; Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Snyder, 98 Va. 710.

Rule Inapplicable in Absence of By-law. — In Davies v. Millinery Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 31 Misc. (N. Y.) 735, it was held that the rule does not apply in the absence of a by-law requiring that members shall be paid only in the order in which their withdrawals take place.

1050. 2. Waiver After Notice. — Mutual Union Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Stolz, 93 Ill. App. 164.

A Member Waives His Notice of withdrawal by exercising thereafter the privileges of membership, such as paying dues and charges against him. Hawley v. North Side Bldg., etc., Assoc., 11 Colo. App. 93.

By accepting a loan from the society, after notice of withdrawal, a member waives such notice. In re Counties Conservative Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., (1900) 2 Ch. 819.

But see Silvers v. Merchants, etc., Sav. Fund, etc., Assoc., (N. J. 1903) 56 Atl. Rep. 294, wherein it was held that where a stockholder served notice of withdrawal on the association during its solvency, and persistently and continuously maintained his place as entitled to preference, and so proved his claim before the receiver after the association had become insolvent, such stockholder became a creditor, and was entitled to be paid in full in preference of the distribution of the surplus pro rata among the shareholders.

Certificate for the Direct Payment of Money. — In State v. Phoenix Loan Assoc., 86 Mo. App. 301, it was held that a certificate issued to a stockholder created the relation of debtor and creditor, and entitled the holder to priority of payment out of the assets of the defunct association ahead of its shareholders.

When Holders of Matured Stock Are Not Entitled to Priority. — Holders of matured stock are not entitled to priority as creditors, unless warrants of the association have come into their hands, or they hold checks upon a bank where the association funds are deposited. Christopher Columbus Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Kriete, 192 Ill. 128. See also Gibson v. Safety Homestead, etc., Assoc., 170 Ill. 44; Mutual Union Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Stolz, 93 Ill. App. 164.

Withdrawing Shareholder a Creditor and Entitled to Priority. — Where a withdrawing shareholder permits his stock to be canceled by the association as a solvent concern, and leaves the money due him on withdrawal with the association and takes acknowledgment of indebtedness therefrom, he takes priority over stockholders whose stock has not matured, if the association is subsequently declared insolvent. Jones v. Brennan, 100 Ill. App. 153. See also Gallagher v. Brennan, 99 Ill. App. 81; Solomons v. American Bldg., etc., Assoc., 116 Fed. Rep. 676, affirmed (C. C. A.) 120 Fed. Rep. 1018; *Com. v. A By-law of a Foreign Building Association Regarding Withdrawing Creditors to Accept Scrip payable at the time the stock would have matured is valid in the absence of a statute prohibiting such law in the state where such association was organized. Hundermark v. New South Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Miss. 1901) 29 So. Rep. 528.

Provisions in the constitution of a building and loan association limiting payment of the withdrawal value of shares to a fund arising from a percentage of funds collected, and exacting a withdrawal fee of one dollar per share, are not inconsistent with the provisions of Gen. Stat. N. J., p. 331, authorizing its organization. Intiso v. Metropolitan Sav., etc., Assoc., 68 N. J. L. 588.

Must Bear His Proportion of Loss. — Vincent v. Harrison Bldg., etc., Co., 7 Ohio Dec. 353. See also Eaton v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 7 Pa. Dist. 440.

Fines Chargeable Against Stock on Withdrawal. — Fines against the stock, if reasonable, are allowable to the association in determining the withdrawal value of the stock. Fidelity Sav. Assoc. v. Bank of Commerce, (Wyo. 1904) 75 Pac. Rep. 448.

Where Assets Equal Amount Paid in on Stock. — Under Gen. Laws Rhode Island, c. 131, § 27, where the assets of an association equal the amounts paid in on its stock, it must pay a withdrawing stockholder of any class the full amount paid in (less stipulated charges), and only when the assets are reduced by losses below the amount paid in can the association charge such loss against stock listed for withdrawal. Baker v. U. S. Savings, etc., Assoc., 23 R. I. 243.

1052. 2. Net Value. — Reitz v. Hayward, 100 Mo. App. 216.

1053. 1. Perfected Withdrawal. — Rickert v. Suddard, 184 Ill. 149, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1052 [1053].

2. Ends Membership. — Floyd-Jones v. Anderson, 30 Mont. 351, citing 4 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1052 [1053].

3. Regarded as Member. — Coltrane v. Baltimore Bldg., etc., Assoc., 110 Fed. Rep. 272; Synnott v. Iron Belt Bldg., etc., Assoc., 89 Fed. Rep. 292; Hawley v. North Side Bldg., etc., Assoc., 11 Colo. App. 93.

Regarded as Stockholder and Not Creditor. — Mutual Union Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Stolz, 93 Ill. App. 164.

Continues to Be a Stockholder until Actually Paid Out. — Rehn v. North Fairmount Bldg., etc., Co., 7 Ohio Dec. 398.

May Institute Action for Equitable Relief After Notice. — Notice of withdrawal does not sever the member's relation so completely as to preclude him from bringing suit to have a receiver appointed, or for other equitable relief against the association. Continental Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Miller, 11 Fla. 750.

No Relief from Liability for Losses by Inadequate Assessment. — If a condition of insolvency exists at the time of withdrawal, the withdrawing member is not relieved from all further liability by reason of a grossly inadequate assessment, but he may be declared a member and be required to pay his just and proper share of the loss existing at the time of withdrawal. Galvin v. Albers, 9 Ohio Dec. 279.

4. As a Creditor. — Solomons v. American Bldg., etc., Assoc., 116 Fed. Rep. 676, affirmed (C. C. A.) 120 Fed. Rep. 1018; Alexander v. Southern Home Bldg., etc., Assoc., 110 Fed. As a Creditor and Not a Shareholder. — Jones v. Brennan, 100 Ill. App. 153. See also Rickert v. Suddard, 184 Ill. 149; Barley v. Gittings, 15 App. Cas. (D. C.) 427.

At the Expiration of the Term of Notice the withdrawal of a member is complete; and, as between such member and the other shareholders, he ceases to be a member and becomes a creditor of the association. Enterprise Bldg., etc., Soc. v. Bolin, 12 Colo. App. 304.

In Coggeshall v. McGrath, (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 89 N. Y. Supp. 334, it was held that a borrowing member of an insolvent association, by giving notice of withdrawal, did not, ipso facto, become a creditor of the association for the value of his shares or the excess thereof over his indebtedness to the association on his note, so as to exempt his shares from their proportionate share of the general debts of the company. See also to same effect Cobb v. Johnson, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 35 Misc. (N. Y.) 109; Vinton v. National Bldg., etc., Assoc., 112 Ky. 622.

5. Not Liable for Dues. — Coltrane v. Blake, (C. C. A.) 113 Fed. Rep. 785; Rehn v. North Fairmount Bldg., etc., Co., 7 Ohio Dec. 398; Crenshaw v. Hedrick, 19 Tex. Civ. App. 52.

8. Quasi Creditor. — Rehn v. North Fairmount Bldg., etc., Co., 7 Ohio Dec. 398.

When Stockholder Becomes a General Creditor. — A stockholder becomes a general creditor, and entitled to preference, where he has surrendered his stock at maturity and settled with the association, and has deposited the balance with the association under an agreement to pay him interest thereon for the use thereof; the contract, while being ultra vires, is not malum in se or malum prohibitum, but is such a one as equity will enforce. Brennan v. Gallagher, 199 Ill. 207, reversing 99 Ill. App. 81 and distinguishing National Home Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Home Sav. Bank, 181 Ill. 35, 72 Am. St. Rep. 245, and Columbus, etc., Assoc. v. Kriete, 192 Ill. 128.

1054. 1. Restrictions on His Rights. — A withdrawing member cannot sue for the value of his stock unless he shows that he complied with the by-laws of the association relating to withdrawal. Hence, where a by-law provides that a withdrawing member shall take scrip payable at the time his stock would have matured if he had remained a member, and the withdrawing member refuses to accept such scrip, he still remains a member of the association and cannot maintain an action against it as a creditor. Hundermark v. New South Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Miss. 1901) 29 So. Rep. 528.

In Bettle v. Republic Sav., etc., Assoc., 63 N. J. Eq. 578, it was held that ordinary shareholders are not creditors of the association, at least until withdrawal claims have been filed, and entitled to such amounts as they have paid in without deducting their proportion of expenses.

2. Premiums Fixed by Contract Authority. — In Manship v. New South Bldg., etc., Assoc., 110 Fed. Rep. 845, it was held that, when there is no legislative prohibition, premiums may be fixed by contract, just as interest may be fixed thereby, and that in view of the extent of building and loan association in the United States fixed premiums are better calculated to pay all members on an equal footing than premiums by open bidding.

3. Statute of Limitations. — Andrews v. Roanoke Bldg. Assoc., etc., Co., 98 Va. 445.

May Sue Although Stock Has Not Been Transferred. — Where the stockholder purchases stock from another, and has been treated by the association as a member and recognized by it as the holder and owner thereof, he may bring an action to recover the amount due on withdrawal, though such stock has not been transferred to him on the books of the association. Denison v. Alpena Loan, etc., Assoc., 117 Mich. 98.

Action for Withdrawal Value of Shares. — A solvent building association, in the absence of bad faith on its part, is not in default and cannot be sued by a withdrawing member until there are funds in the treasury of the association out of which he is entitled to be paid. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Synder, 98 Va. 710. See also Andrews v. Roanoke Bldg. Assoc., etc., Co., 98 Va. 445.

5. Common Counts. — National Guarantee L. & T. Co. v. Yeatman, 121 Ala. 594.

7. Relief in Equity by Withdrawal Member. — A withdrawal member is not required to exhaust legal remedies before proceeding in equity. Continental Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Miller, 44 Fla. 757.

A withdrawing stockholder may sue in equity for appointment of a receiver, and for other equitable relief. Universal Sav., etc., Co. v. Stoneburner, (C. C. A.) 113 Fed. Rep. 251; Continental Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Miller, 44 Fla. 757.

Where the Value of Shares Is in Dispute, a stockholder, after notice, may sue in equity to determine their withdrawal value. Eaton v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 7 Pa. Dist. 440.

8. Bids Are Not Required to Be Made in Person, as by-laws may authorize a written bid filed with the secretary. Boleman v. Citizens' Loan, etc., Assoc., 114 Wis. 217. See also Hughes v. Farmers' Sav., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1897) 46 S. W. Rep. 362; Ruppel v. Missouri Guarantee, etc., Assoc., 158 Mo. 613.

Assignment of Bid. — Where the charter of a building association provides that if a stockholder who has made the highest bid for a loan fails to offer satisfactory security for the money he "shall be charged with one month's interest and the money resold at the next stated meeting," such bid cannot be transferred to another person. Unless the person obtaining the loan makes his bid in open meeting, as prescribed by the charter, the transaction is usurious. Meyer v. Chattanooga Sav., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1897) 48 S. W. Rep. 105.

In Illinois, in order for foreign building and loan associations to enforce in the courts of that state a contract which would be usurious, unless within the exemption given by its statutes to domestic building and loan associations, it must appear that the statute under which it was organized is similar to the statute of Illinois, and an association which, under the guise of a building and loan association, derives its loaning fund in whole or in part from paid-up stock, is not entitled to the protection of the statute exempting building and loan associations from the usury law. *Phoenix Loan Assoc. v. Intention Must Be Expressed in Instrument. — Where it is apparent from the terms of a mortgage that it was intended for a security for the payment of a designated sum, the same being the principal, interest, and premium of a loan by the association, the covenant that the mortgagor will perform all engagements according to the by-laws and articles of the association refers simply to the loans. Any intention to make the mortgage a security for the payment of stock should be expressly set out in the instrument by appropriate language. Beso v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 201 Pa. St. 355. Stock Proceeds Applied First. — In Hoagland v. Saul, (N. J. 1902) 53 Atl. Rep. 704, it was held that the assigned stock should be sold and the proceeds applied on the mortgage debt before enforcing the mortgage lien on the premises.

2. Where Land Has Been Conveyed. — Caston v. Stafford, 92 Mo. App. 182; Lewin v. Royersford Bldg., etc., Assoc., 9 Pa. Dist. 507.

Application of Payments. — A building association, to whom one of its stockholders is indebted for stock subscription and also on a note secured by a mortgage, cannot be forced by a junior mortgagee to impute partial payments made by the debtor upon the mortgage debt, when, under the contract between the parties, they were to be imputed to the stock indebtedness. Union Nat. Bank v. Hyams, 50 La. Ann. 1110. See to same effect Provident Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Carter, 107 Wis. 383.

Effect of Release of Stock Held as Collateral Security. — If the association holds both a mortgage and an assignment of a member's stock as collateral security for a loan, and the borrower subsequently executes a second mortgage on the same premises to a third party, the association, as senior creditor, cannot, after notice of the junior incumbrance, release his peculiar security without running the risk of having its value charged against him, if the common security is insufficient. *Merchantville Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. In Bowman v. Cleveland Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 59 S. W. Rep. 669, it was held that a premium bid of forty per cent., with an assessment of three dollars per month on six hundred dollars' worth of stock, and six per cent. interest on a six hundred dollars loan payable monthly, being in strict compliance with the charter and by-laws of the association, while a hard contract for the borrower, was binding on the parties.

In Setliff v. North Nashville, Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1897) 39 S. W. Rep. 546, it was held that the payment of a premium of twenty-five per cent., bid at a competitive sale for a loan on shares, did not make the contract usurious.

Under Code Ala. (1886), § 1556, subs. 9 and 10, building and loan associations have the right, if their by-laws so provide, to lend on a fixed premium, which, together with the interest charge eo nomine, exceeds the interest rate allowed to be charged by other lenders. Money Held Back. — In Hyland v. Phoenix Loan Assoc., 118 Iowa 401, it was held that, where a loan was nominally for one thousand five hundred dollars, with the usual concomitants of premiums and fines, and the security was given on the basis of a loan for that sum, and dated June 14, 1892, from which date interest and premiums were paid, but no money was received by the borrower until September 23 thereafter, when a draft of seven hundred and fifty dollars was delivered to the borrower, and the account was finally balanced on the following December 23 by delivering to the borrower another draft for five hundred and seventy-nine dollars, and charging him the sum of one hundred and seventy-one dollars for the monthly instalments which had accrued at that date, the transaction was not within the protection of the statute, and was treated as usurious.

Florida Rule as to Foreign Building and Loan Associations. — A foreign building and loan association is not permitted to charge interest at the rate of six per cent. and a fixed premium of six per cent. on loans to its members in the state; the contract being made subject to the laws of Florida. Skinner v. Southern Home Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Fla. 1903) 35 So. Rep. 67.

In Nebraska a contract which provides for six per cent. interest, payable monthly, on a loan of one thousand five hundred dollars, and also provides for a premium of one thousand five hundred dollars to be paid by the borrower by taking stock in that amount in a foreign corporation which has not complied with the statute laws regulating building and loan associations, and making monthly payments on such stock of nine dollars until the same is matured, is usurious. Anselme v. American Sav., etc., Assoc., 66 Neb. 520.

1069. 1. See Washington Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Fiske, 20 App. Cas. (D. C.) 514; Middle States Loan, etc., Co. v. Baker, 19 App. Cas. (D. C.) 1; National Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Burch, 124 Mich. 57, 83 Am. St. Rep. 311.

In West Virginia a building and loan association contract, requiring the payment of a fixed monthly premium on the loan for an indefinite time, is usurious. Harper v. Middle States Loan, etc., Co., 55 W. Va. 149.

In Laidley v. Cram, 96 Mo. App. 580, it was held that, unless such premiums, by an annual apportionment through all the years of the loan, when added to the five per cent. named in the bond, make the total interest charged in excess of what may be lawfully agreed on in writing, the loan is not usurious.

Where the charter of an association provides that the money shall be loaned to members upon competitive bidding, and premiums bid shall be paid in cash before the loan is made, a loan made under by-laws permitting the premium to be paid in monthly instalments at a greater rate than legal interest is usurious. Carpenter v. Lewis, 60 S. Car. 23.

2. A Lump Sum. — A building and loan association may fix a minimum premium, payable in advance or in periodical instalments, but such premium must be a lump sum, certain and definite, and not a percentage payable indefinitely at fixed periods. Prince v. Holston Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 55 W. Va. 19. See also to same effect Gray v. Baltimore Bldg., etc., Assoc., 48 W. Va. 164; Floyd v. National Loan, etc., Co., 49 W. Va. 327, 87 Am. St. Rep. 805; McConnell v. Cox, 50 W. Va. 469; Racer v. International Bldg., etc., Assoc., 159 Ind. 697; International Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Radebaugh, 159 Ind. 549; Coppes v. Union Nat. Bldg., etc., Assoc., 97 Va. 261, wherein it was held that, if the premium is only payable until the maturity of the loan, and that period is fixed by the bond and deed of trust securing it, the payment of the premium cannot be exacted beyond such period, and, therefore, the date of the maturity of the loan being fixed and definite, it renders the amount of

7. Premium Not to Be Credited on Foreclosure. — A premium originally deducted from the loan, being a voluntary payment by the applicant as an entrance fee and exacted by the association under its constitution and by-laws, the borrower is not entitled to any credit therefor on account of either principal or interest on foreclosure of his mortgage to the association. *State Mut. Bid Defined. — "A bid is an offer at an auction sale to pay a certain price for the property on sale. An offer may be made as well in writing as orally, and where there are a number of bids in writing for the same property that is offered at auction, unless they all bid the same amount on like terms, it cannot be said there were no competing bids at the sale." Edinger v. Missouri Guarantee, etc., Assoc., 83 Mo. App. 615. See also Hughes v. Farmers' Sav., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1897) 46 S. W. Rep. 362.

In Illinois. — Making a successful bid for a loan constitutes the bidder a member of the association, and such member is estopped from setting up the irregularities of the meeting where the bid was made. Lurton v. Jacksonville Loan, etc., Assoc., 187 Ill. 141, affirming 87 Ill. App. 395.

In Indiana, under Acts 1897, p. 287, § 9, it is competent and lawful for a borrower from the association to agree in writing upon a given rate of premium in addition to the interest to be paid upon each loan, without bidding, the premium thereof to be by instalments instead of in gross. The act further legalizes all such contracts previously made. International Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Wall, 153 Ind. 554; U. S. Savings, etc., Co. v. Rider, 155 Ind. 704. See also International Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Radebaugh, 159 Ind. 549.

In Iowa, under Code (1897), § 1898, the necessity for competitive bidding was removed, and by Acts of 27th Gen. Assem., c. 48, said section 1898 is made retroactive. Tootle v. Singer, 118 Iowa 533. See also Iowa Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Heidt, 107 Iowa 297, 70 Am. St. Rep. 197.

When By-law Fixing Minimum Premium Not Prejudicial. — The rule that the bidding must be free is not violated by a by-law fixing a minimum premium of twenty-five per cent., where the loan is awarded after competitive bidding, at an advance of thirty and thirty-one per cent. Dailey v. Saginaw Bldg., etc., Assoc., 133 Mich. 403.

In Missouri, under Rev. Stat. 1899, § 2812, building and loan associations were required to offer loans to members only on competitive bidding and in open meeting. Moore v. Cameron Bldg., etc., Assoc., 74 Mo. App. 468. See also Price v. Empire Loan Assoc., 75 Mo. App. 551; Sappington v. Etna Loan Co., 76 Mo. App. 242; *Barnes v. But see Cover v. Mercantile Bldg., etc., Assoc., 93 Mo. App. 302, wherein it was held that under Rev. Stat. 1899, § 1362, amending the former statute, instead of requiring competitive bids in open meeting, a fixed premium may now be required to be paid by a by-law of the association, and where such premium has been so fixed and a member borrows at a less premium, no complaint can be heard from the borrower on the ground of usury, though the association exacts a premium, which, added to the interest charged, would exceed the legal rate. Compare McDonnell v. De Soto Sav., etc., Assoc., 175 Mo. 250, 97 Am. St. Rep. 592, wherein it was held that such a by-law was subject to the defense of usury for the reason that the bidder was compelled to pay more than ten per cent., while there could have been no bidders under that rate because of the arbitrary minimum rate fixed by the by-law.

In West Virginia the statute allows the fixing of a minimum premium, which may be deducted from the loan in advance, or paid in periodical instalments, thus rendering the unjust, unequal, and deceptive practice of competitive bidding practically obsolete. Archer v. Baltimore Bldg., etc., Assoc., 45 W. Va. 37. See also Floyd v. National Loan, etc., Co., 49 W. Va. 327, 87 Am. St. Rep. 805.

Borrower Need Not Be Present. — The borrower need not himself be present at the meeting, but may submit his bid in writing. State v. Phenix Loan Assoc., 85 Mo. App. 477. See also Barnes v. Missouri Guarantee, etc., Assoc., 83 Mo. App. 466; Hilton v. Rosenheim, (Tenn. Ch. 1899) 52 S. W. Rep. 658; Collins v. Citizens' Bank, etc., Co., 121 Ga. 513.

Bid May Be Made by a Secretary on Authority in Writing from the stockholders, and it is not necessary that the stockholders should meet every time money is put up at auction, as open meetings of the board of directors answer the demands of the statute. Boleman v. Citizens' Loan, etc., Assoc., 114 Wis. 217. See also Farmer's Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Kent, 131 Ala. 246.

Effect of Voluntary Bid in Excess of Minimum Premium Required by By-law. — While a by-law which fixes a minimum premium below which bids will not be considered may render a transaction usurious as to one who was forced, by reason of the by-law, to bid a larger premium than he otherwise would have been required to pay, yet, where one voluntarily bids a premium greatly in excess of that required by the by-law, he cannot be heard to complain of the obnoxious by-law. U. S. Savings, etc., Co. v. Shain, 8 N. Dak. 136. See also Kittredge v. Chillicothe Loan, etc., Assoc., 103 Mo. App. 361.

Presumption that By-law as to Bidding Was Complied with. — The presumption is that a by-law relative to competitive bidding was complied with until the contrary is shown. Farmer's Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Ferguson, 69 Ark. 352. See also International Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Wall, 153 Ind. 554; Hawkeye State Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Johnston, 106 Iowa 218; U. S. Savings, etc., Co. v. Shain, 8 N. Dak. 136.

By Bidding by Officers or Agents. — In Nebraska loans by a building and loan association must be open to competitive bidding, and by-bidding by its officers or agents for the purpose of increasing the premium to be paid will not be tolerated. South Omaha Loan, etc., Assoc. v. Wirrick, 63 Neb. 598.

The Assent of the Borrower to Pay the Price Required does not make him a bidder within the meaning of the statute. Mykrantz v. Globe Bldg., etc., Assoc., 10 Ohio Cir. Dec. 250.

Where Balance of Fund Is Loaned at Same Amount as Highest Bid. — In Stewart v. Hamilton Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 47 S. W. Rep. 1106, it was held that, where the highest bidder takes as much of the money offered by the association as he desired, and such amounts as other bidders desired were knocked off to them at the same price, the rule against fixed premiums was not violated.

Member Has No Right to Sell and Transfer a Bid. — Meyer v. Chattanooga Sav., etc., Assoc. (Tenn. Ch. 1897) 48 S. W. Rep. 105.

When Borrower Cannot Complain of Violation of By-law. — Where a borrower has consented to pay a premium bid fixed contrary to a by-law requiring bids to be made in open meeting, he cannot complain of the violation of the by-law. McNamara v. Oakland Bldg., etc., Assoc., 131 Cal. 336.

In the Absence of a Statute, the exaction of a premium and its amount are matters that can be determined by the association itself. Eagle Sav., etc., Co. v. Samuels, 43 N. Y. App. Div. 386.

In South Dakota it is competent for the board of directors of an association to provide by a by-law that they (the board of directors) should have a power to fix a minimum rate of interest and premium at which money shall be loaned, since Laws 1893, c. 40, do not operate as a repeal of Laws 1885, c. 34, § 4. *Co-operative Sav., etc., Assoc. v. In Idaho the validity of the contract of a foreign building and loan association must be determined by the laws of that state as respects usury. Fidelity Sav. Assoc. v. Shea, 6 Idaho 405.

In Iowa a condition in the contract of a foreign association requiring all actions against the association to be brought in the state of its domicile is opposed both to the general principles of the general policy and the settled policy of that state. Field v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Assoc., 117 Iowa 185.

Intention of Parties. — In Ohio parties to a building and loan contract, living in different states, are at liberty to elect to be governed by the laws of either state; but where they make no choice in express terms, it becomes the duty of the court to determine from the evidence and circumstances attending the transaction which code of laws was intended by the parties to cover and govern their rights in the contract. Demland v. Pioneer Sav., etc., Co., 11 Ohio Cir. Dec. 249.

Contract as to Which Law Shall Govern. — Unless the contract is made with the intent and purpose of evading the usury laws, the parties may contract for the payment of interest according to the law of either the place of making the contract or of the place of its performance, without offending the laws of that state. Barratt v. Central Bldg., etc., Assoc., 130 Ala. 299. See also Pioneer Sav., etc., Co. v. Nonnemacher, 127 Ala. 521.

Where a foreign building and loan association advances money to a member residing in another state, they may agree that the transaction shall be governed by the laws of either state, and if the transaction should be valid in one state and invalid in another, the law will presume, in the absence of stipulations, that the parties contracted with reference to the laws of that state where their contract will be upheld. *U. In Kentucky it has been held that, where a borrowing member agrees to pay a building and loan association a certain amount as his contribution to make up his just proportion of the losses and running expenses of the concern, the fact that such agreed amount retained by the association was tainted with usury does not render the agreement invalid as a compromise of usury. *Cynthiana Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. 9. Grounds for Exempting Building Associations. — On the theory that such institutions are profit-sharing, and that the amounts directly paid for the use of money go indirectly to the benefit of the stockholders through the increase in the value of their shares, and where loans are confined to shareholders, good reasons exist for exempting such associations from the operation of the usury laws. *Iowa Sav., etc., Assoc. v. Borrowing members are not entitled to have dues paid on stock deducted from their indebtedness, but such dues stand as a credit until final adjustment. Steele v. New Park City Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Ky. 1903) 74 S. W. Rep. 177.

No Credit for Interest on Premiums.—Barry v. Friel, 114 Fed. Rep. 989.

Credit for Dues Paid in Ignorance of Insolvency.—The borrower is entitled to credit on his debt for dues paid in ignorance of the true financial condition of the association after it becomes insolvent. Johnston v. Grosvenor, 105 Tenn. 353.

Value of Stock.—Upon the insolvency of an association a borrower is not entitled to be credited with the value of his stock, as the amount due him on that account can only be ascertained by the liquidation and winding up of the association, at which time the assets will be disturbed pro rata. Gary v. Verity, 101 Mo. App. 586. See also Ottensoser v. Scott, (Fla. 1904) 37 So. Rep. 161.

In New York it has been held that a borrower is immediately entitled to have his note, secured by his stock as collateral, credited with the value of his stock, upon the insolvency of the association, if such value can be approximated. Insolvency Operates as a Modification Rather than Extinguishment of Contract.—Clarke v. Olson, 9 N. Dak. 364.

In Breed v. Ruoff, 54 N. Y. App. Div. 142, it was held that where there is a dividend presently due to the borrowing stockholder there is no good reason why he should be compelled to pay the full amount of the loan in the first instance. See also Robinson v. Spencer, 72 N. Y. App. Div. 493. Compare People v. New York Bldg. Loan Banking Co., 101 N. Y. App. Div. 484, wherein it was held that the rights and liabilities of borrowing stockholders should not be determined until the net assets are ascertained.

The fact that an association has gone out of business as a building and loan association furnishes no defense to the borrower against the payment of the loan made to him. Notes v. People's Bldg., etc., Assoc., 137 Ala. 360.

3. Settlement by Agreement.—Bowman v. Foster, etc., Hardware Co., 04 Fed. Rep. 592; Main St. Bldg., etc., Co. v. Richter, 9 Ohio Cir. Dec. 74.

1. BUILDING CONTRACTS. — See note 1.

1. 1. In Utah Lumber Co. v. James, 25 Utah 434, the court said: "A contract," says Mr. Lloyd, in his work on the Law of Building and Buildings (section 1), "is an agreement between two or more persons, for a valuable consideration, to do or not to do some particular thing; and when the undertaking refers to constructing, erecting, or repairing an edifice or other work or structure, it may be called a building contract."

3. 2. Wittenberg v. Mollyneaux, 60 Neb. 583, which was an action for damages for breach of the covenant.

4. 1. The Burden of a Covenant will not pass with the land in the absence of a privity of estate or tenure between the covenanting parties. Los Angeles Terminal Land Co. v. Muir, 136 Cal. 36.

A Covenant Not to Sell Intoxicating Liquor on the Granted Premises is a covenant which will run with the land. Spencer v. Stevens, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 18 Misc. (N. Y.) 112.

A Covenant Relating to the Use and Enjoyment of Land not only at the time of the making of the lease, but for the future also, is a covenant that runs with the land. Wright v. Heidorn, 6 Ohio Dec. 151.

2. A Covenant Restricting the Use of a Leasehold, which appears in the lease, will run with the land. Wright v. Heidorn, 6 Ohio Dec. 151, 4 Ohio N. P. 124.

3. Rogers v. Hosegood, (1900) 2 Ch. 388, 69 L. J. Ch. 652, 83 L. T. N. S. 186, 48 W. R. 659.

Benefit of Covenant. — "If the covenant were one intended to benefit the land, it was considered to be incident to and run with the land, and therefore whoever might become the owner of the land would also become entitled to the benefit of the covenant." Los Angeles Terminal Land Co. v. Muir, 136 Cal. 36.

5. 8. A Covenant Against Building Beyond a Certain Height was regarded as creating an easement of light and aid in favor of the covenantee's land, in Meigs v. Milligan, 177 Pa. St. 66. See also Chase v. Walker, 167 Mass. 293; Brown v. O'Brien, 168 Mass. 484.

6. 6. A Covenant Against the Erection of Any House or "part of or projection from" does not prevent the building of a wall. Clark v. Lee, 185 Mass. 223.

A Structure Set Up on Posts, one portion of which is used as a photograph gallery, is a building within the meaning of a covenant not to erect any building. Evans v. Mary A. Riddle Co., (N. J. 1899) 43 Atl. Rep. 894.

Not More than One House to Be Erected. — Where the purchaser of a lot of land, subject to a restriction that "not more than one house should be erected thereon," commenced to erect a double tenement house on the plot, one tenement being on the ground floor and the other on the floor above, and there being no internal communication between the tenements, each having its own front door in a common entrance archway, it was held that the building constituted two distinct houses structurally separated in all respects, and that there was a breach of the restriction. Ilford Park v. Jacobs, (1903) 2 Ch. 522, 89 L. T. N. S. 295. And such a restriction is violated by the erection of a block of residential flats having a common public entrance-hall, corridors, lifts, and staircases. Rogers v. Hosegood, (1900) 2 Ch. 388, 83 L. T. N. S. 186.

7. 1. For Restriction as to Cost of Building see Holford v. Acton Urban Dist. Council, (1898) 2 Ch. 240, 78 L. T. N. S. 829.

Prohibiting Windows. — A covenant not to place any "lights" overlooking plaintiff's land in buildings "adjoining" same was enforced where the buildings containing the lights were not contiguous to the plaintiff's property, but were set back several yards from the dividing line. Ind v. Hamblin, 81 L. T. N. S. 779, 48 W. R. 238.

7. c. POSITION ON LOT OR DISTANCE FROM STREET. — See note 2.
 Projecting Porches, Windows, Etc. — See note 3.
 8. d. PURPOSE FOR WHICH TO BE USED. — See note 1.

Covenant for Dwelling Houses of a Certain Cost.
 — Roberts v. Burke, 15 Montg. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 109.

Restrictions as to Height of Building. — Where a covenantor agreed not to build a wall then standing on his premises any higher, he could not build an entirely new and higher wall just inside the line of the original wall. Chase v. Walker, 167 Mass. 293.

A covenant not to erect any building or obstruction within a certain distance of the street "except a bath house and privy and walls or fences not exceeding eight feet in height," was enforced and was held to have been violated by the construction of a bath house over eight feet high as an addition to the dwelling of the defendant. Meigs v. Milligan, 177 Pa. St. 66.

A Covenant Against the Erection of More than One Building on the "lot hereby conveyed," where the deed conveys two lots, does not prevent the erection of a building on each lot. Walker v. Renner, 60 N. J. Eq. 493.

Such a covenant is infringed by placing a row of flats upon the land representing the burden of the covenant. Rogers v. Hosegood, (1900) 2 Ch. 388, 69 L. J. Ch. 652, 83 L. T. N. S. 186, 48 W. R. 659.

A Covenant to Erect Private Dwellings Only is broken by the putting up of a flat house. Skillman v. Smathesturst, 57 N. J. Eq. 1. Or a hotel. Hemsley v. Marlborough Hotel Co., 62 N. J. Eq. 164, affirmed 63 N. J. Eq. 804. Or by constructing a railroad. Long Eaton Recreation Grounds Co. v. Midland R. Co., 71 L. J. K. B. 74, 85 L. T. N. S. 278, 50 W. R. 120.

On the other hand, tenement and apartment houses have been held not to violate an agreement to build "dwellings" only. Roth v. Jung, 79 N. Y. App. Div. 1; Holt v. Fleischman, 75 N. Y. App. Div. 593. But see Levy v. Schreyer, 27 N. Y. App. Div. 282, reversing 19 Misc. (N. Y.) 227, wherein a building containing three housekeeping apartments was held not to be a private dwelling.

A Covenant Against a Tenement House is not violated by the erection of an apartment house. Kitchings v. Brown, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 37 Misc. (N. Y.) 439; White v. Collins P'dg., etc., Co., 82 N. Y. App. Div. 1.

A Covenant to Build a House of Certain Specifications cannot be construed as a covenant not to erect buildings which do not conform to the specifications. Hurley v. Brown, 44 N. Y. App. Div. 480.

A Covenant to Permit No Construction on the Ocean Side of Certain Property other than a pier is not illegal, and the covenant being part of a general plan of improvement, the case falls within the "exceptional class of cases discussed by Chief Justice Beasley in Brewer v. Marshall, 19 N. J. Eq. 537." Atlantic City v. Atlantic City Steel Pier Co., 62 N. J. Eq. 139.

Covenant Against Use Distinguished from Covenant Against Construction. — Longworth v. Deane, 15 N. Y. App. Div. 461.

7. 2. Distance from Street. — Hooper v. Bromet, 89 L. T. N. S. 37; Skillman v. Smathesturst, 57 N. J. Eq. 1; Evans v. Mary A. Riddle Co., (N. J. 1899) 43 Atl. Rep. 894; Hemsley v. Marlborough Hotel Co., 65 N. J. Eq. 167; Roth v. Jung, 79 N. Y. App. Div. 1; Holt v. Fleischman, 75 N. Y. App. Div. 593; Levy v. Schreyer, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 19 Misc. (N. Y.) 227; Evans v. New Auditorium Pier Co., (N. J. 1904) 58 Atl. Rep. 191; Meigs v. Milligan, 177 Pa. St. 66.

Construction of Word "Adjoining." — A house twenty feet distant from a boundary fence is not "adjoining," within the meaning of a restriction against the insertion of lights in "any buildings adjoining" the premises adjacent to such boundary fence. Ind v. Hamblin, 84 L. T. N. S. 168, reversing 48 W. R. 238, 81 L. T. N. S. 779.

A Wall Projecting from a Building does not come within the term "building," as used in a covenant, providing that no building or any parts thereof or projection therefrom shall be built within a stipulated number of feet from a certain line. Clarke v. Lee, 185 Mass. 223.

A Covenant in An Agreement Which Does Not in Terms Express the Direction in Which a House Must Face, but merely provides that only dwelling houses of a certain height shall be erected on the lots of the parties to the agreement, does not, by implication, restrict the erection of a dwelling house which does not face the street between the lots of such parties. Gubbins v. Peterson, 21 N. Y. App. Div. 241, affirmed 163 N. Y. 583.

3. Projecting Structures. — Skinner v. Allison, 54 N. Y. App. Div. 47, 8 N. Y. Annot. Cas. 155; Levy v. Schreyer, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 19 Misc. (N. Y.) 227.

Where, in a restrictive covenant against building, an exception was made in the case of a bay window, it was held that the fact that an addition built by the covenantor differed from the ordinary bay window in that it rested on the ground did not take the structure without the exception. Keith v. Goldsmith, 194 Ill. 488.

A Projection Will Not Be Restrained where it appears that other grantees have ignored the conditions of the covenant. Hemsley v. Marlborough Hotel Co., 65 N. J. Eq. 167.

8. 1. Allowing Temporary Explorations for Oil is not a violation of a covenant that the land whereon such explorations are being made shall be devoted exclusively as a part of the campus of a university, and that no buildings shall be erected except those devoted to university purposes, where the educational institution upon the premises is to be continued and where the general purpose of the original grant will not be defeated, but may be materially advanced in the pecuniary results to be derived from the explorations. Los Angeles University v. Swarth, 107 Fed. Rep. 798, 46 C. C. A. 647.

A Covenant to Use Premises as a Saloon Only,

8. 2. Nuisances. — See note 2.
 9. 3. Prohibited Trades or Occupations. — See note 1.
 10. IV. ENFORCEMENT IN EQUITY — 1. General Rule. — See note 3.

in a lease, is not broken by ceasing to use for any purpose. McCormick v. Stephany, 57 N. J. Eq. 257.

A Covenant Permitting the Erection of a Pier, but restricting the sale of commodities thereon, is broken by giving entertainments on the pier for entrance to which a fee is imposed. Atlantic City v. Atlantic City Steel Pier Co., 62 N. J. Eq. 139.

A Covenant Relating Solely to the First Building Erected on Certain Land within twenty years, and providing that such building shall be a private dwelling of brick or stone, not less than three stories in height, planned and adapted for the residence of private families, etc., and that a tenement, flat, or apartment house is not such a building, does not prevent any one from using the building in any way he pleases, or from removing the building thus erected and erecting upon the premises a building that can be used for any purpose. Kurtz v. Potter, 44 N. Y. App. Div. 262, affirmed 167 N. Y. 586.

A Covenant to Erect a Substantial Two-story Dwelling, to cost not less than a certain price, cannot be construed as a covenant that nothing but a dwelling house should be maintained on the land, and accordingly the erection of a three-story building costing more than the stipulated price, and containing stores on the first floor, and flats or apartments above, will not be restrained. Hurley v. Brown, 44 N. Y. App. Div. 480.

The Construction of a Building with Stores Therein is not a breach of a covenant that "no part of said premises shall be so used or occupied as injuriously to affect the use, occupation, or value of the adjoining or adjacent premises for residence purposes." Hurley v. Brown, 54 N. Y. App. Div. 619.

A Covenant to Use a House as a Private Residence Only is broken by taking lodgers from a nearby school. Hobson v. Tulloch, (1898) 1 Ch. 424, 67 L. J. Ch. 205, 78 L. T. N. S. 224, 46 W. R. 331.

The Erection of a Block of Residential Flats violates a restriction against the erection of any house except such as is "adapted for and used as and for a private residence only." Rogers v. Hosegood, (1900) 2 Ch. 388, 83 L. T. N. S. 186.

The Erection of a Railway Embankment is a breach of a covenant not to erect any building other than a private dwelling house. Long Eaton Recreation Grounds Co. v. Midland R. Co., (1902) 2 K. B. 574, affirming 85 L. T. N. S. 278.

A Covenant to Use for Hotel or Club Purposes Only was held to be valid. Los Angeles Terminal Land Co. v. Muir, 136 Cal. 36.

A Covenant Not to Maintain an Alley running through the premises for "ingress or egress to rear buildings" is not broken by permitting a driveway along the rear of the premises for the delivery of supplies to a hotel standing thereon. Leonard v. Hotel Majestic Co., (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 17 Misc. (N. Y.) 229.

In the Absence of an Express Restriction, One

Should Not Be Implied. — Holford v. Acton Urban Dist. Council, (1898) 2 Ch. 240, 78 L. T. N. S. 829.

S. 2. The Establishment of a School for Boys was held to violate a covenant not to carry on a business whereby there might be caused any offensive deposit or "disagreeable noise, or nuisance." Wauton v. Coppard, (1899) 1 Ch. 92, 68 L. J. Ch. 8, 79 L. T. N. S. 467, 47 W. R. 72.

The Running of Railroad Trains is a breach of a covenant not to carry on a noisy trade. Long Eaton Recreation Grounds Co. v. Midland R. Co., 85 L. T. N. S. 278, affirmed (1902) 2 K. B. 574.

9. 1. Restrictions Against Particular Trades — A covenant not to use premises for a blacksmith shop will be enforced. Wright v. Heidorn, 6 Ohio Dec. 151, 4 Ohio N. P. 124.

A restrictive agreement against the sale of liquor is not void as against public policy. Sullivan v. Kohlenberg, 31 Ind. App. 215; Uihlein v. Matthews, 57 N. Y. App. Div. 476, reversed 172 N. Y. 154.

A covenant not to use property for hotel purposes is not void as against public policy. Wittenberg v. Mollyneaux, 60 Neb. 583.

A covenant not to manufacture certain articles is valid. American Strawboard Co. v. Haldeman Paper Co., 83 Fed. Rep. 619, 54 U. S. App. 416.

A Covenant Not to Use Premises for a Saloon is valid and not in restraint of trade. Star Brewery Co. v. Primas, 163 Ill. 652.

A Covenant Against the Erection of "Any Beer House or shop or any hotel of less annual value than fifty pounds" does not apply to an ordinary shop, but merely prohibits the erection of a beer house or beer shop, or of a hotel the rental of which is so low that its principal use is likely to be for the sale of beer rather than for the reception of guests. Formby v. Barker, (1903) 2 Ch. 539, 89 L. T. N. S. 249.

Restriction Against "Building" Forbids "Use." — A restriction that no house or shop for the sale of malt or spirituous liquors shall be "built" on the land is violated by the use for such purpose of a house which the purchaser was allowed to build without interference. Webb v. Fagotti, 79 L. T. N. S. 683.

Where There Is a General Plan the covenant can be enforced only by the owner of property included within the plan. Hemsley v. Marlborough Hotel Co., 62 N. J. Eq. 167.

Presumption that Building Scheme Was Intended. — The court will not infer that a building scheme was intended where the contract leaves undefined the property to be bound by the conditions which are to apply, and does not bind the vendor to observe the conditions in the meantime as to property remaining unsold, especially where the vendor has the right to modify the conditions as to the unsold part. Osborne v. Bradley, (1903) 2 Ch. 446, 89 L. T. N. S. 11.

Stipulation Not Formulated at Date of Original Sale. — Where an estate is sold in parcels at successive sales and subject to restrictive stipulations contained in a building scheme, a purchaser at a prior sale cannot enforce against a purchaser at a subsequent sale stipulations in respect of property subsequently sold which were not formulated or promulgated at the date of the contract under which he claims. Rowell v. Satchell, (1903) 2 Ch. 212, 89 L. T. N. S. 267.

Effect of Conveyance Departing from Scheme of Which Purchaser Has Notice. — A purchaser with notice of a building scheme is bound by restrictions of which he has notice, and accidental departures in the form of the conveyance, purporting to relieve him from observance of the restrictions, are ineffective, and, conversely, are no bar to his title to sue. Rowell v. Satchell, (1903) 2 Ch. 212, 89 L. T. N. S. 267.

2. Restrictions on Land Sold in Behalf of Land Retained. — Rogers v. Hosegood, 69 L. J. Ch. 59, 81 L. T. N. S. 515; Osborne v. Bradley, (1903) 2 Ch. 446, 89 L. T. N. S. 11. See also Hemsley v. Marlborough Hotel Co., 62 N. J. Eq. 164.

3. Restrictions on Land Retained in Behalf of Land Sold. — Holt v. Fleischman, 75 N. Y. App. Div. 593.

Where No Restriction Was Placed on the Land Retained in Behalf of That Sold, and where, also, the transactions are not part of a general plan, the owner of the lot first sold cannot enforce against one who afterwards purchased an adjoining lot a restriction placed on such adjoining lot in favor of the common grantor. Roberts v. Scull, 58 N. J. Eq. 396; Hemsley v. Marlborough Hotel Co., 62 N. J. Eq. 164.

15. 3. Positive Act Enforced. — Holt v. Fleischman, 75 N. Y. App. Div. 593.

4. "Where There Are Negative Covenants" the court has, speaking generally, no discretion to consider the balance of convenience or matters of that nature, but is bound to give effect to the contract between the parties, unless the plaintiff seeking to enforce the covenant has, by his own misconduct, delay, laches, or the like, disentitled himself to sue; that is to say, has raised against himself a personal equity." Osborne v. Bradley, (1903) 2 Ch. 446, 89 L. T. N. S. 11.

15. 5. Circumstances and Conduct of Parties Considered. — Ewertsen v. Gerstenberg, 186 Ill. 349.

16. 1. Laches, Acquiescence, Etc. — See also Osborne v. Bradley, (1903) 2 Ch. 446, 89 L. T. N. S. 11.

The fact that a covenantor entered a saloon and drank liquor there does not amount to an acquiescence in a breach of the covenant not to maintain such saloon. Star Brewery Co. v. Primas, 163 Ill. 652.

A long-continued disregard of a restrictive covenant on the part of a covenantee will constitute a waiver or release of the covenant. Hepworth v. Pickles, (1900) 1 Ch. 108, 69 L. J. Ch. 55, 81 L. T. N. S. 818, 48 W. R. 184.

2. Subsequent Deed by Vendor. — Where a vendor had conveyed property to the plaintiff by a deed containing a restrictive covenant, the covenant was not annulled by a subsequent quit-claim deed of a larger piece of property, including the land conveyed by the first deed, and given for the purpose of quieting the plaintiff's title. Uihlein v. Matthews, 57 N. Y. App. Div. 476, reversed 172 N. Y. 154.

17. 2. Change of Circumstances. — Ewertsen v. Gerstenberg, 186 Ill. 349; Roth v. Jung, 79 N. Y. App. Div. 1; Deeves v. Constable, 87 N. Y. App. Div. 352; Leonard v. Hotel Majestic Co., (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 17 Misc. (N. Y.) 229.

Change of circumstance is not a defense unless it appears that the change has been occasioned through some act of the covenantee or those claiming through him. Star Brewery Co. v. Primas, 163 Ill. 652.

Change in Neighborhood Not Defeating Right. — "The right of a person to enforce a restrictive covenant by injunction could not be defeated by mere change in the character of the neighborhood, unless there was an equity against him arising from his acts or conduct in sanctioning or knowingly permitting such change as to render it unjust for him to seek relief by injunction." Osborne v. Bradley, (1903) 2 Ch. 446, 89 L. T. N. S. 11.

7. Damage Need Not Be Proved. — Star Brewery Co. v. Primas, 163 Ill. 652; Walker v. McNulty, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 19 Misc. (N. Y.) 701.

Nominal Damages. — Judgment had been rendered for the defendant on the ground that the plaintiff had suffered no damage by the breach of covenant. The judgment was reversed, the court holding that the violation of the covenant entitled the plaintiff to nominal damages at least. Skinner v. Allison, 54 N. Y. App. Div. 47, 8 N. Y. Annot. Cas. 155.

18. 2. Wills. — By the words "the bulk of my estate" it is clear the testator referred to his estate both real and personal. Cole v. Proctor, (Tenn. Ch. 1899) 54 S. W. Rep. 674.

3. Bulls Not Included in Mortgage of Steers. — "Bulls and cows are not covered by a mortgage which undertakes to include only one and two year old steers." Wyman v. Herard, 9 Okla. 87.

20. 1. Burthen — Taxation. — "In each instance it was recited in the deed given to the purchaser that the conveyance of the city was made and the rights of the purchaser thereunder were conferred 'subject only to such assessments and burthens as shall be in common with other lot holders in the said city.' The term 'assessment' is often used as a synonym of 'taxes.' Indeed, one of the definitions of this term given by Webster is 'a tax.' But even if this word, as used in the deed, does not necessarily refer to taxation, the word burthen, which is also therein employed, is certainly sufficiently comprehensive to include municipal taxes. Taken all together, the language adopted is clearly broad enough to embrace every burden then existing or which might thereafter be lawfully imposed upon other landowners in the city." Wells v. Savannah, 181 U. S. 541, affirming 107 Ga. 1.

31. Effect of Establishing Prima Facie Case. — See note 1.33. 3. In Criminal Cases. — See note 2.34. Reason — Admissions Not Effective. — See note 1.37. Distinction — Going Forward. — See note 2.39. VI. GOING FORWARD WITH EVIDENCE — 1. Generally. — See note 2.

in an action to enjoin an easement by the public therein. Clifton v. Weston, 54 W. Va. 250.

Absence of consent need not be proved where the allegation of the negative was held not to be necessary to entitle the plaintiff to recover. In an action to recover certain money deposited by the plaintiff for the defendant under an agreement that the deposit was not to be drawn without the plaintiff's consent, and the plaintiff alleged that the same had been withdrawn without his consent, the court declared, notwithstanding the negative allegation, that the burden of showing consent was on the defendant. Dirks v. California Safe Deposit, etc., Co., 136 Cal. 84.

30. 1. See Clifton v. Weston, 54 W. Va. 260.

2. When Defendant Has Burden of Proving Negative — Illustrations. — No authority to indorse; in an action on a check. Jackson Paper Mfg. Co. v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 99 Ill. App. 114, 199 Ill. 151, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 29-31.

Damage could not have been caused otherwise; defense of sea peril in an action for goods found to have been damaged at the end of the voyage. The Dunbritton, 38 U. S. App. 369, 73 Fed. Rep. 352.

Court without jurisdiction; in an action on a promissory note. Pyron v. Ruohs, 120 Ga. 1060.

In an action on four promissory notes, the making of the notes was admitted, and it was alleged by way of a defense that there was a tender of payment on condition of surrendering certain collateral deposited as security for the payment of the notes, and for no other purpose. It was held that the allegation "and for no other purpose" put upon the defendant the burden of proving a negative. Stokes v. Stokes, 155 N. Y. 581, affirmed (N. Y. Super. Ct. Gen. T.) 11 Misc. (N. Y.) 716.
